AMERICAN MILLIONS IN MEXICO HARD HIT

Gov. Gonzales of Chihuahua Declares Selling Out of Country by Piecemeal Must Stop.

SAYS OFFICIALS GOT BIG SUMS

Exploitation by Foreigners Was Making the Republic a Nation of Paupers, He Believes—Invites Competition.

CHIHUAHUA, Mexico, June 15.—Reforms immediately affecting millions of dollars' worth of American property in Mexico were announced to-night. Gov. Abraham Gonzales declared that under the new régime foreign concessions which might be regarded as monopolies would not be extended or renewed, and that every legal effort would be made to restrict foreign monopolies now existing in Chihuahua, one of the richest States in minerals and timber. The properties are largely controlled by American, British and German interests. The Americans are the largest holders.

"All Americans who grieved at the downfall of the Diaz administration will find that their grief was well founded," said Gov. Gonzales. "We do not intend to take away the riches of any foreigner who legally holds them, but we realize that under the Diaz system the granting of concessions, with their ruinous payments of large sums of money to Mexican politicians, was a virtual selling out of Mexico.

"For years Mexico has been exploited by foreigners, until the great body of the people have nothing. We were on the verge of becoming a nation of paupers. Now all special privileges shall cease if we can accomplish it.

"We hope to maintain the friendliest relations with Americans, and we shall invite all foreign capital to come in, but there will be no more selling out of the country piecemeal. We will invite competition, not monopoly. If American capital wishes to come here, it must be prepared to compete with Mexican capital. No exclusive privileges will be given foreigners.

"What is known as company stores, in towns where large numbers of men are employed, will be abolished. This will mean that working people will have the benefit of buying from whom they please. Of course, we do not intend to question the right of concessions legally held, but we shall refuse to encourage or extend unjust ones.

"Undoubtedly foreigners, including Americans, who profited so greatly under the Diaz system, will be hard hit by the new era, but the determination to upbuild Mexico and to improve conditions of her poverty-stricken people will, I am sure, receive the hearty support of the great body of Americans."

Gov. Gonzales stated that beginning to-day the export duty on cattle shipped into the United States would be removed. It has been decided by the Government to allow Gen. Orozco to bring his insurrecto army into Chihuahua with their arms. The city, while the insurrectos are here, will be protected by a Commission of Public Order, with which the Federal troops will have nothing to do.

SMUGGLING IN FULL SWING.

Revolution Has Made the Rio Grande a Contraband Paradise.

Special to The New York Times.

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, June 15.—Taking advantage of the recent disturbances in Mexico, smugglers along the Rio Grande have been in a contraband paradise during the past few months, says H. C. S. Smith, Deputy Collector of Customs here.

"Many barrels and kegs of mescal, thousands of cigars and cigarettes, large quantities of Mexican drawnwork, and numbers of horses and mules," he says, "have been smuggled across the border since the outbreak of hostilities and the consequent disturbances along the border.

"In addition, large quantities of cigarettes and cigars have been found in possession of American refugees who were ignorant of the customs laws of the United States. Many of these have doubtless been misled by Mexican merchants into thinking that they could bring such dutiable articles home with them. The law allows only fifty cigars to each traveler.

"When the revolution was in full swing many of the loyal stockmen and horse breeders drove their herds and horses across the Rio Grande for safety. The customs officers allowed them to recover these animals, but many smugglers took advantage of this leniency and drove horses and mules to American soil, ostensibly for the same protection. Some of these mules and horses reached the interior.

"As this month concludes the fiscal year, much of the smuggled goods the Customs Inspectors have intercepted will be sent to San Antonio to be sold at auction."

DIRECTED HIS OWN DEATH.

Col. Morelos Was Shot by Rebels Just as a Pardon Came.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., June 15.—The details of the execution of Col. Morelos by rebels at Culiacan were to-day revealed for the first time by Diego Redo, the exiled Governor of Sinaloa, who pictured the slain Federal Commander as a gallant victim of fate. He instructed the rebels how to execute him and died a few minutes before a pardon arrived.

According to Gov. Redo, a spirit of revenge harbored by some of the victorious rebel chieftains at Culiacan caused them to violate a pledge to safeguard the lives of Morelos and his lieutenant, Major Del Coral.

"There was no false bravery in Col. Morelos," said Gov. Redo. "He permitted the rebels to blindfold both his eyes and waited for the volley. There was some delay. The squad assigned to execute was unused to such a scene. Col. Morelos, knowing that there was some confusion, raised his hand and removed the bandage.

"'There is no necessity for making a mistake here,' he said to the commanding officer. 'Order the crowd away, select a certain number of men as your firing squad, and then direct them to fire as you drop your sabre. Why at should my body be filled full of bullets by indiscriminate firing, when one or three or six will do the work?'

"Col. Morelos then said: 'I'm ready.'

RAN OFF WITH DEAD BABY.

Frantic Mother Hurried to a Physician Carrying It in Her Arms.

Leaving her 2-year-old son Edward, who was just recovering from an attack of sickness, in a crib by an open window in the rear of her home on the second floor of 118 East 119th Street, Mrs. Harold Solnin went to a front window to watch for her husband's return from work yesterday evening. When she returned to the rear room a few moments later the crib was empty. Rushing to the window, she looked out. In the yard below she saw a knot of neighbors, grouped around an ambulance surgeon, who was bending over her child.

She ran down just as the ambulance surgeon announced that the child was dead. Neighbors tried to keep her away from the body, but she refused to believe that the boy was dead, and, despite their efforts, picked up the little body and rushed away with it.

Policeman Plate, returning from the telephone where he had called for the ambulance from the Harlem Hospital, was unable to find either the mother or the child's body. He reported the case to the East 126th Street police station. Just then a telephone message was received there from Dr. George Froelich of 70 East 120 Street, two blocks from the Solnin home. He said a woman with a dead child in her arms had just hurried into the office, begging him to save its life. When he told her the child was dead the woman swooned.

CLUB FOR CABLE COMPANIES.

Britain Will Propose State-Owned Line If Rates Are Not Cut.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, June 15.—Cheaper cable rates was the subject of discussion at to-day's meeting of the Imperial Conference.

Sir Joseph Ward, Premier of New Zealand, said there was a feeling in the overseas countries that the present rates were due to a ring or combination in the cable world, and Sir Wilfrid Laurier of Canada pointed out that all the trouble which existed at present was in connection with the Atlantic cables. There was, he said, an impression amounting almost to a conviction in Canada that a combination existed with regard to the cables.

Postmaster General Herbert Samuel supported a resolution to the effect that it was desirable to obtain a reduction of cable rates throughout the British Empire. After referring to the consent of the principal Atlantic cable companies to a reduction of 50 per cent. for deferred dispatches and expressing hope that with the approval of the foreign administrations interested new rates would shortly be introduced, he announced that steps were being taken with a view to obtaining a reduction of press rates.

After a discussion of the question of nationalizing an Atlantic cable with the object of cheapening rates to Australasia, Mr. Samuel suggested that in view of the probability of a reduction in rates the Government would not at the present time be justified in undertaking a large capital expenditure and the risk of loss that would be involved, but he moved a resolution, which was passed unanimously, "that in the event of considerable reductions in transatlantic cable rates not being effected in the near future, it is desirable that the laying of a State-owned cable between England and Canada be considered by a subsidiary conference."

BASEBALL PLAYER SHOT.

New Orleans Actor Finds Arthur Brown with His Wife at Albany.

ALBANY, June 15.—Arthur Brown, first baseman of the Albany State League baseball team, is in a hospital to-night with four bullet wounds received at the hands of John V. McStea, a New Orleans actor. The shooting occurred at a rooming house on Pearl Street.

McStea arrived in Albany to-night and proceeded directly to the house, where he asked to see "Mrs. Brown." In a statement made after the shooting he said he heard his wife's voice up stairs and rushed to the hall above. When he entered the room, he declared, he was attacked by Brown, while his wife cowered in a corner. Getting the worst of the struggle, McStea says he drew his revolver and fired at Brown. Two shots took effect in the abdomen, one in the arm, and another in the leg. A policeman who heard the shots from the street rushed up and arrested McStea. His wife is being held as a witness.

Brown's home is in Wilkesbarre, Penn., where he was born 26 years ago. He started his professional baseball career with the Wilkesbarre Club of the New York State League. He later played with the Detroit American League team, Montreal Eastern League club, and the Trenton Tri-State League team, from which he was purchased by Albany two years ago. His playing to-day was a feature of the Albany-Scranton game.

WENT TO YALE; FORGIVEN.

Mr. Banks, Who Insisted His Son Should Go to Columbia, Relents.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., June 15.—Charles Lenox Banks, a New York City lawyer, has sent word to his son, Charles Lenox Banks, Jr., that he has been forgiven for going to Yale. The father will come here to see his son get a diploma next week.

For four generations the Bankses were Yale men, but Mr. Banks quarreled with the Faculty over entrance examination tests, and went to Columbia, from which he was graduated in 1882. He promised to send his son to that institution. When the young man insisted on coming to Yale he refused assistance. The Yale men in the family saw the boy through.

Mr. Banks has relented on hearing that his son has won scholarship honors.

Young Banks has been so deeply affected at the reconciliation that he has consented to go to the Columbia Law School.

100 DROWNED AT TRIEST.

Terrific Storm Causes Great Damage —Crew of Steamer Perish.

TRIESTE, June 15.—A storm of hurricane force raged during the night, causing many deaths and much damage to shipping. Early to-day the bodies of twenty victims had been recovered at this point alone.

It is feared that fishing smacks with crews totaling forty men which were at sea last night were lost. The ships in the roads were severely damaged. A Greek vessel with its crew of twelve foundered.

Minor damages to craft are reported from other points on the Adriatic.

VIENNA, June 15.—According to reports received here the loss of life at Triest by the hurricane will total 100.

FOUR LINES RAISE WAGES OF SEAMEN

QUICK END OF STRIKE LIKELY

Little Effect from the Sailors' Action, but Southampton Coal Porters' Strike Has Upset Schedules.

LONDON, June 15.—The important development in the general shipping strike to-day was the concession of an advance of $2.50 a month in wages to all employes involved by the White Star and Canadian Pacific lines, an example which was followed later by the Holt and another line at Liverpool.

The present outlook is that the strike will come to a speedy end owing to the men's lack of organization or their indifference, in addition to the plentiful supply of foreigners who are ready to take their places.

At several of the large ports no inconvenience because of the strike has yet been caused, and nowhere has there been any real accession to the strike movement. On the contrary, there were several instances to-day of crews signing without protest.

It is believed that the Cunard Company will next week concede a similar advance to that given by the White Star and Canadian Pacific Lines, and that this course is likely to be generally followed by ship owners.

It is stated that the concession made will enable the Teutonic, the Baltic, and the Empress of Ireland to sail on time. The $2.50 increase per month is half the amount that the men demanded.

During the run from Southampton to Queenstown the vessel's mammoth engines worked most satisfactorily.

SOUTHAMPTON, June 15.—The coal porters' strike while it lasted so interfered with the sailing schedules of the ships of the International Mercantile Marine Company that a rearrangement of dates has been made necessary.

The New York, due to sail on Saturday, and the White Star liner Majestic, scheduled to sail on June 21, have been withdrawn. The St. Paul will take the place of the Majestic, sailing on the 21st.

ANTWERP, June 15.—The Atlantic Transport steamer Marquette sailed for Boston to-day with an ample crew.

The Red Star Line officials say they are assured of enough firemen and trimmers to permit the sailing of the Finland for New York on Saturday.

One hour before the Marquette sailed the firemen walked off the vessel in a body. Their places, however, were immediately taken by new men.

HAMBURG, June 15.—The seamen's organization here has notified the strikers at Antwerp that the Germans will not participate in an international strike, because their demands have been satisfied.

The German organization, however, will prevent the engagement of German sailors for British, Belgian, or Dutch vessels.

Matthew Tearle, Secretary of the American branch of the Sailors' and Firemen's Union, said yesterday that he had received dispatches from the International Executive Committee of the union in London containing the order for the international strike.

Secretary Tearle repeated his statement of Wednesday that the men receiving the strike order in ports outside of Great Britain would complete their round trips and strike only when they reached their home ports.

Representatives of the coastwise steamship companies talked yesterday as if they did not take the threat of a general strike of the coastwise seamen seriously. At the offices of the Old Dominion, Morgan, and other lines it was said that nothing in the nature of demands had been made. Committees of the men had called and made a number of requests. The main request was that the companies apply to the union when they wanted men instead of to the boarding masters, as the keepers of the sailors' boarding houses are called. In other words, this was a request for the closed shop.

The General Manager of one of the companies said he was investigating conditions at the boarding houses, charges having been made that sailors had been victimized in some of them by a system of petty graft. He had found nothing of that kind so far. He added:

"We have got the men by the quickest way, and most of the crews are union men, but we could not bind ourselves to go to the union to find men in a hurry."

The general manager of another company said:

"The conditions under which the men work are better than they ever were before. If there are any grievances we are ready to remedy them, but we cannot bind ourselves to the closed shop, which is really what the union is after, though we do not care if all the men in the crews are union men."

TAFT DISCUSSES PATRONAGE.

Replies to Charges by Offering to Give Up Appointive Power.

WASHINGTON, June 15.—The first authoritative answer to the charge that the Administration uses the appointive power of the President to further political ends was made by President Taft to-day. In conversation with friends the President declared that he would be delighted if Congress would take from his hands the duty of naming Collectors of Internal Revenue, United States Marshals, and Postmasters of the second and third classes.

The President told his visitors that nothing which Congress could do would be received more gladly by him than this act. He would be happy, he said, if Congress would extend the civil service law to include such offices. Practically every post up to the grade of United States District Attorney, the President told his callers, should be put under the civil service regulations.

The President has recommended such action to Congress in past messages, and he said he expects to make similar recommendations in the future. He declared his belief that there is a lot of "hypocrisy" in the charges made by Senators and others that a political machine has been built up through appointments to such offices.

MONEY POWER DRIVES MASSES FROM CHURCH

Rev. John P. Peters of St. Michael's P. E. Church sounds a note of warning in Next Sunday's Times.

DU PONT ROMANCE MAY END IN DIVORCE

John Bancroft, Jr., Who Wed Daughter of Powder Man, Brings Suit in Delaware.

WAS A RUNAWAY MARRIAGE

Mrs. Bancroft, Estranged from Divorced Mother, Is Suing for Funds Under Trust Agreement.

Special to The New York Times.

WILMINGTON, Del., June 15.—John Bancroft, Jr., has filed a libel for divorce against his wife, Madelene du Pont Bancroft. The husband, 26 years old, is the only son of John Bancroft, secretary of the Joseph Bancroft & Sons' Company, textile manufacturers. The wife, 23, is the eldest daughter of Alfred I. du Pont, Vice President of the du Pont Powder Company.

The docket in the office of Prothonotary Churchman reads:

"John Bancroft, Jr., vs. Madelene du Pont Bancroft and Max Heibler, Jr. Libel for divorce." Max Heibler, Jr., named as co-defendant by the husband, is a three-weeks'-old infant, the paternity of which, it is stated, he denies. The case hinges primarily on this issue.

The suit will be called at the September term of the Newcastle County Superior Court here, which begins Sept. 17.

The divorce proceeding is a sequel to the runaway marriage on Dec. 18, 1907, of young Bancroft and Madelene Du Pont. They were married at Washington by the Rev. D. C. McLeod, a Presbyterian minister. The bridegroom was then a student at Princeton. He and the bride went to Munich, Germany, shortly afterward, and the husband completed his studies at Heidelberg University. They remained abroad over two years. Since then young Bancroft has been associated with his father in the Bancroft factory.

The young wife is estranged from her mother, Bessie Gardner Du Pont, from whom her father secured a divorce.

The allegations in the libel are that the cause of action arose while the young wife was in Munich and other European cities, the husband being here. The husband and wife are both absent. Bancroft is at Minerva, N. Y., and Mrs. Bancroft is at Atlantic City.

When the suit was entered last week the docket was kept a blank. This was requested by the lawyer for the husband, so that the papers could be served on the wife. She was found at her residence, 2,011 Bayard Avenue, by Deputy Sheriff Bartlett, and the legal papers were read to her. The official was also compelled to read the papers to the infant at its mother's side.

It was learned to-day that Madelene Du Pont Bancroft has an action pending in the Court of Chancery against her mother to secure funds from the parent under a trust agreement.

The couple have another child, a boy named after the father and born abroad.

56 DAYS IN A SWAMP.

Missing Marlboro Man Found—Says He Had Nothing to Eat.

MARLBORO, Mass., June 15.—After an absence of fifty-six days, which, he says, he spent in a swamp between Marlboro and Westboro, with nothing to eat, William D. Hanley, one of the best-known young men of this city, was found, emaciated and barely conscious, in the heart of the swamp by four employes of the Metropolitan Water Works late to-day. Hanley was in a terrible state of exhaustion, but he was able to recognize his brother, John J. Hanley, when the latter reached the scene and to ask after his father and wife, to whom he was married last October. Hanley's disappearance on April 20 caused a sensation. It was supposed that an attack of grippe had unbalanced his mind. Although he was sought far and wide and circulars were sent all over the country by the police and by the Knights of Columbus and the Foresters, in which orders he was active, no trace of him was found.

After Hanley had been removed to his brother's home a physician was summoned. He said there was a chance of recovery.

Hanley could give no explanation of his disappearance. He remembered wandering into the swamp, and said he had occasionally seen persons pass by, but for some reason he could not explain he had been unable to call them. Most of the time, he said, he had spent lying upon the wet ground, huddled up in his overcoat.

GREAT HAVOC FOUND IN WRECK OF MAINE

Parts of Ship Now Visible Show Decks Upheaved and Bulkheads Crumpled Like Paper.

Revelation of Terrific Character of Explosion May Upset Plans for Ultimate Removal of Hulk.

HAVANA, June 15.—That the shattering of the hull of the battleship Maine, as shown by the mute testimony of steel ribs bent apart, decks upheaved and hurled far from their original position, bulkheads crumpled like sheets of paper, and apparently inextricable and hardly identifiable masses of construction material, was far greater than had been supposed was revealed this afternoon as a result of superficial observation made possible by the lowering of the water level in the cofferdam a total depth of seven feet.

On account of this unforeseen revelation of the terrific character of the explosion which sent the battleship to the bottom of the harbor, all plans heretofore proposed for dealing with the ultimate removal of the hull have become merely conjectural until a considerably greater amount of water has been pumped out. As the water receded to-day every successive foot revealed worse and worse conditions in that portion of the hull forward of amidships which was subjected to the main force of the explosion.

The bow section is still nearly twenty feet below the surface, and here, it is believed, the destruction will be found to have been even greater. The work of pumping was somewhat delayed to-day because of the heavy rains and a slight interruption of the electric current. It is the intention to-morrow to put into service the most powerful pumps and to lower the water more rapidly, but still to use the utmost caution, observing the effects of the increased pressure on the cofferdam, which up to the present has shown not the least indication of weakness.

Col. Black of the Engineer Corps said this evening that he had reasonable expectation of lowering the water a total depth of eighteen or twenty feet within three or four days, which would render possible a fairly complete exploration of those portions of the ship, except the bow section, where men were likely to have been on the night of the disaster.

It is probable that the searchers may be able to enter the officers' quarters in the after superstructure to-morrow, where they may find the remains of Ensign Merritt, the only officer missing. The remains of Lieut. Jenkins, the only other officer killed, were recovered from the torpedo chamber shortly after the explosion.

AIRMEN FLY OVER BOSTON.

Ovington and Atwood Circle State Capitol After Trip from Waltham.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, June 15.—Earle L. Ovington flew from the Metz aerodrome at Waltham over Boston this afternoon, circled the State Capitol twice, and then, swinging in a wide circle over the harbor, returned safely to his starting point.

Earlier in the day Harry N. Atwood, carrying a passenger, thrilled many thousands of spectators with a forty-five-mile spectacular flight.

Ovington reached the State Capitol at 3:28 and descended to 500 feet and swooped about the cupola in long curves. Over Park Street Church he dropped a letter from the Mayor of Waltham to Mayor Fitzgerald, but the missive was carried far down Washington Street. At 3:33 the aviator started on his return, speeding down Summer Street at a rate of fifty miles an hour. The total distance covered was about fifteen miles.

Atwood's flight was in some respects even more remarkable than that of Ovington. In addition to carrying a passenger the Squantum airman had to face a stiff breeze and battle with three rain squalls.

ONLY TWO FLY TO HAMBURG.

HAMBURG, June 15.—Lindpainter and Buechner arrived here to-day from Schwerin, concluding the third stage of the National Aviation Circuit Race. They were much troubled by a heavy fog, frequently losing their bearings.

WASHINGTON, June 15.—The Secretary of War was directed by a resolution passed by the House of Representatives to-day to furnish any information in his possession relating "in any way to charges or accusations of criminal or other misconduct on the part of any officer or officers of the pay department of the army, since Jan. 1, 1905."

Representative Covington of Maryland, who introduced the resolution, divulged to four members of the Military Affairs Committee the nature of the resolution and at whom it was aimed. He declined to give his reasons to the House, but on the recommendation of the committee the resolution was adopted.

The present will be supplemented by a magnificent silver service which the Senate will present to President and Mrs. Taft at the celebration.

BIG BLOW AT ATLANTIC CITY.

Pleasure Boats Driven Ashore, but All the Passengers Saved.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., June 15.—The big inlet pleasure boats were in danger from a bay tornado late this afternoon. The Maud E., Capt. Somers, washed into the Inlet Pavilion and was dismasted. The passengers crawled safely along the bowsprit to the pavilion.

The Mehrer II., Capt. Sam Gale, was caught outside and beached. Miss Marion Myers of St. Louis fell overboard, but Capt. Gale promptly went in after her and rescued her with considerable difficulty.

Scores of other small craft were upset in the inside waters, but no lives were lost.

BLACKBIRD RIDES THE SURF.

"Lash" Tilton's Pet Perches on Driftwood in Asbury Park Breakers.

Special to The New York Times.

ASBURY PARK, N. J., June 15.—This place has a crow-blackbird that flies to the beach, perches on driftwood, and rides the breakers for a half hour daily. Its home is near Deal Lake. The bird was first discovered by "Lash" Tilton, Captain of the life saving crew, on Sunday.

Following Saturday's storm the surf was full of pieces of driftwood, and the bird had little difficulty in finding a perch. Since then the bird has returned daily. It alights on the Casino and then hops down to the lifeboat on the beach. Capt. Tilton has a piece of wood that he throws into the surf for the bird. It rides with the swell until the board is awash, and then flies to a bathing pole until Tilton throws the stick in again.

SMOKED THE HOTEL DINERS.

Ritz-Carlton Patrons Got the Fumes of a Watchman's Rubbish Fire.

Diners in the restaurant of the Ritz-Carlton last night about 7 o'clock were disturbed by volumes of smoke with a disagreeable odor which entered through the windows on the Forty-sixth Street side. For a few moments there were fears that the hotel might have caught fire, but the diners were informed by August Keller, the restaurant manager, that the blaze was confined to some rubbish heaps in the partly demolished buildings in the rear of the hotel.

The night watchman has been in the habit of burning up the rubbish when he came on duty at 6 o'clock, but last night it got beyond his control, and he had to send for the firemen to put out the blaze. It was half an hour before the restaurant was clear of smoke. A few of the diners left until it had passed away, but the majority kept their places.

TRAIN CRUSHES LITTLE LAD.

Six-Year-Old Tommy King Thought First of Mother, Even in Mortal Pain.

Six-year-old Tommy King started to cross the tracks of the Long Island Railroad near the Seaside station at Rockaway Beach last night, and, stumbling, fell in front of a train bound for Brooklyn, in charge of Motorman Peter Sprague. One of his feet was cut off, the other crushed, and his body and face were bruised and cut.

Tommy's home is only a short distance from the scene of the accident, and his injuries were there temporarily cared for by Dr. G. W. K. Schenck of Rockaway Beach. The boy did not lose consciousness.

"My mother has no money to pay you," he said to the physician, "and you had better let me wait until the ambulance comes."

Later the boy was removed to St. Joseph's Hospital, at Far Rockaway, and it was found necessary to amputate the crushed foot. It is said he has little chance of recovery. His mother is employed at a hotel at Rockaway Beach. His father is dead.

DIES TO LEAVE CONGRESS.

Secretly Wedded Representative So Says, but His Intention Is Doubted.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 15.—A sensation caused by the discovery that Congressman Martin Dies of Texas, who has been in daily attendance on the sessions of the House, had secretly married again after a divorce obtained by his first wife, and is living in a small suburb of Washington under the name of Marion Davis, has been followed by a declaration from him that he will leave politics and either return to the practice of law or to his farm in Texas, near Beaumont. The marriage took place in Baltimore Dec. 27 last year. The new Mrs. Dies was a Mrs. Florence N. Hoover, who for three or four years was his typewriter. The first Mrs. Dies came to Washington with her husband when he took his seat in the Sixty-first Congres and remained here a year, when she left, and after sued him for a divorce. Mr. Dies in the name of his second wife has bought a bungalow on the outskirts of the capital.

"The Texas delegation doubt Congressman Dies's intentions, and say he has decided to go home and fight for a renomination and election.

Crabtree Goes on Foot from Illinois to Minneapolis to Find Daughter.

Special to The New York Times.

MINNEAPOLIS, June 15.—Marion Crabtree, 101 years old, died in the St. Paul City and County Hospital to-day, after having given up search in Minneapolis for his daughter, Mrs. Herbert Brown, whose address he was unable to remember.

Crabtree walked into Minneapolis a month ago from Wilmington, Ill., where he had lived for many years on a farm. He spent two weeks in the Twin Cities in a futile hunt for his daughter. On May 26 his worries and increasing illness compelled him to go to the city and county hospital.

"Crabtree had papers proving he was born near Liverpool, England, in 1810," said Dr. A. B. Ancker to-day. "He came to America in 1828. In 1830 he located in Peoria, Ill., where he married and raised a family of five children. At the beginning of the civil war he enlisted."

CAME HERE AT LAWYER'S CALL

Had Voluntarily Gone to Aid Banker's Wife—District Attorney Who Caused Arrests Is Mellon's Counsel.

As they were about to sit down to dinner last night in the Ritz-Carlton Hotel here Capt. T. W. Kirkbride of the British Army and his friend, Alfred George Curphey, who is named as corespondent in the divorce suit brought in Pittsburg by Andrew T. Mellon, the banker, against his wife, an Englishwoman, were arrested by Central Office detectives. They were charged with contempt of court and obstructing public justice.

Judge Mulqueen of General Sessions, on hearing of the arrests and some peculiar circumstances attending them, held an extraordinary session of court in the Democratic Club and held the two in $2,500 bail to await extradition.

Both Englishmen characterized their arrest as outrageous. They declared that they had gone to Pittsburg from England voluntarily to place themselves within the jurisdiction of the court in the "extraordinary divorce proceedings" there in progress, and had come to New York for a consultation upon receipts of a long-distance telephone call from their lawyers, Hornblower, Miller & Potter. Both cheerfully admitted having previously accepted subpoenas to appear before a notary public in Pittsburg to make depositions and having ignored these subpoenas.

"But in England," they insisted, "a subpoena granted by the authority and backed by the dignity of a government court is returnable to a court. This paper was returnable before a firm of private lawyers—the lawyers for the other side. We could not believe it was genuine. We wished to know from our lawyer, and were informed over the long-distance telephone to come to New York at once for a consultation before putting ourselves on record before such an incomprehensible tribunal."

Judge's Sympathy Aroused.

The explanation of the two Englishmen evidently aroused Judge Mulqueen's sympathy, but he said it would be a marked discourtesy to the State of Pennsylvania not to hold them in custody, since they obviously had ignored a subpoena and had left the jurisdiction which issued it, and that he would therefore have to hold them in material bail.

An explanation from the prisoners that they had even written to the lawyers for Mr. Mellon, plaintiff in the divorce case, giving these lawyers their New York address and telling them why they had come here, did not avail. For some time it seemed that both men would spend the night in the Tombs Prison. Their lawyers telephoned to more than a score of acquaintances to obtain bail and failed. At the suggestion of Mr. Curphey they also telephoned to Henry Phipps of Pittsburg, who Curphey said was his intimate friend. Mr. Phipps could not be located.

A short itme after midnight, while the two prisoners were still detained in the Democratic Club, word was telephoned from the law offices of Hornblower, Miller & Potter that a bondsman had been obtained and was on his way to the Democratic Club with the necessary security.

Judge Mulqueen had previously stated that he considered the two men to be victims of a pernicious police habit of making arrests late at night, which they could just as well attend to earlier in the day, and that since the right to have bail was one of the most sacred rights of prisoners, he would remain at the club all night if necessary in order to accept securities.

Indicted for Contempt.

The telegram on which the two men were arrested was read to them by Detectives Curry and Raftis at 6:55 P. M. It was signed by Henry Muth, chief county detective of Pittsburg, and read as follows:

T. W. Kirkbride and Alfred George Curphey are at the Ritz-Carlton. Have been indicted in Allegheny County for obstructing public justice and contempt of court. Arrest and hold for requisition. Agent with papers will arrive to-morrow morning.

The detectives had hardly reached Police Headquarters with their prisoners when Lawyer George Gordon Battle of the firm of O'Gorman, Battle & Lindsay appeared. He brought with him a telegram from the District Attorney of Pittsburg authorizing him to act in the premises and to have the men held in very substantial bail.

It was reported here and confirmed by telegrams from Pittsburg last night that Mr. Blake, the District Attorney of Allegheny County, Penn., under whose authority the county detectives are placed, is in his private capacity counsel for Mr. Mellon.

Besides Mr. Battle, there appeared from District Attorney Whitman's office Assistant District Attorney McGuire, with instructions to see that the wishes of the Pennsylvania authorities were fully carried out.

The police wished to put their prisoners in cells at once, but Lawyer J. Norris Milelr, who had accompanied them from the Ritz-Carlton, vigorously protested, declaring that Capt. Kirkbride was an officer of the British army and that both were English gentlemen, and that to lock them behind prison bars would be extremely offensive to all concerned.

Bitter Wrangle of Counsel.

Then began a search for bail. Until 9 o'clock this was without success. At this time Judge Mulqueen was appealed to over the telephone, and he agreed to meet the prisoners at the Dmocratic Club. The hearing opened at 10:30 o'clock and was marked by bitter personal encounters between counsel for the persons interested.

Attorney Robert T. McElroy of Pittsburg declared that he represented Constable Schinneller, who served subpoenas upon the two Englishmen last Saturday, returnable yesterday morning.

Judge Mulqueen became interested at once in the matter of the time at which the arrests were made. He inspected closely McElroy's credentials, which stated that he left Pittsburg at midnight on Wednesday, after seeing the criminal informations which had been drawn up against the prisoners, and that he had arrived here at noon yesterday. The telegram to the police requesting that the arrests be made was marked as having been received at 3 P. M. Lawyer Battle's telegram reached him at 5 P. M.

"Under these conditions," said Judge Mulqueen, "it was a pernicious act on the part of the police to delay the arrest so long, and I would regard it as tirely proper for me to parole both of these men in the custody of the lawyers. But as they are technically guilty of evading a subpoena I cannot do that."

"May we not sleep in our hotel rooms with officers in the rooms with us?" suggested Capt. Kirkbride.

"That is a fair suggestion," replied Judge Mulqueen, "and perhaps the detectives would be willing to sleep there, too. But it would be rather irregular."

"But I am an officer of the British Army," insisted the Captain. "I cannot run away."

This statement seemed to rouse the anger of Lawyer Battle.

"But you have run away once," he snapped, "and you would do it again. I cannot consent to any leniency."

"There are no steamships for England to-morrow," replied Capt. Kirkbride, keeping his temper.

"Yes, I know," retorted Mr. Battle, "but there are steamships for Haiti and the Bahamas, and there are trains for Canada. This is not an offense for which one may be extradited from a foreign country."

"My clients came here to appear voluntarily in one of the most outrageous divorce proceedings ever instituted," put in Lawyer Miller, "and I insist that they are gentlemen who should not be subjected to this kind of language. I telephoned for them to come here; I did not understand that they had been subpoenaed in a regular manner."

"They may be Englishmen, and one of them may be an officer, but they are no gentlemen," said Mr. Battle in rising tones. "They have very nice beds in the Tombs, and that would be a fitting place for them to stay."

To this fling Mr. Miller replied that he fas sure his clients had acted in mere ignorance of the American law, and were in fact "simply befogged in smoky Pittsburg." After announcing that he would hold the men in $2,500 bail, Judge Mulqueen suggested to Assistant District Attorney McGuire that he call the attention of District Attorney Whitman to the police pracice of making arrests after bonding and surety comapnies had closed, and thereby jeopardizing the rights of the defendants to bail.

Mr. Curphey described himself for the Police Lieutenant on duty at Headquarters as an Englishman, 39 years old, with no occupation, born in the Isle of Man, and single. He gave his American address as the Ritz-Carlton Hotel. Capt. Kirkbride described himself as a resident of London, 40 years old, and a Captain of reserves in the British Army.

While the two men insisted that the object of their visit to this country was to appear as witnesses in the Mellon case, others insisted that they had also come to exact an apology from Andrew W. Mellon, the plaintiff, for statements he had made about them. It was while engaged in this task of satisfying their honor that the subpoenas were served upon them, and they were thus, much to their surprise, brought into a status where their continuous presence in Pennsylvania was required.

Another version of the affair was that Curphey, who is named as co-respondent in the divorce suit, had been moved by Mrs. Mellon's vehement assertion that a law recently passed in Pennsylvania making jury trials in divorce cases optional with the Judge was inspired by her husband, and by her appeal to the women of Pennsylvania and to the British authorities for aid in combating his political influence. The only way in which she could legally insure the jury trial she was seeking was to have Curphey named as a co-defendant with her, and it was said that his visit to Mr. Mellon was for the purpose of demanding that he be granted the privilege of becoming a party to the action.

Mellon's Strange Divorce Suit.

The name of Alfred George Gurphey figured in the divorce suit upon the filing of the first papers on Oct¼ 10 last. Andrew W. Mellon asked for an absolute divorce from his young wife, Nora Mary McCullen Mellon, who before her marriage was Nora McMullen, daughter of a wealthy brewer in Hertfordshire, England. Mr. Curphey is described as a London clubman, who had known Mrs. Mellon at her parent's home when they were children.

The case rapidly sprang into unusual prominence, owing to the discovery by Mrs. Mellon and her lawyer, Paul A. Asche, two weeks after the suit had been filed, that the Forbest Street mansion in which she was living was equipped with sixteen phonographs so arranged that they would take down every conversation in any part of the house. Photographs of the instruments became public, together with the details of an axe raid upon them by Mrs. Mellon's lawyer.

On May 5 last Gov. Tener of Pennsylvania approved a mysterious bill declared to have been passed through Mellon's influence, especially to aid him in the divorce proceedings. This legislation was followed on Monday by the forcible removal of Mrs. Mellon from the Forbes Street residence.

Her two children were taken at the same time to the home of Richard Quay in Sewickly by order of the court, on the petition of the husband. Mrs. Mellon, after being ejected from the house, saw a negro Deputy force a Mrs. Crawford, who had been her friend through her troubles, from the porch.

Mrs. Mellon's wedding presents from her husband, her bed, linens, and effects were placed in the street and were carted away by an expressman. She is now staying with friends. The decision to have her ejected, it was said, was arrived at shortly after Mr. Curphey arrived in Pittsburg from England.

Prosecutor's Dual Capacity.

Special to The New York Times.

PITTSBURG, Penn., June 15.—George Alfred Curphey, with his friend, Capt. F. W. Kirkbride, went to New York, at the request of their lawyers, Hornblower, Miller & Potter of 24 Broad Street, New York. Hardly had Mr. Curphey, who is named by Andrew W. Mellon, the banker, as co-respondent in his suit for divorce, left Pittsburg than steps were taken to have him indicted, arrested, and returned here. It is warmly asserted by his friends here, however, that he never intended to leave the Pennsylvania jurisdiction in which he voluntarily had placed himself, but that he went to New York on the personal request of Mr. Hornblower, who probably will be called into the Mellon case.

District Attorney William A. Blakely, in addition to being prosecutor for Allegany County, is incidentally counsel for Andrew W. Mellon. It was he who filed the banker's complaint for divorce. Mr. Blakely refused to-night to explain the nature of his new action against Mr. Curphey, but said that requisition papers were being forwarded, and that Mr. Curphey would be brought here by detectives to answer a charge of obstructing justice and contempt of court. He maintains that Curphey's indictment was brought about by the action of Attorney James H. Beal of the Pittsburg firm of Reed, Smith, Shaw & Beal, who at present is handling Mellon's case.

Within two days after he arrived here from London and had begun attempts to see Mr. Mellon and get from him an apology or satisfaction for the charges in the divorce complaint, Mr. Curphey was trailed by detectives. They shadowed the British visitor night and day. Finally he was served with a summons to appear in the law offices of Mellon's counsel and make a deposition. He accepted the subpoena service, but on Wednesday, when the hearing was to be held, by advice of counsel he refused to appear. It is asserted by his friends here that he would not testify at this time because of the unsettled status of certain features of the Mellon case.

There are many legal points now before the court, chief among them the question whether Mrs. eMllon shall have a trial by jury or before a master in private sessions of court. Mrs. Mellon wants an open trial before a jury. To aid her Mr. Curphey has come from England to see if he cannot be made a co-defendant as well as a co-respondent and thereby force a jury trial. For these reasons he would not submit to examination in advance of trial in the offices of the banker's lawyers.

District Attorney Blakeley to-night said: "The arrest of the two men was caused by Attorney Beal. They were indicted to-day on charges of obstructing justice and contempt of court. These charges grew out of Curphey's ignoring a summons issued by the court to appear at a hearing and testify, after he had placed himself within jurisdiction of the Pennsylvania courts.

"We are having extradition papers issued and will have the men brought back here to answer charges. I don't know that they are arrested in New York. They were not to have been arrested until after requisition papers had been procured."

The District Attorney plainly evaded the points in the case. The Mellon affair is a thorn in the side of all who take a hand in the legal issues, and Mr. Blakely is sensitive about his connection with it. County Detective Muth, who ordered the arrests, is under his authority.

Test a New Steel Railway Car.

The first of ninety-six steel cars to be used in the rapid transit service between Saybrook Place, Newark, and New York, has just been received at Jersey City by the Pennsylvania Railroad Company. It was taken out by a party of the company's engineers yesterday afternoon and run over the Pennsylvania tracks to the [illegible] station and return. [illegible] very satisfactory.

ART OF REBATING DISCLOSED

But How Havemeyer Got $10,000,000 in Stock Remains a Secret—Mormon Leader Must Testify.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 15.—United States Senators do not count for much with Democratic investigating committees nowadays. Senator Smoot to-day asked the Hardwick Investigating Committee, which had been digging into the Sugar Trust very effectively for the last week, to excuse Joseph F. Smith, the head of the Mormon Church, from appearing to testify in regard to the Utah-Idaho group of beet sugar factories, the stock of which the American Sugar Refining Company owns to the amount of one-half. The committee decided not to comply with the request.

The committee also decided to subpoena Charles K. Harrison and Alfred Harrison of the Franklin Sugar Refining Company of Philadelphia, Horace O. Havemeyer, Jr., of New York, John F. Harper of Cleveland, Chester F. Morey of Denver, Thomas R. Cutler of Salt Lake, John D. and Adolph Spreckels of San Francisco.

Charles R. Heike, former Secretary of the Sugar Trust, to-day in the course of his examination challenged Chairman Hardwick to interrogate him in regard to the criminal charges under which Heike was tried and convicted, and when Mr. Hardwick replied that he had refrained from asking any questions as to that matter because he did not want to embarrass him, Heike retorted: "I wish you would."

A little later Heike was served with a subpoena to appear before the Committee on Expenditures in the Department of Justice, which is investigating the trust policy of the Administration. He will then have opportunity to tell what he knows as to his operations in violation of the anti-trust law, and also the acts of other magnates of the Sugar Trust.

It was also brought out in the testimony of Lowell M. Palmer, a former Director of the Sugar Trust, that the family of H. O. Havemeyer still owns $7,000,000 of the $10,000,000 common stock, and that Mr. Havemeyer never had explained how he happened to acquire it.

At the close of the day, when the testimony of Mr. Heike and Mr. Palmer had been concluded, Joseph E. Freeman, the present Secretary of the American Sugar Refining Company, was examined, and told the committee that the company was disposing of certain of its stocks in the beet sugar factories, and in some cases had parted with very considerable portions of its holdings. He said that the only refinery absorbed by the trust to which directions for operating were given was the Louisiana Refinery, which belonged entirely to the American Sugar Refining Company. There was never at any time, so far as he had knowledge, any communication whatever with the other beet sugar companies, and the American Sugar Refining Company did not in any manner exercise any control of those factories.

Output of Sugar Trust.

Mr. Freeman's figures showed that, counting the output of the McCahan and the National Sugar Company refineries, the American Sugar Refining Company produced 56.39 per cent. of the sugar in the United States market. The control of the two companies named being in question, Mr. Freeman said that the actual percentage of output by the American Sugar Refining Company was 43.14 per cent.

Mr. Heike's testimony was at all times interesting, although it did not bring out much that was pertinent to the main purpose of the investigation. He talked about the tariff, and said he was in favor of taking off the sugar duty at the rate of 5 per cent. a year, and in twenty years have it free. If it were taken off all at once it would mean ruin to the beet-sugar industry, he said.

In a colloquy with Mr. Fordney, who is the most ancient patriarch of the stand-pat conclave in the House, the fact came out that in 1901, when the fight was on over Cuban reciprocity, all of a sudden the Michigan beet-sugar men and those from other States stopped fighting and went home. Mr. Fordney said he remembered one day a telegram came to some of his Michigan friends saying Havemeyer had made them a proposal to buy them out if they would cease opposing Cuban reciprocity.

Mr. Madison asked Mr. Heike if it was true, as he had been told, that Mr. Havemeyer received a salary of $100,000 a year, and he said it was. He also said it was true that when Mr. Thomas became President he received only $50,000 and later he voluntarily reduced it to $25,000.

When Mr. Palmer, who, besides being for many years a Director of the American Sugar Refining Company, was head of its traffic department, was called to the stand Mr. Madison opened the examination by reading from the minutes of the American Sugar Refining Company a resolution adopted by the Board of Directors on Sept. 6, 1898, for the purpose of fixing prices.

The records show, he said, that there were present H. O. Havemeyer, W. O. Thomas, W. Oscar Mathissen, John E. Parsons, and Charles H. Senff. Then Mr. Madison read from the minutes this paragraph:

> On motion a special committee consisting of the President, Vice President, and Mr. Thomas were appointed to fix the price of refined sugars; they were authorized in their discretion to make the price of granulated not less than three-eighths above the price of centrifugals of 96 degree test; other refined sugars to correspond. They were authorized and empowered to purchase for account of the company or hold any portion of outside refineries at a price and upon terms to be fixed by them in their discretion.

Tells of Traffic Rebates.

Mr. Palmer said he was responsible for years for the traffic arrangements and contracts of the American Sugar Refining Company, and that he had known H. O. Havemeyer for many years. Mr. Madison asked him if his duties or those of Thomas P. Reilly, now serving a term on Blackwell's Island for stealing records from District Attorney Wise's office, had been in the direction of obtaining rebates from railroads and steamship companies for the transportation of American Sugar Refining Company's property.

"Prior to 1897, yes," replied Mr. Palmer. "Prior to 1901, yes; but after the formation of the American Sugar Refining Company I then brought about an arrangement by which the American Sugar Refining Company was supposed to pay full tariff on every pound of sugar shipped."

"You used a very suggestive and significant word, 'supposed.' Why did you use that?"

"It would have been impossible for a refiner to have lived prior to the consolidation of these companies in 1887 without the obtaining of rebates. It was a very bitter fight between the sugar refining interests everywhere."

"Previous to the formation of the trust you were obtaining rebates at that time for the Havemeyer interests?"

"Not only for Havemeyer interests but other interests. I was gathering freight for Palmer's Docks at Brooklyn. I had all the trunk lines except the Pennsylvania and the D., L. & W. roads.

"Now, just state for the information of the committee what you were doing at that time, what particular business you were in, and what your relations to these companies, both sugar companies and railroad companies, was, so that we may understand how it was that you arranged these matters."

"When I commenced Havemeyer's station was at St. John's Park, N. Y., so they had to cart and have ferriage on every pound of sugar shipped by rail; that seemed to be an unfair arrangement, and I brought the Erie in 1874; I brought the New York Central, I guess, in 1875; then the Central brought the West Shore, and that year they brought the D., L. & W. and the Pennsylvania, and the Pennsylvania came and bought a block of ground adjoining that property."

How He Got Concessions.

"Now tell the committee how you were able to obtain concessions and what kind and character of concessions you did obtain through the railroads who shipped from your dock."

"Why, the railroads were always in a scrap among themselves, and sometimes I would find the sixth class rate, in which sugar stood, was giving it A, B, or C at less than the published tariff rates."

"Now, this sugar refinery company which was organized in 1887 by the taking into the combination of some seventeen or eighteen companies, that combination or trust received those concessions, did it not?"

"Yes, Sir."

"Can you direct this committee to the place where it can obtain a record and a statement of these rebates and the men who kept an account of it?"

"I kept an account of it."

Mr. Palmer said his successor, R. W. Parker, at the office of the American Sugar Refining Company, had the records.

"He is President of the Brooklyn Cooperage Manufacturing Company," said Mr. Palmer, "and occupies the same position that I occupied. I don't think he has any interest, but he manages the railroad business the same as I did—contracts."

Mr. Madison continued to ask for details as to rebates and Mr. Palmer went on with his statement.

"Well, the railroads would be in a fight, and without any effort upon my part the rates would go down in a certain direction, and when they did I got the benefit of it. The railroads received, the Havemeyers received, and all the Brooklyn refineries received, from an earlier date than that a cartage charge of 2 cents a hundred pounds occasioned by the fact that Mr. Theodore Havemeyer, against the wishes of his father and against the wishes of his brother, Mr. H. O., went over to Philadelphia and joined in the house of Harrison, Havemeyer & Co.; he made no investment in money while I had invested in Brooklyn about three and one-half millions of dollars in the railroad business. He performed no service, and the Pennsylvania Road was paying him the same lighterage charge that they were paying to me for lighterage and labor of loading those cars.

Says Depew Can Tell.

"Mr. H. O. Havemeyer came to me one day to show me something was wrong with the situation, show me the prices sugar was selling for in Chicago, and I saw at once there was a leak somewhere, and I found where it was. That finally resulted in his dragging his brother, Theodore Havemeyer, out of the firm of Harrison, Havemeyer & Co. prior to the formation of the Sugar Refineries Company in 1886. Mr. Depew is the only man living who could verify this to-day—Senator Depew."

Judge Madison questioned the witness concerning the formation of the National Sugar Refining Company of New Jersey.

"It was organized for the purpose of buying four companies," said the witness. "Mr. Havemeyer told me he had organized it with his own money and a little he had got from the National City Bank."

"Were not these companies competing?"

"Yes, I think they were."

The witness said the American Company obtained a majority of the preferred stock of the National, but when the question of the legality of the common stock of the National came up the witness said that there he and H. O. Havemeyer disagreed.

"Havemeyer brought up before the Board of Directors of the American the question of the purchase of the common stock of the National, and said that he could not vote for the purchase because he was interested in the stock," said Mr. Palmer. "I was not in favor of the purchase. We never had much to do with one another after that."

Representative Malby wanted to know if the common stock of the National was issued at the same time the preferred was.

"I do not know anything about that, except what Mr. Havemeyer told me."

Havemeyer Didn't Tell.

"What did he tell you?"

"I called him aside at the meeting and asked him what had been done with the common stock, and he replied it was in the hands of friends, and he would see me later about it."

"Then you didn't have any information or knowledge as to how Mr. Havemeyer acquired it?"

"No, Sir."

"Do you know where the stock now is?"

"Why, I understand that $7,600,000 value of it is in the Havemeyer family."

"Do you know whether any money or other valuable consideration was ever paid by Mr. Havemeyer or members of his family for the issuing of this stock?"

"I don't know anything about that."

He agreed that the original $10,000,000 common stock might have been promoters' profits.

Congressman Malby, in connection with the discussion of the issuance of the famous $10,000,000 common stock, asked about the issuance of the $50,000,000 of stock by the American Sugar Refining Company, of which it had been said only $42,000,000 had been used in the purchase of plants.

"Have you any knowledge of what became of the $8,000,000 not so used?" inquired Mr. Malby.

"None whatever."

The witness testified that he believed the stock had been watered, but how much he was not willing to estimate.

DEMANDS PROSECUTIONS.

Pomerene Criticises Wickersham for Inactivity in Oil and Tobacco Cases.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 15.—Atlee Pomerene, the new Democratic Senator from Ohio, in his maiden speech to-day declared that there was no excuse for the Department of Justice failing to bring criminal prosecutions against the individual defendants in the two big trust cases. He spoke in support of a joint resolution recently introduced by him directing the Attorney General to bring criminal suits against the individual defendants in the Tobacco and Standard Oil cases when, in his opinion, the evidence justified it.

Declaring that if criminal prosecutions had been undertaken when the law was first enforced there would have been no such concentration of power as exemplified by either of the two corporations under discussion, Mr. Pomerene said that the ruling of the Supreme Court must be followed up quickly in the most vigorous fashion "or the fruits of those victories will be lost to the Government and to the people."

"Speaking for myself," he said, "I think it is high time that the American people should understand whether the Stars and Stripes are to be the emblem of their power and authority, or whether that emblem shall be the oil barrel or the tobacco tag."

Taking up cudgels on behalf of Attorney General Wickersham, Senator Kenyon, recently his assistant, declared that the present head of the Department of Justice had achieved more results in his prosecution of trusts than any of his predecessors, and did not require instructions from Congress to do his duty.

RADIN TO SERVE HIS TERM.

Convicted Lawyer Who Sought Pardon from Taft Goes to Penitentiary.

Having failed to get a pardon from President Taft, Matthias Radin, a lawyer, who was convicted of concealing assets aggregating in value $150,000 belonging to the bankrupt firm of H. Feinberg & Son, furriers at 48 East Tenth Street, surrendered himself to Marshal Henkel yesterday and was taken to the Penitentiary on Blackwell's Island to serve his sentence of a year's imprisonment. A fine of $1,000 was also imposed in the case.

Since his conviction with Abraham Minsky in October, 1909, Radin has sought to evade serving a jail term. He appealed to the Circuit Court, but there the conviction was affirmed. Then Radin, who had strong political backing, appealed to President Taft for a pardon, and on the report of Federal District Attorney Wise, clemency was refused.

DENIES TAFT'S RIGHT TO GET RECIPROCITY

Should Have Consulted the Senate Before Treating with Canada, Says Nelson.

SIXTY VOTES NOW ASSURED

President Advised That the Measure Will Pass Without the Root Print Paper Amendment.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 15.—Senator Knute Nelson of Minnesota to-day renewed his attack on President Taft's policy in regard to the Canadian reciprocity agreement in a set speech on the floor of the Senate. Mr. Nelson is bitterly opposed to reciprocity, as are most of the Senators from the Middle West, and already before the Finance Committee he showed the line he took in more formal fashion to-day.

His position is that the President has not only advocated a measure that is indefensible from the point of view of economics, but that in his advocacy he far exceeded his constitutional powers. The agreement, in Mr. Nelson's opinion, is neither a treaty nor a simple recommendation to Congress. It is, declared the Senator, a promise to a foreign Government to use what powers of coercion the President possesses to force Congress to enact the legislation needed to give the terms of the agreement force.

The Senator cited the method of the Administration in 1854, when first a reciprocity treaty was negotiated with Canada and ratified by the Senate, and then the needed legislation to make the treaty effective was asked of Congress. In somewhat like manner President Grant, he said, when a reciprocity treaty was proposed by Great Britain between the United States and Canada, first laid the whole matter before the Senate to get its advice in the matter.

Mr. Nelson declared that the Canadians had outwitted the United States.

"The Canadians not only fooled us into putting their agricultural products on the free list," he said, "but they actually fooled the President as to his treaty-making power. He was misled, and he is as much astray on that point as he is as to what is in the interest of the American farmer."

A spirited debate among Republican Senators was precipitated over the effect of the Root amendment dealing with paper and wood pulp. Senators Lodge, Clark of Wyoming, and Smoot all were on the floor and talking simultaneously. They agreed that that provision only restored the terms of the treaty as submitted to Congress.

"How, then, did that feature of the agreement disappear?" asked Senator William Alden Smith of Michigan.

"Ask the whispering winds," responded Mr. Clark.

Apparently pleased with the poetic character of his response, the Wyoming Senator at first seemed disposed to leave it there, but later added that the amendment was not only in harmony with the original agreement between the two countries but in consonance with the Canadian bill carrying the agreement into effect.

Mr. Smith was not satisfied and demanded from Chairman Penrose an explanation of the disappearance of that feature from the bill. Mr. Penrose had adopted the policy of allowing the opponents of the measure to do the talking, and reluctantly he arose to reply.

"The change," he said, "occurred in the Ways and Means Committee of the House, and the Senator from Michigan knows as much about it as I do."

"The effect, then, is to give the Canadians free trade in paper and pulp and not to give it to us," commented Mr. Smith. "And yet," he continued, "we are told by the House that we must not change a word in the bill as it was passed there for fear if impairing it."

According to information received at the White House, the Root amendment will be killed by a comfortable majority in the Senate. The President is also assured that the agreement already has sixty votes in the Senate.

Taft Joins Touring Club.

AMERICAN MILLIONS IN MEXICO HARD HIT

A moment later, as he received the shots, came the order from headquarters for the preservation of Col. Morelos's life."

PRESIDENT FOR A DAY.

American Held for Breaking Neutrality in Lower California Rising.

SAN DIEGO, June 15.—Richard Ferris, a Los Angeles promoter, who has attained notoriety in connection with the insurrection in Lower California, was arrested to-day on a charge of conspiracy. His arrest is believed to relate to that of others of the Mexican Liberal Junta in Los Angeles for violation of the neutrality laws.

Ferris was summoned before a Federal Grand Jury two weeks ago, just after he had been elected President of the "Republic of Lower California," a position he held for a day.

When the summons came from the jury Ferris declared he had not taken his sudden elevation to the rank of ruler seriously. He had no thought, he said, of violating the neutrality of the United States. He described it as a joke played on him by the insurrectos.

TWO AMERICANS KILLED.

Dr. Foster and Patrick Glennon Dead at Alamo—Ensenada Strife.

WASHINGTON, June 15.—Two Americans, Dr. Foster and Patrick Glennon, have been killed in Alamo, Mexico. Mr. Sawdat, the American Vice Consul at Ensenada, in reporting the fact to the State Department, says there is dangerous turbulence at Ensenada, and that the Mexicans causing the trouble were to a great extent recruited in the United States, some recruits being reported to be naturalized American citizens.

The State Department has reminded the Mexican Government that some time ago it gave permission for Mexican troops to cross American territory with a view to the restoration of peace and order in Lower California, and that it is now depending upon Mexico to make these outrages impossible.

CHINA NOT SENDING WARSHIP.

No Such Threat Made to Mexico, State Department Is Assured.

WASHINGTON, June 15.—The State Department announced officially to-day that it has been assured that the Chinese Government never contemplated the dispatch of a warship to Mexico to assist in the collection of the indemnity for the killing of several hundred Chinese by Mexican insurgents during the revolution.

It is stated that possibly a Chinese warship participating in the coronation celebration at London may pay a ceremonial visit to Mexican and American waters on the return voyage, but this would be entirely disconnected with the preference of any indemnity claims.

MRS. LOVE ADMITS SMOKING.

At Divorce Hearing Says Love Knew She Used Cigarettes as a Girl.

Special to The New York Times.

BAKER CITY, Ore., June 15.—Mrs. Marjorie Burnes Love took the witness stand to-day to defend herself from the charges brought against her by her husband, Sidney C. Love, in his action for divorce. She told at length the details of her acquaintance with Love.

"During his courtship," she said, "he was affectionate, and my marriage with him was one of pure love. He told me always during those days that we were to live in New York, as he would not care to live in Chicago at all. The beginning of my illness was one night when he came home to dinner very much intoxicated. I had never but once before seen him so much under the influence of liquor. All through dinner that night he was ugly and sullen to me, and, though I was too ill, I went to the theatre with him. We returned home in the motor, and he left me and told the chauffeur to drive him to a club and left me standing alone on the street at midnight."

Mrs. Love admitted that she had smoked cigarettes both before and after marriage, and said Love's statement that he had known nothing of this habit until after his marriage to her, was untrue. She denied that she was an inveterate smoker.

Love read to the court a Christmas letter he wrote his wife after he had left England. After upbraiding her Love says:

"I would ask you to recall the night of Jan. 3, 1908, when in a violent passion you grasped me by the throat with both hands and started to choke me. Did I turn you out of my house, close my door in your face, employ solicitors, and tell them lies and publish you before the world? No, I took you in my arms, and for the next fifteen months nursed you and cared for you through all of your sickness and ill-health."

Mrs. Love denied that she had ever choked or attempted to choke her husband, and said at that time Love was drinking and had accused her of flirting with a man at Newport.

SAYS HUSBAND KICKED HER.

Mrs. Stansfield Also Accuses Him of Drinking to Excess.

Special to The New York Times.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., June 15.—Mrs. Eugenie Stansfield broke down and had to leave the witness stand to-day during the trial of her action for a separation from her husband, Samuel B. Stansfield, before Supreme Court Justice Tompkins, when she was about to tell of her last day with her husband at their country estate at Purchase on October 21 last. She wept so bitterly that she had to be led from the courtroom by friends, and the hearing was postponed for fifteen minutes. She finally became composed and declared that her husband had struck and kicked her and that she fell on the floor. She swore that one of the sleeves was torn from her dress.

"My husband drove me from my home," said the witness.

On cross-examination by Henry C. Henderson, counsel for Mr. Stansfield, Mrs. Stansfield admitted that she had been married before to George E. Flint, a son of Dr. Austin Flint, and that she divorced him a week before she was married to Mr. Stansfield. In her direct examination she testified that her husband was intoxicated most of the time during their married life.

"While we lived at 3 East Eighty-fourth Street, Manhattan," said Mrs. Stansfield, "I had to wait for Mr. Stansfield for dinner almost every night. He seldom came home for his dinner, and when he did he was intoxicated."

She also declared with emphasis that her husband had lashed her with a horsewhip and swore at her.

"What reply did your husband make when you called the attention of your aunt to the fact that he was intoxicated one time at the dinner table?"

"He winked his eye, just as he is doing now."

Mrs. Stansfield was asked where she generally landed after Mr. Stansfield had seized her by the hair, and her reply was, "Oh, on the floor."

SHE YEARNED FOR NEW YORK.

Affidavit Says That Was Why Mrs. Gambier Was Married.

Mrs. Edith M. Gambier, who is suing Edward V. Gambier for separation and is being sued by him for the annulment of their marriage, confided to her that she had married Gambier without loving him simply because she wanted to "live in New York," so Mrs. Hannah P. Adams of Belfast, Me., alleges in an affidavit filed yesterday with the County Clerk by Gambier. Mrs. Adams said she met the Gambiers on June 3, 1910, in Munich and went with them to Oberammergau. There, she says, she said to Mrs. Gambier:

"You don't seem to be a bit in love with your husband."

"I am not," she says Mrs. Gambier responded. "Then why did you marry him?" Mrs. Adams said she asked the bride, for it was the honeymoon trip of the Gambiers.

"I wanted to live in New York."

Mrs. Gambier was a New England girl and lived for many years in Boston. Whenever Gambier approached his wife, Mrs. Adams said, Mrs. Gambier drew away. She says she noticed that the bride appeared to lack interest in what he said, failed to answer when he addressed her, showed irritation when he touched her, and refused to sit beside him when driving or at the table. She says she found Gambier sitting outside the door of his hotel apartment late at night and early in the morning and was informed that Mrs. Gambier compelled him to remain outside the apartment when she was retiring or arising. Mrs. Gambier charges her husband with abandonment.

DAVIS DIVORCE SUIT FAILS.

Los Angeles Judge Throws Out New York Baking Powder Man's Case.

Special to The New York Times.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., June 15. — Judge Monroe of the Superior Court to-day refused to hear further the case of Robert Davis of New York, a wealthy baking-powder manufacturer, and denied his plea for a divorce from his wife.

"This is no Reno," he said, adding that Mr. Davis had come from the East solely to obtain a divorce, and had not established and did not intend to establish a residence here.

Mrs. Davis, in her husband's suit, was charged with cruelty in confining him to his room on the plea that he was insane. She is some thirty years younger than her husband, who is 69 years old.

Judge Monroe said that the alleged cruelty took place in New York, where it was not a cause for divorce. He assailed alienists, who, he said, testified for what they were paid. He said he disregarded such medical evidence.

MRS. SHEFFIELD MAY REWED.

Twice-Married Daughter of Yale Music Professor Divorced New Yorker.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., June 15.—Mrs. Kitty Sanford, who was divorced last month from George Sheffield, a New York broker, and grandson of Joseph Earle Sheffield, founder of the Sheffield Scientific School, Yale, has sailed for Europe. A report published to-day states that she will probably marry George Marcells Landers, twice Mayor of New Britain, who is said to have taken the same steamer to Europe.

Mr. Landers has closed his extensive business interests in New Britain and has told his friends that he does not intend to return there to live.

Mrs. Sanford is the daughter of Prof. Samuel S. Sanford, formerly head of the Yale School of Music, and granddaughter of Henry Sanford, founder and President of the Adams Express Company. She has been twice married and divorced. Her first husband was Samuel Thorne of New York City. Mr. Sheffield was best man at the wedding, and she soon afterword divorced Mr. Thorne and married him.

RUSH THROUGH BILL FOR NEW COURT SITE

City Hall Park Threatened by Passage in the Senate of Stilwell Measure.

NO CHANCE FOR A HEARING

Bar Association, Aroused by Sharp Tactics, Demands One Before the Assembly Acts on It.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, June 15.—The Stilwell bill, which almost inevitably will result in the locating of the new County Court House in the City Hall Park, provided, of course, that the bill passes the Assembly and is approved by Mayor Gaynor and Gov. Dix, was passed in the Senate to-day.

The railroading through of the bill was accomplished in less than a minute. Senators ready to protest and move that the bill be laid aside could not get the words out of their mouths before the result had already been announced by the reading clerk at the desk, after a roll call which, in defiance of the constitutional provision which requires that all the yeas and nays of the members shall be duly entered on the Journal, sounded like this:

"Allen, Brackett, Wagner, Whitenoes, none."

The Stilwell bill divests the Board of Estimate of all authority in the selection of the proposed Court House site. The board is simply authorized to approve any plan the Court House Board selects, and if sanction should be withheld and no agreement reached within four months after the Stilwell bill has become law, the Court House Board is compelled to prepare plans for erecting the proposed new Court House in City Hall Park, the filing of the plans with the Board of Estimate acting automatically to confirm this choice. After this has been done, the only thing the Board of Estimate has to do is to provide the funds with which to build the Court House.

The Court House Board, of which ex-Judge Morgan J. O'Brien is Chairman, after being at work trying to select a site for nearly eight years, last year proposed the City Hall Park site, and it is understood that the board is still committed to that location, which has the approval of a majority of the Justices of the Supreme Court in New York County.

The rushing through of the bill to-day was brought about largely to avoid a public hearing on the measure as advocated in an editorial printed this morning in THE TIMES and read with their breakfasts by a majority of the lawmakers here. There has been no hearing on the bill, and Senator Cullen, Chairman of the Cities Committee, said to-day that none had been demanded. When the bill is sent to the Assembly, as it will be to-morrow, it goes to the Rules Committee, and that body never gives public hearings on measures pending before it.

In past years, when a similar plan was before the Legislature, much opposition was voiced at public hearings. The Bar Association is opposed to locating the new Court House in the City Hall Park, and through its Committee on Court House Site has memorialized the Legislature, but to no avail. This committee takes the view that the present Court House site is unsatisfactory and that it would be most unfortunate to erect a $10,000,000 Court House on a site that is bound to grow more and more inconvenient.

There is every reason to believe that unless a vigorous protest is made the bill will pass the Assembly.

BAR ASSOCIATION PROTESTS.

Asks Assemblymen for a Hearing on Court House Bill—Other News.

Roused through the sudden activity of the Albany legislators in attempting to rush through a second Stilwell bill late in the session after the defeat of one measure designed to accomplish exactly what the revised version will accomplish if passed, many New York citizens wired protests to Assemblymen yesterday.

To-day protest meetings will be held and resolutions will be forwarded demanding that the Assembly throw aside the conventionalities and give a public hearing upon this revised measure, in spite of the fact that it has been referred to the Rules Committee, which never gives such hearings.

The New York Bar Association, anxious to get its protest on record before the Assembly could rush the bill to final passage on the plea that there were no objectors to this course, as the Senate did yesterday, filed a formal demand for a hearing last night to Speaker Frisbie, Majority Leader Smith, and Minority Leader Merritt of the Assembly. Here it is:

> The Court House Site Committee of the Bar Association earnestly requests that you give it an opportunity to be heard in opposition to the Stilwell bill, Senate 1,789, Int. No. 1,455, providing that the new Court House for New York County shall be located in City Hall Park unless the Board of Estimate and the Court House Board shall agree upon a different site within four months.
> This bill has been introduced late in the session, and because of the failure of an earlier bill designed to accomplish the same thing. We submit that it would be a breach of legislative propriety to force this bill upon the city under the present circumstances, into which, however, we do not now desire to enter, reserving this and other points for presentation at a proper hearing.

Except for a few Judges of the Supreme Court who are anxious to terminate in any practicable way the inconveniences and unsanitary conditions prevailing in the present Court House, there was little admiration and no friendship to be found for the Stilwell measure in a rather prolonged search through downtown officialdom in its various offices yesterday.

Controller Prendergast, while not vigorously opposed to the idea of a new Court House in City Hall Park, was decidedly opposed to interfering with legislation at Albany when a committee of the Board of Estimate is already at work on the problem. He was also opposed to the idea of rushing legislation through without ample opportunity for all to be heard.

Borough President McAneny, while just as vigorously opposed to rush-order legislation as Mr. Prendergast, differed radically from him upon the point of locating the Court House ultimately in City Hall Park.

Both Mr. McAneny and Mr. Prendergast are serving with President Mitchel of the Board of Aldermen on a committee of the Board of Estimate charged with the special duty of finding a site for the Court House, in or out of City Hall Park, as its members may decide.

MONEY MONOPOLY ASSAILED BY WILSON

Banking Reform One of the Greatest Problems Facing Democrats, He Says.

CLARK ON DEMOCRATS' WORK

Speaker Says the Triumphs of the Party Are the Theme of Every Tongue in the Land.

HARRISBURG, Penn., June 15.—Gov. Woodrow Wilson of New Jersey and Speaker Champ Clark were the principal speakers at a big Democratic rally here to-night following the organization of a State federation of Democratic clubs.

Gov. Wilson's chief theme was banking reform, which he described as one of the many great problems which faces the Democratic Party. Mr. Clark, who spoke on "Triumphant Democracy," reviewed with great satisfaction the record of the House Democrats, their present plans, and what they hoped to accomplish in the future.

Gov. Wilson said in part:

"The plain fact is that the control of credit is dangerously concentrated in this country. The great monopoly in this country is the money monopoly. So long as that exists our old variety and freedom and individual energy of development are out of the question. A great industrial nation is controlled by its system of credit. Our system of credit is concentrated. The growth of the Nation, therefore, and all our activities are in the hands of a few men who, even if their action be honest and intended for the public interest, are necessarily concentrated upon the great undertakings in which their own money is involved, and who necessarily, by every reason of their own limitations, chill and check and destroy genuine economic freedom. This is the greatest question of all, and to this statesmen must address themselves with an earnest determination to serve the long future and the true liberties of men.

"Are we wise and strong and sober and united enough to do it? Have we the knowledge, the self-possession, the poise, the courage? Are we the men?

Democratic Party Never Broken.

"There has, first and last, been a great deal of idle talk about divisions in the Democratic Party, and men here and there have spoken as if it were possible for this individual or that to disrupt it and to break the splendid continuity of its history. Men who speak such empty predictions are forgetful of the history of the party. It is the one party in the United States which has continued unbroken from the beginning of our National history until now. Whenever things are to be done in a new way, in response to a new popular impulse, in obedience to the great democratic traditions of the Nation itself, it is to the Democratic Party that the country naturally turns.

"Those who look about them see parties apparently breaking up; but if they will look closer they will see that men are turning away by the thousands from those courses of policy and of action to which the alliances and practices of the Republican Party have at last bound the country as if with a grip of iron. The free elements of thought in the country are asserting themselves with an extraordinary energy and majesty that must presently work profound changes and mark this as one of the most noteworthy eras of our politics. Some men among the Republican leaders see what it is necessary to do, but they are not numerous enough to dominate their party councils.

"If we recount the items of the liberal programme to which the country is now looking forward, it will be easy to see that it is already the programme of the Democratic Party."

Speaker Clark's Speech.

Speaker Clark said in part:

"Triumphant Democracy" is now the theme of every tongue within the broad confines of the Republic. We have laid aside the weight which did so easily beset us—that of quarreling among ourselves,—and present a solid front to the common foe. Consequently from the mount of victory we this day look into the promised land which we will enter and possess on March 4, 1913.

"When I remember what the House Democrats were at the beginning of the Sixty-first Congress—a wrangling, jangling, peevish, feeble, and despised minority—and how, by a conciliatory policy, we got together, wrenched victory after victory from our opponents, made of ourselves the most superb fighting minority ever seen in Washington, and established a record on which we swept the country in 1910, not only electing a Democratic House, but capturing a half dozen Senatorial seats from the Republicans and a half dozen Governors in Northern States, I assert without fear of successful contradiction that no parliamentary minority in history ever made a more splendid record. Every Democrat who served in the House of the Sixty-first Congress is entitled to his full share of the honor. In the words of Admiral Winfield Scott Schley, touching the battle off Santiago, 'There is glory enough for all.'

"After our triumph in 1910 all the Republican papers and orators and many timorous Democrats declared with one accord that we would go to pieces so soon as the new Congress was in session. In fact, these prophets of evil were in high glee when President Taft called the extra session, because they thought, hoped, and said that the extra session would precipitate Democratic dissolution. The new Congress is now in the third month of the extra session, and glory be! we have not only not gone to pieces, but have stood together shoulder to shoulder, heart to heart, in such a magnificent fashion as to surprise our friends and dumbfound our enemies.

"We had been sneered at for years as a party of mere negation, as utterly destitute of constructive ability, and that sneer cost us dearly. By our deeds we have given the lie direct to that monumental slander. During the ten weeks that Congress has been in session, notwithstanding the fact that we had in the very nature of things to consume some time in organizing, this Democratic House has passed more bills in the nature of constructive statesmanship than any other House ever passed in the same length of time.

"Rome was not built in a day, and all Democratic promises cannot be redeemed in the shape of bills passed through the House in a week or a month or a year, but we will accomplish the good work as rapidly as possible. We believe that by working together, standing together, and fighting together for Democratic principles we are laying the foundation not only for victory in 1912, but for victories through a long series of years."

SEA GATE BARS RAISED.

Court Upholds Woman's Right to Open Boarding House in Exclusive District.

The Sea Gate Association, which controls the exclusive cottage colony at the west end of Coney Island, has lost its fight to prevent Mrs. Helen W. Biggs from maintaining a boarding house on her property in the restricted district. Supreme Court Justice Kelly in Brooklyn yesterday granted Mrs. Biggs's application, made through Lawyer Walter W. Irwin, for an injunction restraining the association from interfering in her affairs.

In January, 1909, the association gave formal notice to the property owners of Sea Gate that it would refuse to consent to the building of cottages for boarding house purposes. Later the association notified Mrs. Biggs that unless she ceased taking boarders the water supply and sewer connection would be cut off from her house.

In asking for the injunction Mrs. Biggs said that there was nothing in the deed to her property restraining her from keeping a boarding house. The court holds that the association had no power to impose restrictions which were not contained in the deed.

BRING GIRL TO TRAP SIMMONS

Officials Get Report of Her Conversation with Accused Wife Slayer.

William Simmons, who was held by Coroner Squires of Westchester County for homicide, after his wife was found strangled to death in her bed last Tuesday morning in White Plains, was confronted yesterday afternoon in the Grand Jury room by Rose Kearns, the Mount Vernon girl to whom Simmons has been paying attention and from whom the police got more than 100 postals and letters he had written. The meeting was arranged by Assistant District Attorney Davis, Coroner Squires, and County Detective Cook, and they had a stenographer concealed in the room.

The officials say that the girl mentioned during the course of their conversation that Simmons had told her he would divorce his wife before October and marry her.

In one of his many letters Simmons had told the girl, referring to his wife, that he "would knock her block off" if she again troubled the girl.

Simmons's aged father, who lives in Canaan, Conn., visited his son in jail in White Plains for the first time yesterday afternoon and had a long talk with him. He later told reporters that his son "did not have spunk enough to commit such a crime," and said he would stand behind him to the finish.

The body of the murdered woman was taken in the morning on an express train to North Adams, Mass., by her mother, Mrs. Anna Demurse, and was buried in the churchyard there. Mrs. Demurse took with her the six and four year old daughters of Mrs. Simmons and will care for them.

HOLD-UP IN DAYLIGHT.

Purse Knocked from Dressmaker's Hand in Brooklyn—Two Arrests.

A woman was held up in daylight in the street in the fashionable St. Mark's section of Brooklyn yesterday morning, and two men, alleged to be the thieves, were caught after a pursuit in an automobile. The hold-up took place in St. Mark's Avenue, near New York Avenue.

Miss Sarah Woods, a dressmaker of 423 Pacific Street, was walking in St. Mark's Avenue at 9:30 o'clock when two men confronted her. One of them struck her arm and she dropped a purse containing $15. The thieves picked it up and ran away.

Miss Woods screamed, and Charles K. Lennon, Superintendent of the municipal asphalt plant at the foot of Sixth Street, who was passing in an automobile, started after the fugitives. In Prospect Place, near Kingston Avenue, Mr. Lennon saw a runner vault over a fence into a yard. Springing from his car, Lennon ran into the yard and seized the man. The latter fought, but Lennon threw him to the ground and made him a prisoner.

In the meantime a policeman had captured another man after a chase of several blocks. The prisoners described themselves respectively as Oscar Englert, 20 years old, and Joseph White, 19 years old, both of Brooklyn. In the Gates Avenue Court they were held for examination. Miss Woods's purse, with the money, was found in the street.

150-MILE SUBMARINE RUN.

Seven Craft on Three-Day Cruise from Newport to Gloucester.

VINEYARD HAVEN, Mass., June 15.—Somewhere in Cape Cod to-night seven submarines of the Atlantic fleet moored on the first leg of a 150-mile run from Newport to Gloucester, which they began to-day. At noon five of the vessels were seen running along the surface of the water off Vineyard Haven. It is thought they may have come up to recharge their batteries, or to give the men a chance to eat their meals in daylight. The other two under-water fighters were probably submerged when they passed this port.

The sea was smooth and the weather clear all day, but marine observers saw nothing of the craft, and a search of Hyannis Harbor, where it is thought the fleet might put in for the night after passing the "Vineyard," disclosed no sign of them. Off Bass River, a favorite anchorage of vessels waiting for daylight to go over the shoals, a number of lights were seen, and it was thought probable that the division might have anchored there.

The vessels, which are commanded by Lieut. Donald C. Brigham, are the Grayling, (flagship;) Bonita, Narwhal, Salmon, Snapper, Stingray, and Tarpon.

On leaving Newport every craft submerged, only the periscopes showing above the surface as they headed eastward in the direction of Vineyard Sound.

WIFE HEARS RIVAL TESTIFY.

Mrs. Cooke, in Big Four Fraud Case, Hears Herself Called an Old Hag.

CINCINNATI, Ohio, June 15.—The trial of Edgar S. Cooke, charged with embezzling $24,000 from the Big Four Railway, was to-day marked by the presence of Mrs. Jeannette Stewart-Ford on the stand, being wheeled into court on an invalid chair, and of Mrs. Edgar S. Cooke, wife of the defendant, who has stood by Cooke through all his troubles, and who took a seat by his side.

The testimony of Mrs. Ford was interrupted by the entrance of her daughter, 6 years old. As the child ran to her mother the latter said: "There is my daughter Jeannette, and she is Cooke's child."

The witness burst into sobs as she made this confession.

The child's entrance was preceded by the introduction of a letter from Mrs. Ford to Cooke in which she asked him to visit her at the hospital or at least send her some money, and to provide for their daughter.

The cross-examination of the woman was merciless throughout. She admitted having shot and wounded Cooke, of having had him arrested for assault in Chicago and later for non-support of their child.

Letters that passed between the two were read, and their recital made Mrs. Cooke shrink, for in many of them her husband referred to her as "O. H." which Mrs. Ford testified meant "old hag."

M'ANENY EXPECTS QUICK SUBWAY ACTION

He'll Propose to Give the Lines a Week and Then Go Ahead with Triborough.

OTHERS SEE OBSTACLES NOW

Provisions Open the Way to Delays—Conferrees Amended the Report—Interborough Expected to Resist.

Activity of various realty organizations in Manhattan and the Bronx against the proposal of the McAneny subway report admitting the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company to Broadway strengthened the impression yesterday that the Interborough Company will oppose the terms laid down by the city's transit conferrees rather than withdrawing its Broadway ultimatum and accepting the operating basis proposed by the report.

This operating basis, with the decision respecting Broadway, is the bitterest pill of all for the Interborough, for according to the declaration of the report of the car mileage basis proposed by the company for the operation of its extensions would have been unduly profitable for the existing lines at the expense of the extension, whereas the proposal to calculate the operating expenses on the extensions according to the average cost per passenger over the entire system gives the extensions the benefit of the very profitable short haul traffic on the so-called "inner lines."

The report of the McAneny committee leaves it open for the company to suggest some other basis "equally acceptable to the city," and invites such suggestion by the language quoted, which is incorporated in the clause relating to operation. If the Interborough proposes an alternative, profiting by this provision of the report, there will, according to information obtained yesterday, be a determined effort made by its friends in the Board of Estimate to obtain time for further consideration of the alternative, inasmuch as the operating basis involves the discussion of about the most technical data of any subject involved in the controversy.

Mr. McAneny Confident.

Notwithstanding these prospects, however, Borough President McAneny, Chairman of the Joint Conference Committee, declared yesterday that, in his opinion, a final decision would be reached involving the acceptance of the city's offer by one company or the other, not later than June 29, which is a week from next Thursday. Mr. McAneny intends to introduce a resolution at the special meeting of the Board of Estimate next Wednesday, contingent upon the acceptance of the report, that the companies have one week in which to reply to the city's terms, and that if the terms are not accepted within the time city proceed with the Triborough.

Mr. McAneny believes that the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company should have its day in court on the Coney Island 5-cent fare, which that company is expected to reject, and on the basis of return to be allowed on its elevated lines; also that the Interborough should have an opportunity, if it wish it, to propose an alternative operating basis which it may think "equally acceptable to the city."

Further information which came out yesterday indicated the manner in which the city's conferrees reached a compromise on the points finally agreed to in the report. The joint transit conference made up of Mr. McAneny, who has two votes in the Board of Estimate; Borough Presidents Miller and Cromwell, who have one vote each, and the five members of the Public Service Commission, who have no votes in the city's governing body.

The Way the Committee Divided.

The majority members of the Public Service Commission, Chairman Willcox and Messrs. McCarroll and Eustis, were in favor of accepting the Interborough's offer on the general terms laid down in its proposal of Dec. 5, and Commissioners Bassett and Maltbie were radically opposed to the Interborough's terms and in favor of the principle of competition in Subway operation. Borough President Miller of the Bronx indicated his belief in the Interborough plans, leaving Mr. McAneny and Mr. Cromwell of Richmond as the members whose minds were theoretically open. Under these conditions, according to the information which came out yesterday, all that was required to incorporate a recommendation in the McAneny report was the voice of Mr. McAneny and Mr. Cromwell, and such a recommendation, if in favor of the principle of competition or of the imposing of stringent terms on the Interborough, had, in addition to the three votes of the two conferrees just mentioned, six votes in the Board of Estimate cast by Controller Prendergast and President Mitchel of the Board of Aldermen, the two members of that board committed against the Interborough and in favor of an independent system.

Nevertheless, as the event proved, the recommendations of the McAneny report were, after much manoeuvring, submitted to vote of the entire conference committee on the theory that each member of it had one vote, and on this basis there were three votes of members of the Public Service Commission and one vote cast by President Miller of the Bronx, which stood out for terms calculated to make it pretty sure that the Interborough would get the lines offered to it.

These Votes Altered the Report.

Many of the concessions which formed the basis for the agreement embodied in the McAneny report got there by this process, according to the information which came out yesterday, and it is understood that the final insistence of a five-cent fare to Coney Island to be put up to the B. R. T. had a similar origin.

The hope that the Interborough will accept the lines offered to it on the terms laid down lies largely in the favorable conditions prescribed for the third-tracking of the Manhattan elevated lines and the clause placing the adjustment of franchises to enable a swap of subway leases below Forty-second Street at some indefinite time in the future when the city may wish to recapture a through line. As to the elevated franchise, the facts which underlie the hope of the Interborough's friends that the company will be tempted to accept are substantially these:

In its offer of June 10, 1910, the Interborough proposed to spend $30,000,000 in the extension and third-tracking of its elevated lines. In the course of the negotiations with the city's conferrees the extension up Jerome Avenue, originally proposed for the Ninth Avenue elevated system, and the extension up Gun Hill Road in the Bronx, originally proposed for the Third Avenue elevated road, have been shifted over to the subway, the former being the westerly branch of the proposed new subway running into the Bronx via Lexington Avenue, and the latter being an extension of the West Farms branch of the present Subway.

The Plans for the Elevated.

According to the tables contained in the McAneny report, the proposed cost of these two extensions will be $11,900,000 in the aggregate, leaving an expenditure of a little above $18,000,000 indicated for the third-tracking of the elevated lines and the building of such incidental new structure as may be required in the process of readjustment. The McAneny report provides that, having built these extensions, the Interborough may retain out of the earnings a sum equivalent to the average net profits of two years ending June 30, 1911, and that the increased profits on the elevated shall be divided with the city. This is a much more stringent provision than that in the Interborough's own proposal for the elevated third tracks, which provided that the city should get no more than 2 per cent. of the increase in gross receipts at the express stations.

However, the terms are considered liberal enough to tempt the company to take considerable else that may be rather unpalatable, for the net profits on the elevated lines for the year ended June 30, 1910, were $1,441,187, which constituted a contribution of 4.1 per cent. toward the dividend of 9 per cent. on the $35,000,000 Interborough stock, and this sum, plus the $4,200,000 paid out to the stockholders of the Manhattan elevated system, constituted a [illegible] per cent. on the $60,000,000 [illegible] of the Manhattan elevated [illegible] the company before it begins to divide net profits with the city.

Concerning the swap of leases below or above Forty-second Street, as the case may be, to enable the city to retake a north and south line through Manhattan and the Bronx capable of independent operation, the terms follow largely the terms proposed by the company.

One of the amendments to the McAneny report which is likely to be offered to the Board of Estimate will seek the modification of the document so as to make the swap of leases below Forty-second Street immediate. This is urged on the theory that the company, if the exchange were put off, as the McAneny report prescribes, could by legal and other opposition, or by refusing to consent to the terms of the arbitration, put off the reacquirement by the city for an indefinite period.

The chief legal obstacle urged hitherto to such an exchange of lease is that the present Subway lease is pledged as security under a mortgage issued a couple of years ago by the Interborough, and that the holders of the bonds issued on this mortgage, which were handled by J. P. Morgan & Co., could object to the disturbance of their lien.

On this point several proposals are made. One is that the city, in giving a ten-year indeterminate franchise on the existing Subway below Forty-second Street, leave the lien undisturbed, and contract to make the agreement subject to such a lien if it take over the road.

There is also in the mortgage a release clause allowing the substitution of collateral pledged, and a clause which specifically allows the modification of any leases pledged as security, and these clauses, in the opinion of those who are for an immediate exchange, make it possible for the city and the company to do business.

A Way It May be Offset.

In addition the assertion is made that in the new financing of the Interborough, if its offer is accepted, it will be necessary to take up the bonds outstanding under this particular mortgage—as the terms of the mortgage permit at 105—so as not to make a virtual second mortgage out of the comapny's new issue of bonds, and that in such refunding of the $15,000,000 of bonds outstanding, any question of lien on the subway lease in its present form would disappear.

It is understood that Mr. McAneny is in favor of the future swap on the theory that it enables the city to take either an east side or a west side line as it sees fit. Some of his associates in the Board of Estimate, however, will urge when the question comes up for discussion, that these apparent advantages disappear in view of the fact that if the matter is left in such shape, the operator will have every reason in its own interest to oppose the recapture by the city.

CRAM INSPECTS NEW SUBWAY.

Puts in the Day Getting Acquainted with Fourth Avenue Tunnel.

J. Sergeant Cram, the new member of the Public Service Commission, made his first inspection trip of the Fourth Avenue subway construction work in Brooklyn yesterday. Accompanied by Travis H. Whitney, Secretary of the commission, and Engineer Noble, Commissioner Cram went over the entire line from the Brooklyn end of the Manhattan Bridge to Forty-third Street, and returned over the line on the Manhattan side of the Centre Street loop, which is to operated with the Fourth Avenue subway.

The station at Seventeenth Street has been completed so far as concrete construction is concerned, and, in addition, ten blocks of the subway is ready for the laying of the double sets of tracks. But at many points it was impossible to pass through the subway, where the work was going on, and Mr. Cram covered the distance in his automobile, following the surface lines to where the work could be inspected in the tunnels. This subway will be four miles long and will cost $16,000,000.

TO REMOVE ELEVATED SPUR.

McAneny Wants Structure from 3d Av. to Grand Central Taken Down.

Borough President McAneny let it be known yesterday that he was negotiating with the Interborough Rapid Transit Company for the removal of a spur of the elevated railroad which connects the Grand Central Station with the Third Avenue line.

It is said that the structure has outlived its usefulness, as commuters, who formerly turned east to take the elevated road to business, now use the Subway. The structure will also be entirely out of keeping with the new Grand Central Terminal.

B. R. T. TO ANSWER PLAINLY.

Will Accept or Reject the McAneny Report, Says Col. Williams.

Col. Timothy S. Williams, President of the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company, who, with Theodore P. Shonts, President of the Interborough Company, was a guest at the meeting of the Subway Committee of the Brooklyn League at the league's headquarters, in the Temple Bar Building, Brooklyn, last night, declared that the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company would cause no delay in the city's getting its subways, and would either accept or reject the terms of the McAneny report, leaving the field clear for the speedy building of the needed subways.

Col. Williams, who spoke very briefly, made this statement in reply to the charge that the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company, even if its offer were accepted, would delay the city seven years in getting its subways. That charge was made by Joseph L. Quackenbush, counsel for the Interborough Company, who spoke for more than an hour, comparing the Interborough offer with that of the Brooklyn Rapid Transit, to the disadvantage of the latter company. The Brooklyn company, he said, offers few or no new subways, but simply aims to perpetuate its existing elevated systems and extend them, making Broadway and Manhattan merely a terminal for its Brooklyn properties. Mr. Quackenbush said he could not yet discuss the McAneny report, which, he said, is being studied by the engineers, financiers, and lawyers of the company. Mr. Shonts did not speak.

THIEF GOT HER $1,800.

Woman Chased Him Up Broadway in a Taxicab, but He Escaped.

A woman jumped out of a taxicab at 108th Street and Broadway at noon yesterday, and rushing over to Policeman McTreede at the corner, told him that a man had stolen her handbag, containing $1,800, and had just eluded her after a taxicab chase up Broadway from Forty-fifth to 108th Street.

Later, at the West Forty-seventh Street Station, to which she was referred, she said she had met the man several days ago and dined with him at a hotel at Forty-third Street and Broadway. Yesterday morning, she said, she went with him to another hotel in West Forty-fifth Street, where, she said, he suddenly snatched her handbag, containing the money, and darted into the street. She said she saw him jump into a taxicab and followed him in another to Forty-ninth Street and Broadway, where, she said, she saw a second man jump into the cab ahead. At Fiftieth Street, she said, a third man jumped in, and the cab sped on to Seventy-second Street and across to Riverside Drive.

At Ninety-sixth Street, she told the police, one of the men jumped out, and the chase continued. At Ninety-seventh Street the second man jumped out and disappeared. Her taxicab was gaining on the first when, at 108th Street, she said, the man who had taken her money jumped out and disappeared in a crowd.

The woman at first told the police she was Marion Prime of 508 West 118th Street, but later gave the name of Mrs. Ray Carroll. The police listened to her story and took a description of the men from her.

Revival Services for Brokers.

Revival services were started in the financial district yesterday under the auspices of the Old Tent Evangel Committee, one in front of the New York Stock Exchange in Broad Street and a second in Broad Street, near Beaver. The meetings were held in preparation for the opening of the Tent Evangel in West 124th Street on June 18. The Rev. G. W. McPherson, Superintendent of the Tent, announced that he was well pleased with the meetings yesterday, and would probably hold weekly meetings in the financial centre hereafter. Other speakers at yesterday's meetings were the Rev. Dr. Price of the Washington Heights Methodist Church, and the Rev. E. F. Sanford of the Eleventh Street Baptist Church.

ELEVATED ROADWAY AROUND NEW STATION

Central's Plan to Carry Park Avenue Over Forty-second Street Approved.

TIME LIMIT IS EXTENDED

Eighteen Months More to Complete Grand Central Terminal Work—Opposing Property Owners Beaten.

The Board of Estimate, despite many protests from property holders, approved yesterday the plans of the New York Central Railroad for changes in Park Avenue in the vicinity of the new Grand Central Station. A committee of the board, consisting of Borough President McAneny, Controller Prendergast, and Nelson P. Lewis, Chief Engineer, submitted a report recommending that an extension of eighteen months be granted the railroad in which to complete its terminal work and approving the plan for a viaduct connecting the roadway of Park Avenue at Fortieth Street with an elevated roadway on the westerly and southerly sides of the new station, thus making the avenue continuous. The report says:

"The most striking feature of the plan is the provision of an elevated street or roadway extending around the station building. This elevated street is to be located upon the property of the railroad company, and will extend along the westerly side and the southerly side of the new station, the main portion of which is set back of the building line a sufficient distance to provide for this roadway, the space underneath which is to be retained by the company and used for railroad purposes. The act of 1910 and the proposed agreement contemplate the erection by the city of a bridge or viaduct occupying the central portion of Park Avenue, which will connect with this elevated roadway, and pass over Forty-second Street and over the approach to the tunnel occupied by the Fourth and Madison Avenue surface cars, and extend to Fortieth Street, where it will connect with the side roadways of Park Avenue at their present grade, thus completely establishing the continuity of Park Avenue, and adding a much-needed north and south street which will afford great relief to the traffic congestion on Fifth Avenue and other parallel streets.

"The company proposed to construct this elevated roadway passing around the westerly side of the station, and to grant to the city a permanent easement over it, and it also proposes to construct a similar roadway extending around the easterly side of the station on the line of Depew Place, which it is proposed to close, to a connection with Forty-fifth Street. It does not, however, propose to convey to the city the easement over this easterly section of the elevated street, as it desires to retain control over the traffic along the easterly side of the station, and between the station proper and the express and Post Office buildings, which will abut upon this elevated roadway on its easterly side.

"After a hearing given by your committee to interested property owners, it was strongly urged that the central portion of Park Avenue be entirely covered in the manner proposed between Forty-fifth and Fiftieth Streets. Representatives of the company who were present at this hearing admitted that the covering of these proposed open spaces was possible, although it might be attended with some difficulty. When the original plans including these openings were adopted, it was contended by the company that these openings were very desirable from an operating standpoint, in order to admit as much natural light as possible to the tracks beneath.

"Inasmuch as the company now proposes to utilize the space over the tracks by the erection of buildings, it is evident that it does not now consider the admission of natural light to the yard an important matter, and in view of the character of the development of the abutting property, which will undoubtedly take place along both sides of Park Avenue, the committee believes that these spaces should be closed and that the central portion of the avenue should be one unbroken promenade.

"For the same reasons we believe that the structures which the company proposes to erect in these central spaces between Forty-fifth and Fiftieth Streets, consisting of nine ventilators and one emergency exit, should be designed with due regard to the future development of this street, and the committee believes that a provision should be inserted in the contract requiring the approval of the Municipal Art Commission to the plans for all structures above the street surface within the lines of Park Avenue."

Regarding the viaduct which is designed to cover the central portion of Park Avenue from the northerly line of Fortieth Street to the northerly line of Forty-second Street, the report says:

"The architects for the Grand Central Station have prepared a plan for such a connection, which consists of three flat arches of ornamental design, each with a clear span of 106 feet, and extending from the northerly side of Forty-second Street to a point about 23 feet south of the southerly side of Forty-first Street, from which point to Fortieth Street the roadway would be supported by retaining walls. The introduction of these arches is designed not only to avoid which might be an obstruction of light and air on Park Avenue, but to permit the opening of Forty-first Street across Park Avenue, in accordance with the recommendation of the Forty-first Street Improvement Association."

Representatives of the Grand Union Hotel, The Hotel Belmont, and the Murray Hill Hotel protested against the construction of the viaduct to Fortieth Street and Park Avenue, and other property owners along Park Avenue argued against giving the extension of eighteen months' time unless assurances were given that the bridging of Park Avenue from Forty-fifth to Fiftieth Street would be completed by Jan. 1. Ira A. Place, Vice President and counsel for the railroad, said that the company would do everything possible to have the work finished by July 1, 1912. The cause for delay, it was pointed out, was the fact that the railroad company had not made agreement with its tenants, the express companies. William Barclay Parsons thought that these agreements could be made and the bridges completed by Jan. 1. It was finally agreed to have the work completed by April 1 next.

STOKES OUT OF DANGER.

Leaves the Hospital, but May Not Appear Against Assailants To-day.

W. E. D. Stokes, proprietor of the Hotel Ansonia, who was shot in the apartment of Lillian Graham and Ethel Conrad at the Varuna a week ago, was discharged from the Roosevelt Hospital yesterday and taken in his automobile to his Summer cottage at Long Branch, N. J. At the hospital it was said all danger from the three bullets he received was past.

Mr. Stokes's counsel, Terrence J. McManus, said that though Mr. Stokes may not appear in the library of the District Attorney's office when the two girls are arraigned to-day, he will certainly appear and press the charge against them next week. They are still in the prison of the West Side Court, the Conrad girl refusing to accept bail unless her companion, too, is released.

Special to The New York Times.

LONG BRANCH, N. J., June 15.—W. E. D. Stokes arrived at his Summer home in Atlantic Avenue in this city this afternoon, making the trip from New York by automobile. At his cottage it was learned that he stood the journey well, though slightly fatigued by the long ride, and expects to be able to receive callers tomorrow.

"PICKWICK" IS MISSING.

Dr. Dana Offers a Reward for Return of His Daughter's Bull Terrier.

Dr. Charles L. Dana is trying through THE TIMES Lost Column to recover the bull terrier "Pickwick," owned by his daughter, Miss Margery Dana, which disappeared from in front of his home at 53 West Fifty-fifth Street Wednesday night. Pickwick is white with brown spots between the ears.

"In temperament, Pickwick could scarcely be considered, let us say, tractable," said Dr. Dana last night. "Therefore I feel pretty certain that he was stolen by members of one of the organized gangs who know just how to do such things and escape without scars. Pickwick does not like strangers."

Miss Dana has owned Pickwick about four years, and it is not thought likely by her that the dog wandered away. She had left it for a few minutes in front of her home while she stepped inside to use the telephone, and when she came out again Pickwick was nowhere to be seen. Dr. Dana offers a liberal reward for Pickwick's return.

Dressmakers Settle Customs Frauds.

In behalf of the Government, Assistant United States District Attorney Levy yesterday accepted $32,065 in full settlement of the undervaluation frauds alleged against the Mrs. Osborn Company, dressmakers and costumers, at 24 East Forty-sixth Street. The settlement was offered by the trustees of the Mrs. Osborn Company, who hold all but fifty shares of the corporation's stock and run the business for the benefit of Mrs. Osborn's daughter.

Saks-made Clothes for Men—at 15.00 to 25.00

¶ It will be a matter of surprise to you when you see what we can accomplish between 15.00 and 25.00 in men's clothes.

¶ But we do not consider it remarkable that we should be able to do so much at these prices. On the contrary, they afford us ample opportunity to produce garments that are distinctive in cut and perfect in tailoring.

¶ If Saks-made clothes at 15.00 to 25.00 are remarkable at all, it is in their superiority over average clothes at similar prices. And the reason for this superiority is to be found in the fact that all are not tailors who sell men's clothes. They are mostly distributors, whereas we are producers.

¶ The clothes we sell we make. And as we are no respecter of class in labor—or, rather, as we are a respecter of only high-class labor—it follows that all Saks-made clothes, irrespective of price, are produced by the most expert tailors obtainable. Our prices are affected only by the quality of fabrics and linings. And at that we yield the palm to none on the quality of the fabrics and linings used in Saks clothes at 15.00 to 25.00.

¶ With all the conviction at our command, we state it as a fact that in no other clothes made at 15.00 to 25.00 are style, character, quality and finish so happily combined.

DENY CASTRO IS ON STEAMER GROSTUCK

SHOULDN'T FLY GERMAN FLAG

Repudiation by Government at Berlin Makes the Former Italian Cruiser Technically a Pirate.

PORT-AU-PRINCE, June 15.—It is officially denied that Cipriano Castro, ex-President of Venezuela, is on board the steamer Consul Grostuck.

The Grostuck arrived here at 3 o'clock this afternoon, flying the German flag. She fired a salute, and the officers of the vessel came ashore and were received by President Simon.

The Consul Grostuck was purchased for the Haitian Government, and the reports that Castro was on the vessel and that she had become the property of the ex-President gave the Government officials much concern. They took occasion soon after the arrival of the steamer to declare that the reports that Castro was a passenger were without foundation. A further explanation was made to account for the delay in the voyage, it being stated that at the various ports where the Grostuck touched the authorities, at the instance of the Venezuelan Consuls, who were on the lookout for Castro, had acted rigorously with respect to the steamer's papers and those on board.

BERLIN, June 15.—The German Government disclaims all responsibility for the steamer Consul Grostuck, which is reported as flying the German flag.

It is stated emphatically that the steamer has no right to display the German colors. It was formerly the Italian cruiser Umbria and was purchased from Italy by Haiti, which country is the one now properly concerned with the movements of the vessel.

HAMBURG, June 15.—The company which sold the dismantled Italian cruiser Umbria, since named the Consul Grostuck, attempted unsuccessfully to obtain permission for the vessel to fly the German flag.

Local ship owners who were approached last January by supposed agents of Castro, interested in fomenting a revolution that should restore him to the Presidency of Venezuela, declined to enter into negotiations for the sale of vessels to be used for insurrectionary purposes. They feared that they might become involved in a breach of international law.

This situation was understood by the authorities when an effort was made to obtain a German register for the Umbria.

WASHINGTON, June 15.—Its right to fly the German flag formally repudiated by the German Government, the steamer Consul Grostuck may be regarded as an international pirate under the construction of the Navy Department. This Government was to-day notified of the German repudiation in a cablegram from the American Embassy in Berlin.

It is possible that the Consul Grostuck may change her status by transfer to the Haitian Government.

CARACAS, June 15.—The Venezuelan Government has no authentic advices concerning the whereabouts or intentions of ex-President Castro. It is officially announced, however, that any vessel showing a hostile attitude in Venezuelan waters will be declared a pirate.

It is pointed out by members of the Government that public opinion would defeat Castro or any other persons attempting a revolution in Venezuela, which is now at peace and making great preparations for the centennial celebration in July. The announcement that the United States is sending a mission to participate in that event is warmly appreciated by the Government, which has already prepared a fine residence in Caracas for the use of the representatives of the United States.

OFFER BY J. H. SCHIFF.

Financier Says, However, the Frankfort Report Is Exaggerated.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, June 15.—Telegrams from Frankfort-on-Main state that Jacob H. Schiff has offered to subscribe several million marks for the foundation of a university there. Frankfort is Mr. Schiff's native city.

A message from Mr. Schiff, who is now in Munich, says the report is exaggerated, but that he is not ready to discuss the matter in detail. It is said that a conference regarding Mr. Schiff's proposal will be held in the next few days between the New York banker and the Burgomaster of Frankfort.

The local newspaper that is responsible for the story intimates that the condition on which Mr. Schiff insists is full equality for all professors as regards their religious beliefs. This condition appears to have been approved by the municipal authorities of Frankfort, but to meet with opposition from the Prussian Ministry of Education.

Although many of the most eminent scholars in German university Faculties are Jews, they cannot attain the full rank of "professor" unless they abandon their faith.

Mortimer L. Schiff said yesterday to a NEW YORK TIMES reporter that he knew nothing of his father's reported plan to found a university in Frankfort.

"He never spoke of it to me," said Mr. Schiff. "I remember reading in some paper last Winter that Frankfort wanted a university. Perhaps they have approached my father in regard to the matter."

PORTUGUESE MUTINY REPORT

Rumors That Monarchist Revolt Has Begun Appear Unfounded.

MADRID, June 15.—Telegrams from Vigo give a report that a monarchist revolution has started at Chaves, Portugal, and that the Portuguese garrison has mutinied and killed its commander.

The Monarchists, it is added, stormed and raided the offices of the Republican newspapers in the Plaza Braga.

VIGO, June 15.—Reports from Chaves of the mutiny of two regiments of Portuguese troops are not confirmed. The rumors are probably unfounded, since it is learned from other sources that the royalist plans on the Portuguese frontier did not develop as had been expected.

It is supposed here that the royalists at Chaves planned to mutiny upon the approach of Capt. Couciere, the Monarchist leader, who is said to be at the head of the forces near Braga.

LISBON, June 15.—Owing to the persistent rumors of an invasion by Monarchists from the Spanish provinces to the north of Portugal, the Portuguese Minister of the Interior has made an inspection along the frontier, visiting Viana do Castello, Valenca do Minho, and other towns for the purpose of studying the situation. Foreign Minister Machado to-day received dispatches from him saying that the plotters would not attempt to cross the border.

The dispatches added that quiet reigned in the whole northern district. Military precautions, however, will be maintained.

The commission appointed to investigate the advances made by the Treasury to members of the royal family has issued a report showing that the Queen Mother Amélie received $82,000 and the Duke of Oporto $122,500. The Government will repay itself these advances from ex-King Manuel's private property.

MADE BOGUS TICKETS OF STREET RAILWAYS

Counterfeiters, Raided by Federal Officers, Defrauded Traction Companies in Three Cities.

PLATES FOUND, MEN CAUGHT

J. E. Farris, Conductor; His Brother, W. L. Farris, and J. C. Hart, Printer, Confess.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, June 15.—A scheme to swindle the traction companies of Chicago and other cities through the manufacture of spurious tickets was frustrated by Government officials to-day, when they arrested three men and confiscated a complete outfit for counterfeiting street-car tickets.

The men under arrest are William L. Farris of 6,312 Stony Island Avenue; his brother, John E. Farris, of the same address, a conductor for the Illinois Central Railroad, and Joseph C. Hart, 60 years old, a printer. In the kitchen of the Stony Island Avenue flat occupied by the Farris brothers was found a complete outfit for counterfeiting street-car tickets.

Hart, when taken into custody, admitted having printed thousands of the tickets, and said that the plates used in the process were manufactured by a concern in Chicago. Electrotype and zinc plates for reproducing tickets for the street-car companies in Cleveland, Columbus, and Indianapolis were seized by the Government officials.

John F. Voigt, Assistant District Attorney, said to-night that until six months ago, the men operated in Akron, Ohio, where bogus tickets were made and sold in Cleveland. According to Operative Drautzburg of the Federal service, John E. Farris admitted the charge of counterfeiting, and declared that for years there has been systematic counterfeiting of transportation tickets, whereby the traction companies have been defrauded of thousands of dollars.

According to information given by the operative who arrested William Farris, the latter told him that he was approached by a man four years ago who offered him what purported to be a passage of railroad tickets for a Cleveland street railroad. The package was said to contain $300 worth of tickets and was offered to Ferris for $100. Ferris purchased the package and found it contained only worthless paper.

The appearance of hundreds of pasteboard tickets a little thicker than the official tickets of the car company in Cleveland aroused suspicions among the railroad officials. Private detectives wer employed and a conductor was seen opening and taking from an envelope fifty strips of pasteboard, each containing five tickets. When the conductor made his report for the day the fraudulent tickets were found. He was arrested and finally told where he purchased the tickets.

The Cleveland tickets, of which the Government detectives seized about 90,000, are sold in strips of five for 6 cents. The car company sells five tickets for 15 cents. The intermediary who buys the spurious tickets for 6 cents sells them to street car conductors for 8 to 9 cents a strip.

A Trip That Is Taken For Itself

Most railroad trips are taken simply as a means of getting from one place to another.

The trip over the Lehigh Valley from New York to Buffalo and Niagara Falls is taken for its inherent pleasure.

It is the most beautifully scenic railroad ride in the East, providing an everchanging car window panorama of mountains, rivers and woods.

A glance through a car of the Black Diamond Express shows, instead of the usual restless, time-killing assemblage of passengers, a group of interested, happy, contented folks enjoying the fascinating scenery of "The Switzerland of America."

WOMEN'S POOLROOMS GO ON UNDISTURBED

Runners at Little Dairy Lunchroom and Other Resorts Continued Taking Bets Yesterday.

NO POLICE INTERFERENCE

Rumor That Sleuths Were on the Lookout Soon Forgotten — Tea Rooms for Women Gamblers.

There was an air of caution about the poolrooms that are run in the shopping district exclusively for women yesterday in the early afternoon, and patrons of the resorts appeared to be chary of them for the first half hour of the racing period. But it was not long before the gathering of 300 or 400 women who go to the district every pleasant week day ostensibly to shop but really to gamble on the horse races spurred the touts and runners of the poolrooms and hand books to great activity.

The runners were soon at their old practice of spanking to women they observed watching a certain bulletin board bearing sporting results or carried a sheet open at "past performances," the sure sign of the woman bettor.

For half an hour the little dairy lunchroom described in THE TIMES yesterday was inactive, because it was reported that six detectives were in its vicinity, but after a short wait the runners began accepting wagers.

Several new aspects of the problem of race betting among women were pointed out last night to a TIMES reporter by the informant who made the original disclosures. Several women agents of the poolroom and handbook men were observed circulating about the department stores in the neighborhood, collecting small sums from the saleswomen. Several tea rooms also were visited, as well as back rooms of saloons in the Tenderloin section.

In one place, an apartment on a cross-town street, there was no pretense of maintaining a tea room, or anything but a place for women to gamble. This place is run by the wife of a handbook man. The women there placed large bets. One of them said in reply to a question:

"I don't know why I bet. I think I ought to have a commission appointed to examine into my sanity. I used to be able to quit betting for a few months at a time. Now I find myself making bets every day. I never make a killing, and might as well try to shoot the moon." She had a bet down on the next race.

One of the men who operates a poolroom near Columbus Circle serves a buffet luncheon to his women patrons. He said yesterday to an inquirer who asked him whether his visitors were good sports: "You have to watch these women all the time. Only last week I lost $400 through a trick they played on me. Since then I have screened my windows on the street. I found that they had a confederate who had a wire held open to Albany, where they get the Latonia results flashed. This confederate gave them the horse that had won five minutes before I had it by holding up fingers to indicate the position of the horse on the race chart. A jealous woman who did not get in on the deal gave the game away and I stopped the front room gallery in jig time.

"A few days ago the women intercepted the boy who carries my messages and arranged to have him delay the results and give them the winner. He told me about it and I arranged to have him pass them a false horse. The women fell heavily and I got back some of the money I had lost on the signal trick."

One of the favorite spots for women race bettors to gather is at the southwest corner of Central Park. Poolroom runners bring race track tips and carry bets to a near-by saloon, which has a full service on the races by telephone. Fully fifty women with papers containing past performances on the Latonia races were observed on the park benches. Some of the women even went to the back room of the saloon, where the odds are received. It is patronized by a mixed crowd of black and white touts and gamblers.

One of the women with whom a TIMES reporter talked yesterday said:

"You cannot realize the awful temptations to which a woman bettor is exposed. She is frequently concealing the fact that she is betting on the races from her husband and friends. When she loses she must make excuses. A great many times she borrows money. The people with whom she associates during racing hours are of a class to take quick advantage of a woman's need and extremity, and many a respectable woman does things in desperation which eventually lead to her disappearance in the Tenderloin.

"The other afternoon I saw a terrible scene in a saloon. A woman whose husband earns good money in a wholesale dry goods house had just lost her husband's half-month's salary. She became hysterical and threw her arms around the neck of a diamond-bedecked man in the back room, crying:

"'Oh, somebody must help me out of this fix!' She was thrown off, and then turned to the proprietor of the place, and he ordered her out."

In several of the places run especially for women THE TIMES reporter found small chuck-a-luck wheels with six numbers on them. The woman patrons get odds of 4 to 1 on a single number, which makes a formidable percentage in favor of the banker. Yet the women played this wheel eagerly in the interims between races, betting dimes, quarters, and half-dollars.

The ranks of the woman gamblers were originally recruited, according to those who should know, from the women who went to racetracks in their halcyon days. Of the regular attendance at the principal tracks about New York about one-quarter were women.

SERVICE FOR SLOCUM DEAD.

Survivors and Relatives Meet at the Cemetery in a Thunderstorm.

More than 2,000 survivors and relatives and friends of victims of the steamboat Gen. Slocum disaster attended yesterday a memorial service of the unknown dead in Lutheran Cemetery, Middle Village, Queens.

The service was held near the monument, the survivors occupying seats around it. The service was not interrupted by the lightning or by the roll of thunder or the downpour.

Forming in line in front of their headquarters in Metropolitan Avenue, near the cemetery, the survivors, led by a band playing a funeral march, proceeded to the monument. The service was opened with a prayer by the Rev. D. W. Peterson of the German Evangelical Lutheran Church of Middle Village. Addresses were delivered by Charles Dersch, President of the Survivors' Association; by the Rev. George H. Miller of the German Reformed Church of the Bronx, and David Kehoe, President of the United Singers of Brooklyn. Elsie Frisher and John Bolze sang solos, there was a cornet solo by Minnie Goodman, and singing by the Kreutzer Quartette Club of New York.

LOEB REDUCES EXPENSES.

Abolishes Duplicate Forces Handling Merchandise at Appraiser's Stores.

Collector Loeb, having decided to abolish the office of Deputy Collector in charge of merchandise in the Appraiser's Warehouse, at Christopher and Washington Streets, the entire force of laborers, clerks, and watchmen now employed there under authority of the Collector will be turned over to-morrow to the jurisdiction of the Appraiser of the Port. Three hundred men will be affected by the change. George S. Cort, who, as Deputy Collector, had charge of this force, will probably be assigned to a clerkship in the Appraiser's department.

The change is made to improve the service and to reduce expenses of operating the Appraiser's Warehouse by doing away with the old system of employing two sets of men to do the work—one under the jurisdiction of the Collector or his Deputy and the other employes of the Appraiser.

CALL FOR A PEACE SUNDAY.

Federal Council of Churches Suggests Arbitration Sermons for July 2.

The Executive Committee of the Federal Council of the Churches of Christ in America yesterday authorized a call to be sent to the more than 100,000 ministers and pastors of churches in the fellowship of the council, asking them to consider on Sunday, July 2, questions of international arbitration and peace.

The call suggests "that the fact that this Sunday is so close to the National holiday, July 4, makes it especially fitting that such themes should have the attention of the pulpits of this country on that day."

This Council of Churches, representing the larger part of the Protestant Church membership of the United States, is pledged to do all in its power to advance the cause of international arbitration and peace.

Report Still Shows Water Shortage.

The weekly report from the Croton watershed received at the Water Department yesterday indicates that the rainfall of Saturday, Sunday, and Monday has not yet brought as large a supply to the watershed as was at first estimated. The supply is half a billion gallons above where it was last week, the total on hand being a little more than 50,000,000,000 gallons, as against 88,000,000,000 gallons a year ago. A great deal of water is expected to drain into the watershed within the next few days.

The Man in the Tower

IN China many shop-keepers put out a sign, "No Cheating Here."

Fortunately, in New York such a sign is unnecessary.

But The Man in the Tower suggests this substitute:

"It is possible to be cheated in style and not material. Here you get full measure of both."

* * *

The materials that go into Weber & Heilbroner clothes are selected by a man who for years sold woolens to the best New York tailors.

Quality is only the starting point. These suits must be of the very cloths and the selfsame models that are being made up this year by fashionable custom tailors.

The tailoring is as near a duplication of the best custom tailoring as can possibly be secured.

While these clothes are ready-made, they are tailored individually.

Applies to the two-piece flannel and homespun suits at $20 and up, as much as to the $20 to $40 business suits.

* * *

What should go under these soft front, carefully draped suits?

GOTHAM underwear—if you have been educated to the use of feather-weight athletic-shirt and knee-drawers style.

In cut and tailoring they leave as little to be desired as our clothes.

Generously full, without an extra inch of bulk. Fit smooth and permit your outer clothing to fit without a wrinkle.

Materials include nainsooks, cambric, linens and silks—from $1.00 to $3.50.

If you're not familiar with the progress that has been made in underwear, a view of our Gotham lines will be as instructive as a visit to the new Library.

NEW BUILDING FALLS; FOURTEEN MEN HURT

Workers Are Buried as Overloaded Floors Give Way, Carrying a Wall Down.

THREE PROBABLY WILL DIE

Bronx Crowd Sees a Young Carpenter Rescue Two Men Who Were Left Clinging High in Air.

As Inspector Joseph Wilson of the Building Departent was looking yesterday afternoon for the Superintendent in charge of construction of an unfinished three-story building at 1258 and 1260 Boston Road, the Bronx, to tell him that his floors were overloaded with brick and lumber, there came a terrific crash. The inspector and half a dozen others scurried for safety, while the north wall above the third floor, on which twenty men had been at work, crashed with the flooring of that story to the cellar below.

When the dust cleared the cries of the buried men who had been working on the wall could be heard as they struggled to unearth themselves in the darkness of the cellar, and two men could be seen still clinging to the top of the unbroken section of the wall on the third floor. The crash, which was heard for several blocks, brought frightened tenants from all buildings of the neighborhood. Some plunged directly into the work of rescuing the buried laborers, while other sent in an alarm of fire. Before the firemen arrived under Battalion Chief King, Policeman Murphy sent in a call for ambulances from the Lebanon and Fordham Hospitals and for the reserves of the Tremont and Morrisania stations.

When the police arrived the street was blocked by thousands, including the pupils of Public School 40 and the Morris High School, two blocks away, both of which had just closed. It was all the reserves could do to keep back the crowd. The firemen and the first citizens on the scene worked to rescue those who were still hidden under the debris in the cellar.

While they were laboring in the darkness below a far more spectacular rescue was being carried out before the eyes of the thousands of watchers high up on the remaining fragment of the broken wall, where hung the two laborers who alone had not plunged into the cellar. Four feet back of where they hung a narrow wooden crossbeam still held in place between the north and south walls. The men could not work their way back to it, however, for it was all they could do to keep their hold with numb fingers on the edge of the wall. Their cries for help came down to the crowd below, but rescue seemed impossible.

Suddenly a man was seen to climb from the rear of the building to the crossbeam. As he made his way slowly across that it was seen that he was Harry Robkin, a young carpenter, who had been working on the second floor when the crash came, but had escaped injury.

Sitting astride the beam, he made his way slowly to the wall, where the two men hung, and reaching it, climbed on top of it. Then, outlined against the sky, those below saw him walk to where the first man hung. He stooped, and seeming to tremble with the loosened end of the wall, seized the man's wrist and drew him slowly upward. For a moment the two were balanced there, Robkin leaning far back, the other not yet upon his feet. A moment later both were standing upon the narrow, foot-wide wall, and Robkin was guiding the man along the wall toward the crossbeam, where he was able to make his way slowly to safety.

The crowd, which breathlessly had witnessed the rescue, was about to break into cheers when the watchers saw Robkin make his way back toward the second man, still hanging with his fingertips to the wall. No one dared to cheer. All watched in silence while Robkin repeated his feat and lifted the second man up the wall to the crossbeam and to safety. Then a cheer broke from thousands of throats, as Robkin himself got astride of the beam and made his way down to the street.

Meanwhile fourteen men had been taken out of the cellar and attended by four ambulance surgeons on the sidewalk. Most of them had to be removed to the hospital. Three will probably die. The injured were:

COLOMBO, JOSEPH, a laborer, 515 East Fifteenth Street; fracture of left leg; Lebanon Hospital.

CORDARO, Vincenzo, bricklayer, 339 East Twelfth Street; abrasions of hands and face; went home.

GAZZARO, ANTONIO, bricklayer, 326 East 117th Street; contusions of face and body; went home.

GOLDSTEIN, CHARLES, plumber, 284 Rutledge Street, Brooklyn; contusions of head and body; Lebanon Hospital.

KRINDEL, MAX, Superintendent in charge, 338 East 121st Street; contusions and abrasions of face.

Krindel, who was struck by bricks while supervising work on the ground floor of the building, and Paul Gazzaro, who plunged into the cellar with the platform on which he had been supervising the work on the third floor, were attended on the sidewalk and then arrested on charges of criminal negligence. Inspector Joseph Wilson reported to Superintendent William Henderson of the Building Department, who was called to the scene soon after the crash, that he had found the floors of the building overloaded and was seeking Krindel to warn him, when the crash came.

Coroner Schwanecke, who went to the scene, declared indignantly that the construction of the building was faulty throughout, that the floors were overloaded and that if any deaths resulted from the accident he would summon the owner and architect before him for an investigation. The building is owned by Philip Wattenberg of 1,253 Franklin Avenue, and was constructed by the Model Construction Company of 578 East 138th Street.

E. L. Raldaris, Chief Inspector of Buildings, who was also on the scene, declared that the mortar used in the building was not good. On this point Coroner Schwanecke and Supt. Henderson fell into a dispute, whereupon the Coroner called Lieut. McMahon and ordered him to arrest Raldaris for interfering. Raldaris in turn demanded the arrest of the Coroner on a charge of assault. Friends intervened, however, and as no one seemed to know what the quarrel really was about the matter was dropped.

Supt. Henderson said later that an inspector of the iron girders and crossbeams ordered the ironworkers out of the building two days ago on the ground that the iron girders were lighter than the plans called for. His order was obeyed, and the ironworkers had not returned yesterday. Supt. Henderson said also that the accident may have been due to weakening of the wall by the recent heavy rains.

DR. COOK TESTIFIES

And Cap'n Osbon Will Tell the Testimony for $20, but It Contains No News.

Dr. Frederick A. Cook, who once thought he might have discovered the north pole, appeared as a witness yesterday afternoon at 49 Wall Street in the office of Carl L. Schurz, who was appointed by the German courts a Commissioner to take testimony in the suit brought in Germany by Rudolf Francke to recover 20,000 marks from Commander Robert E. Peary, on the charge that Peary took away on his auxiliary steamer Erik furs, walrus tusks, narwhal tusks, and the like, belonging partly to Dr. Cook and partly to Francke, who had accompanied the doctor in the earlier stages of his near north polar expedition, but returned ill to Etah. Dr. Cook testified at an earlier hearing of the case in London some months ago.

Commander Peary was notified that he had the privilege of attending yesterday's hearing, but he did not appear, being represented instead by Harold Russell Griffith of Joline, Larkin & Rathbon, as counsel. Mr. Francke, Dr. Cook, and Cap'n B. S. Osbon, who helped Dr. Cook discover the north pole after his return to the bosom of the American people, until the doctor decided he might have been mistaken, were present at the office. But, since the examination was private, Cap'n Osbon was not alowed to attend the hearing itself.

After the hearing, however, Cap'n Osbon told a TIMES reporter that he had in writing all the questions that were asked of Dr. Cook, and that the doctor had promised to tell him all the answers he had given, to give in turn to the press.

"But I want dollars for 'em," he added. He explained that he wanted $20.

Dr. Cook, asked what he had testified to, said he would tell his answers to Cap'n Osbon, patting the Cap'n's shoulder as he spoke, and would let the Cap'n make what arrangements he could with the press.

Mr. Schurz, the Commissioner who took the testimony, said he could not as Commissioner make it public, but he said it contained nothing at all new.

EXCHANGE SUSPENDS BROKER

F. W. Duryea Violated Rules in Accepting a Speculative Account.

The suspension of Frank W. Duryea from membership in the Stock Exchange for three months was announced on the floor yesterday, following action by the Board of Governors, which was taken on Wednesday, but not made public at the time. Mr. Duryea was accused of accepting a speculative account from an employe of another member of the Exchange. The firm of F. W. Duryea & Co. made the following statement after the announcement:

> We recently discovered that one of our customers who had been introduced by our Branch Manager as, and whom we believed to be, a Long Island real estate dealer, was in fact an employe of another Stock Exchange house. The account was at once closed, but because of the technical violation of the rule against dealing with employes of fellow members, the Exchange took the action announced to-day.
>
> Arrangements have been made with Van Schaick & Co. by which we will extend to our customers the same facilities in the transaction of their business as in the past.

The firm is composed of Mr. Duryea and Emlen T. Littell. It was organized in December, 1901, and has offices at 7 Wall Street.

Verdict for Hudson-Fulton Accident.

John Cook, a lineman, who broke an arm and a leg when a temporary light pole erected for the Hudson-Fulton celebration in front of the Hotel Majestic fell while he was on it, recovered yesterday a verdict of $6,500 against the New York Edison Company in the Supreme Court before Justice Lehman. Witnesses testified that the pole had not been properly set.

NEW LINE OF ATTACK ON MRS. JOHNS'S SUIT

Hoe Estate Gets Decision in England Which It Hopes Will in Effect Annul the $145,000 Bond.

EVASION OF "DEATH DUTIES"

Executors Brought Action in British High Court of Justice Expecting That It Would Be Negatived.

How the estate of Robert Hoe "stooped to conquer" in a legal action in England that it might stand in a better position in its litigation with Margaret Johnson Brown Johns in this country was told yesterday in legal papers submitted to Supreme Court Justice Cohalan. By offering a defense which the executors hoped might fail, and pressing it to the highest courts in England on grounds identical with those at issue in Mrs. Johns's suit to recover on a bond for $145,000, the executors obtained a decision which they regard as of so much value to their case that they asked Justice Cohalan to renew a commission to eminent British barristers.

The effect of the decision, the executors believe, will be such that under the English law Mrs. Johns will find it impossible to enforce her claims. The barristers to be examined are expected to testify that this is the effect of the new English decision. Since Mrs. Johns must make her claims in the American courts good under English law, because the bond was made in England and must be governed by the law of that country, the executors feel that they have won a notable strategic victory. Justice Cohalan granted the order for the new examination.

The decision, according to the attorneys in the case, opens a new line of defense to the Hoe estate, which formerly fought the claims of Mrs. Johns on the ground that the Hoe gifts and assignments to her were for a consideration contrary to public policy, and hence unenforceable. The new line of defense will be that the deeds and bonds given by Hoe were an attempted testamentary disposition. To get a court decision that such an attempted testamenary disposition is illegal, a point not hitherto decided, the Hoe estate refused to pay to the Board of Governors and Guardians of the Foundling Hospital a half year's rent for the Hoe house, Brunswick Square, London, when it fell due. They set up that Mrs. Johns was responsible, on the ground that an assignment of the lease of the house, to insure her tenancy after Hoe's death, had been made to Harold Burne Hopgood, an attorney. Mrs. Johns, it is believed, would not have fought this proposition if she had been the defendant, but unfortunately for her the Foundling Asylum, as defendants, raised the very point which the Hoe executors hoped would be raised, that the assignment was an attempted testamentary disposition. The British High Court of Justice gave the Hoe estate an unpleasant and undesired victory, but the Foundling Hospital took an appeal and the Court of Appeals, composed of Lord Justices Williams, Farwell and Kennedy, overthrew the agreement and assessed the rent against the Hoe estate. Lord Farwell said:

"If effect could be given to such a transaction as the present one an easy way of defeating the provisions and safeguards of the Wills Act and evading death duties has been found."

Lord Kennedy said: "It is an attempt by means of the deed to make in regard to this property and interest dealt with by the deed a testamentary disposition which is not attested in the way provided in the Wills Act and which the law treats as a nullity."

PINKNEY ESTATE IS SUED.

Interborough Demands the Return of a $5,000 Deposit on Land.

The discovery by the War Department that a triangular section of the plot of land bounded by 148th Street, Exterior Street, Lenox Avenue, and 147th Street is outside the bulkhead line of the Harlem River and has been illegally filled in and must be scooped out is responsible for a suit brought by the Interborough Rapid Transit Company against the estate of Mary G. Pinkney.

The Pinkney estate agreed to sell the land to the Interborough for $72,000 and took $5,000 on account. When the discovery was made the Interborough officials say they asked for their deposit and the representatives of the Pinkney estate ignored their request. The bulkhead line is said to run diagonally across the plot of land the Interborough agreed to buy.

SPIRIT NOTES FROM JO-JO.

Testimony of Visions of Mrs. Bull in Suit Contesting the Will.

ALFRED, Me., June 15.—Spirit messages transmitted by "Jo-Jo," a wealthy London woman interested in East Indian mysticism, to Mrs. Ole Bull, widow of the great violinist, and references to visions of the dead which Mrs. Bull experienced, were some of the things testified to to-day by Mrs. Edith Swanander of Brooklyn, N. Y. She was on the witness stand most of the afternoon in the hearing of the contested will of Mrs. Bull in the Probate Court here.

During a visit by Mrs. Bull to Mrs. Swanander at the latter's Brooklyn home, the witness testified, Mrs. Bull received notes from a Mrs. McLoud of 12 Burton Street, Berkley Square West, London, who signed herself "Jo-Jo." One note contained messages purporting to have been received from a Dr. Coulter, who had died several years previously. It said:

> Dear Friend: These separate messages were sent me from Dr. Coulter on Dec. 12, and each word is his. I added nothing, nor did I ask questions. Heart's love. JO-JO.

The messages referred to were as follows:

> Dear Friend: Tell Sarah to educate Swami's brother another year or more. Remember that, and also to have enough money to carry on Swami's work, and that Margot is needed in England. Tell Sarah to hold strong to the thought of getting well, and trust in God. And if she needs me, I will go to her any time. Tell her to try to get into more sympathetic relations with her daughter, to forget the past, and live in the present and future.
> Dear Friend: Tell Margot she must leave there. She is needed in India, and must make her arrangements accordingly, especially to help and talk with Sarah about what she means to do about the future of Swami's cause.

The "Margot" referred to was Miss Marguerite Noble, or Sister Navidita, as she is known in India, to whom Mrs. Bull once referred, according to Mrs. Swanander, as "the greatest living woman."

Mrs. Swanander said that while Mrs. Bull was her guests she had always referred to her brother, Joseph G. Thorp, in a very loving manner. Mrs. Bull spoke frequently about what a bother her account books were, and how kind her brother, Mr. Thorp, was to take care of them for her.

In one of Mrs. Bull's visions said Mrs. Swanander, she saw Dr. Charles L. Henderson, a New Hampshire physician who had written a book in which Mrs. Bull figured prominently. Dr. Henderson was remembered in Mrs. Bull's will with $20,000 for charitable and educational work.

In other visions Mrs. Bull, according to the witness, had seen some of her dead friends and relatives, including her husband, the famous Ole Bull; her granddaughter Edwina, her mother, and her father.

According to Mrs. Swanander, Mrs. Bull had made but had forgotten to carry out several plans for disposing of her money, and explained her own forgetfulness by a horoscope reading, saying that she was born "under Gemini," and was therefore unbalanced.

Mrs. Swanander said she had lived in Brooklyn twenty-five years and resides at 629A Madison Street. She first met Mrs. Bull in 1896 at a parlor meeting at 238 West Thirty-ninth Street, New York, but did not remember in whose home it was held. She went there by invitation to hear a lecture by Swami Vivokananda. While she was standing in the middle of the room Mrs. Bull approached her and asked: "You are a Scandinavian?" She replied in the affirmative, whereupon Mrs. Bull said: "Let me embrace you for the sake of Ole Bull."

In 1910 she was invited to Mrs. Bull's cottage at Greenacre, Me., where her daughter, Miss Siri Swanander, already was visiting. Mrs. Bull looked very thin and told the witness that she was unable to eat because of trouble with a nerve in her stomach. Mrs. Bull went to Mrs. Swanander's home in Brooklyn on Nov. 1, 1910, for a visit of five weeks. Mrs. Bull spoke lovingly of her daughter, and always with much affection.

500 GIRLS IN A PANIC.

Rush from Factories When Electric Light Fuses Blow Out—None Hurt.

Five hundred girls were working in the five-story building at 546 and 548 Broadway at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon when the fuses on an electric light switchboard blew out with a noise and a flash. The girls rushed to the street shrieking, but beyond some torn dresses no one was injured and all went back to work in half an hour.

The same girls were at work about six weeks ago when a fire started in a neighboring building. Some one in their own building cried fire and they rushed downstairs. Twelve of the girls were bruised and injured by falling through a balustrade, which broke in the rush.

Three hundred of the workers are with Scherr Brothers, shirtwaist manufacturers, on the third floor, and 200 with the Harris Brothers, shirt makers on the second floor.

*Batted for Casey in the eighth inning.

Two-base hits—Chase, (2,) Hartzell, Cree, Fisher, Cobb. Sacrifice hits—Gardner, Sweeney. Stolen base—Hartzell. First base on errors—New York, 1. Left on bases—New York, 10; Detroit, 5. Double plays—Knight and Chase, Shaller and O'Leary. Struck out—By Fisher, 5; by Mullin, 2. Bases on balls—Off Fisher, 2; off Mullin, 2. Hit by pitcher—By Mullin, 1, (Wolter.) Wild pitch—Mullin. Umpires—Messrs. O'Loughlin and Connolly. Time of game—One hour and forty-five minutes.

The ferocious Detroit Tigers became as mild as pussy cats on the Hilltop yesterday, and again lost to the Yankees, being branded with the zero end of a 5-to-0 score. It was Ray Fisher's classic pitching that baffled the runaways and stripped them of all their snarls and growls. Fisher gave them five hits, scattered through as many innings. In the other four stanzas he held them hitless. Jennings sent the veteran, George Mullin, to the mound to get the Yankees out of the path, and Chase's team developed a batting streak that splintered every curve that Mullin had.

Fisher had the Detroit cannonaders at his mercy from the start. Ty Cobb got two of the raps and Jim Delehanty two others, the fifth being a bunt by Shaller. Cobb was the only Tiger who threatened to score, and in the ninth inning he clipped a hit to centre field which would ordinarily have been a single, but by his reckless base running he stretched it into a double and went to third after Crawford's long fly to centre field. Fisher fanned Cobb in the fourth inning, and the crowd of 12,000 persons made much noise about it. Striking out Cobb going at his present rate of speed is a work of art in itself. Cobb is the one man in the league who knows no traffic ordinances or speed regulations.

The Yankees went at Detroit in slambang fashion and forced the attack all the time. It required so much attention and energy fighting off the Yankees' aggressiveness that the Tigers' progressive manner of smashing into things was lacking. Fisher fanned five of them and gave only two bases on balls. Behind the young pitcher the New Yorks contributed encouraging support, and the team had all the earmarks of a tip-top ball nine. Chase found his batting eye again and ripped out two doubles, while Fisher aided the Detroit demoralization with a commendable batting talent, as well as his sterling pitching. Hartzell and Cree also brandished the ash with wholesome effect.

Attorney Hugh Jennings did not present a very strong case. His arguments yesterday didn't hit the nail on the head, and although he exhausted much oratorical ammunition, there was never a time in the trial when the jury leaned toward a decision for him. One thing that Jennings did was to scatter smiles and good cheer about, even in the face of defeat. He's as good a loser as he is a winner, Hughey is.

Mullin was tottering under the spirited assault in the first inning. Daniels burned a grounder through short that scorched Bush's hands. Owney got Wolter's grounder and tossed him out at first. Hartzell drove a double to left field and Daniels scored. Cree followed the good example and smashed a two-bagger between centre and left, scoring Hartzell. Mullin got his bearings then, and Knight and Chase were easy outs.

The Yankees were spunky in every inning, ad got into the run getting again in the fifth inning. With one out, Wolter singled to centre, and went to second on Mullin's wild pitch, scoring on Hartzell's second hit. Cree walked, and Knight banged a high fly almost to the scoreboard. It looked as if Shaller didn't have a chance to cash the rocket, so Hartzell raced around and was nearly at the plate when the Detroit fielder made a gorgeous catch. He hurled the ball back to second base and doubled up on Hartzell.

The eighth inning was one of pains and aches for Mullin. Knight started the session with a lively jolt to centre field. Stanage, who had succeeded Casey behind the bat, saw Knight with a generous lead off first base, and pegged the ball in that direction to catch him. Stanage's heave was yards too wide, and the ball rolled to the stands, Knight going to third.

Chase ripped off a double, scoring Knight. Gardner sacrificed Hall to third, and the Yankee leader traveled home on a squeeze play, Sweeney sacrificing himself at first in the good cause. Fisher then tore off a double to right, and Daniels was same on Bush's fumble of a ground ball. Wolter was hit by a pitched ball and the bases were filled. Hartzell forced Wolter at second, O'Leary to Bush, for the third out.

Special to The New York Times.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., June 15.—The Giants won the first game of the series with the Cardinals at League Park to-day, by a score of 3 to 0. Eight thousand witnessed the battle. Harry Sallee, the star southpaw, pitched for St. Louis, and had the Giants eating out of his hand for six innings. But they plugged "Sal" hard in the seventh, a base on balls, two triples and a double, and a sacrifice netting New York three runs.

There was no action in the run-getting line before or after the seventh on either side. St. Louis lost a chance in the last half of the seventh when Sallee struck out with three men on. Bresnahan had just reached first, having been hit by a pitched ball. He signalled for McIver to bat in place of Sallee, then changed his mind and told the pitcher to try his luck. "Sal" fanned and the big chance was gone.

Crandall let the "Cards" down with five hits. The Giants carved "Sal's" curves for seven safeties. A ripping three-bagger by Murray, and the scratchiest two-bagger ever recorded in the history of baseball at League Park by Merkle, put "Sal" on the downward path. Murray's triple scored Snodgrass, who had walked. Merkle's dinky double over Koney's head tallied Murray, and Arthur Devlin's three-bagger to right centre sent Merkle over with the Giants' third run. The other four hits credited to New York were singles, which were scattered over as many innings. Both teams played errorless ball, the Giants according Crandall brilliant support. Three double plays cut a tremendous figure in keeping the New York score down. The game was run off in a hurry, the players were on their toes all the way, and the play was full of spice from start to finish.

McGraw's men played fine ball in the third, when Rebel Oakes was nipped at the plate on an attempted double-steal. Oakes got on by cracking a single to third. Huggins walked and bluffed Meyers into throwing to second. Oakes headed for home. It took a perfect throw to Bridwell and a perfect relay of the ball to the plate to get Oakes, who hit the dirt for a great ten-foot slide. The play was close, but the umpire gave New York the benefit of the doubt. The decision checked a rally that saved Crandall, who was shaky at the time.

Fortune also smiled on the Giants in the fifth. Two men were gone when Oakes tripled and Bresnahan walked. Sallee hit the first ball and whipped it over second base. It was the hit-and-run play, and Bridwell was rushing to cover the bag and landed right in front of the ball.

The only thing that looked like a hit in the first two innings was Murray's rap to left in the second round. Merkle followed with a stinger over short. Wallace Smith, who was subbing for Hauser at short, speared the ball, shot it to second ahead of Murray, and Huggins's relay got Merkle for a double at first.

Crandall's work was pleasing to McGraw. Save for two innings he was in no great danger, and he seems ripe for his turn in the box. McGraw's left-handed batters were helpless before Sallee, and the men from Manhattan had to depend upon the right-handed hitters to save the day. Murray's triple, that started the victory, was a major league crash against the wall. Devlin and Meyers also hit the Cardinal southpaw very hard.

MONTCLAIR GOLFER LEADS IN HOME PLAY

Oscar Woodward Qualifies for First Sixteen with a Score of 76 Strokes.

An evenly balanced field of amateurs competed for places in four sixteens in the qualification round of the annual invitation golf tournament at the Montclair Golf Club yesterday. Oscar Woodward of the home club won the medal with a round of 76, a stroke better than the score of F. W. Dyer, the Montclair schoolboy, and H. D. Smith, one of the Glen Ridge regulars.

With a view to giving everyone an equal chance, the committee repeated its experiment of a year ago of classifying the contestants. In other words, they were started in divisions according to their handicaps, but qualified on their gross scores the same as in any other tournament. It was then "up to" the player to make the division in which he had been placed. If he scored better than expected he could, of course, go up, but under no circumstances could he go lower. Furthermore, where a golfer failed to make his allotted sixteen, he forced himself out of the regular tournament, though provision had been made for those in the form of the "down-and-out" competition. Golfers in this class will fight it out at handicap match play.

Although the tournament cannot be said to bristle with class, yet there is no lack of strength. B. T. Allen of Fox Hills, the Staten Island champion, did not think he was playing well, but even so he finished among the leaders with a 79. E. M. Wild and M. R. Marston, Cranford's best golfers, both had 78.

So fast was the pace that a tie at 83 resulted for the last four places in the first sixteen. Five had that score—W. B. Langford of Columbia, C. P. Eddy of Princeton, Mortimer M. Singer of the home club; W. B. Bremner, another Montclair man, and E. Quincy of the Essex County Country Club. It required two extra holes before Quincy was compelled to drop out.

As might be expected, there were instances where the players failed to travel according to past performances. Several who were started as second and third sixteen men played sufficiently well to qualify in the first set. Young Dyer was one of those to move up, and so was Langford. Match play will be in order to-day, and in addition to the four regular sixteens and the down-and-out set there will also be beaten eights in the various flights.

The scores follow:

First Sixteen.—Oscar Woodward, Montclair, 76; H. D. Smith, Glen Ridge, 77; F. W. Dyer, Montclair, 77; E. M. Wild, Cranford, 78; M. R. Marston, Cranford, 78; B. T. Allen, Fox Hills, 79; H. C. Richards, St. Andrew's, 80; C. E. Van Vleck, Jr., Montclair, 80; T. T. Reid, Montclair, 80; J. Hodgson, Jr., Montclair, 80; J. F. Davidson, Chevy Chase, 81; A. R. Allen, Montclair, 82; W. B. Bremner, Montclair, 83; M. M. Singer, Montclair, 83; C. P. Eddy, Ridgewood, 83; W. B. Langford, Columbia, 83.

Second Sixteen.—E. Quincy, Essex County, 83; C. R. Gillett, Wykagyl, 84; Jerome A. Paul, Hackensack, 84; C. S. Kellogg, Montclair, 85; W. E. F. Moore, Canoe Brook, 85; H. M. Robinson, Montclair, 85; H. T. Nalor, Glen Rid TAMMANY GRIP ON ELECTIONS.

The bill to amend the election laws which has made its way in Albany under the guidance of Mr. LEVY in the Assembly and Mr. WAGNER in the Senate and with the reported support of Mr. MURPHY, ought to be killed by the up-State Democrats with the aid of all others who do not wish to see the grip of Tammany fastened on the elections throughout the State. It is a bad bill; indeed, it is so bad that it is open to the suspicion of being introduced as a club with which to enforce other measures rather than with the intention to pass it.

First, it extends the powers of the State Superintendent of Elections, which at present are limited to the City of New York and to Westchester County, to the entire State. He would have the practically unrestricted power to appoint deputies all over the State. The condition that the deputies appointed for five days must be taken from the two regular parties would only increase Tammany's facilities for making deals with the Republicans of its own sort, and would make anything like independent political action difficult to the point of impossibility. Should the bill pass, there is little hope that Tammany would not get the State Superintendent as long as the present Governor is in office. Tammany rule would thus be immensely strengthened.

Second, the bill undertakes to put an end to all combined efforts to defeat or restrain Tammany. It declares that the name of no candidate shall appear in more than one place on the ballot. The effect and intention of this would be to make fusion against Tammany hopeless. We are at present in the City of New York enjoying a City Government which, thanks to the election to the Board of Estimate of three Borough Presidents, a President of the Board of Aldermen, and a Controller, on fusion tickets, is by far the best that we have had in many years. If these officers had all been Tammany men, even Mayor GAYNOR would have been unable to do much in the way of good government. As it is, the administration is better than he could possibly make it, probably better than he would have been inclined on his own motion to make it. The passage of the Levy bill is intended to destroy absolutely all chances for another such achievement at the end of Mayor GAYNOR'S term.

There are other crying faults in the bill. They are all, however, of the same general character and are meant to put more power in the hands of Tammany and its agents. We think the bill can be defeated. If the up-State Democrats will defend their own interests and assert their independence of Tammany dictation, and if the Republicans will stand by them, the bill cannot pass. If it does pass it will be because there is not courage and decency enough in the Legislature to use the means at hand to kill it.

BREAD.

That good-natured, paunched individual, called Bread, in the dramatis personae of "The Blue Bird," typifies fairly well the "trust" which is combining the chief breadmaking establishments of American cities. Here, if anywhere, is to be found a "good trust." It will restrict competition—the competition of the cellar bakeshops, wherein Commissioner FOSDICK found conditions of uncleanliness and disease. An Inspector discovered recently, in one of Boston's bakeries, a mother and child asleep in the bread mixer; in all the congested districts of cities the loaves in the underground bakeshops have been found commonly exposed to marauding vermin and to the foul conditions that pertain to the "boarding-in" system. The "trust" erects modern, well-lighted and ventilated baking establishments of spotless cleanliness; it wraps its loaves in the bakeshop before they are handled; it invests in special wagons and impervious baskets. And it competes with other large and well-organized baking companies.

But the Bread Trust is going to restrict the business of the housewife. Seven-tenths of all the bread made in the country is still baked in housewives' kitchens, not because of the cost of "boughten" bread, but because confidence is lacking in its quality and cleanliness. The "trust" employs high-salaried chemists who know, better than any housewife can find out, the breadmaking qualities of a brand of flour. They can produce the thin and brittle crust, the medium color, the porous crumb, because they know with precision how the elements of gluten and of starch should be proportioned, how the yeast should ferment the sponge, and at what temperatures the ovens should be heated. They will produce a finer loaf. The kind of loaf, not its size or price, is the consumer's first concern. But if the Bread Trust would prosper its prices must compete with those of its rivals, the chief of whom can still use the domestic breadboard and baking range.

THE STILWELL BILL.

In spite of the earnest demand for public hearings on Mr. STILWELL'S latest bill to permit, if not to compel, the erection of the new law courts in City Hall Park, it was rushed through the Senate yesterday, and it may be "railroaded" in the Assembly. It is a bad bill, as THE TIMES has already pointed out more than once. It is designed to hamper the powers of the Board of Estimate and Apportionment, in the matter of selecting a site for the new Court House, and to limit the authority of the existing Court House Board.

It also provides that, if another site is not selected within four months, and approved by the Board of Estimate, the building for the courts must be erected in City Hall Park. Unless the purpose of the bill is to force the selection of City Hall Park as the site for the law courts, it has no purpose at all. The Board of Estimate cannot be expected to approve of an inappropriate site. The Stilwell bill is tricky legislation, and it should be suppressed.

AT WHOSE COST AND RISK?

Before the rapid transit contracts are signed more sober consideration might well be given to the point as to where the burden would fall in case of misadventure. At the moment the passengers who are eager to pay their nickels have no idea that anything more than their nickels can be asked from them under any contingency. But they are taxpayers as well as farepayers, and they should consider that what they gain on the one hand they may lose on the other hand. The tax valuations were raised the larger part of a billion dollars in order to supply the borrowing capacity necessary to enable the city to make these contracts. It is worth while considering, while there is time, how the city would fare in case all did not work out as expected.

It may be assumed that the city's associates in the expenditure of this $257,000,000—a larger sum than was ever expended for the account of any city for any single object in the world's history—are capable and responsible. But they recognize that they are not infallible, and have set an example that the city has not imitated in safeguarding the future. They plead that if they are advanced the $126,000,000 which is to be their contribution, they must have priority for the securities which they must issue. And it is admitted that otherwise the bankers and investors to whom they must apply would not finance the operation. For the balance of $131,000,000 the city is to issue its bonds. That is, the city is to supply the margin for an operation otherwise impracticable. The city's contract liability may be the figures named above, but it is in the position of any other second mortgagee, and must be prepared to take care of the prior lien. Admittedly this extra burden is a remote contingency, but not too remote to be considered by any cautious investor asked to finance the proposition which substantial railways could not. It does not follow that because the proposed bonds are within the debt limit therefore they can sell on the level with the city's earlier obligations. The railways must pay more for their capital, and the city as the responsible party in the background stands to be held for this burden on the bargain, as well as for its own interest charge at a higher rate. For the city has had it impressed upon it recently that it was not exempt from considerations affecting all applicants for capital.

It is not argued that the bargain should not be struck, and it is not suggested that the city's negotiators are not proceeding with due caution. A plea is made merely for caution in the assumption of an obligation for $250,000,000 additional to a debt now none too small. The need of caution is emphasized by the contrast between this contract and the previous one. Contract Number One, by which we got our present Subway and under which there was a proposition to make substantial additions to its present route, was considered such an improvident arrangement, it will be remembered, that it was necessary to pass laws to prevent its repetition. Yet under that contract the city had a first lien on the property, and the obligation of a responsible bidder under bond, besides the pledge of his investment. Naturally there was no risk about that adventure, and no doubt that those bonds were suitable for exemption from the debt limit. The real basis for the solidity of the present enterprise is the argument that in a decade there will be 1,000,000,000 more nickels paid for city rides. We are all sure of this, and no doubt of it is suggested.

The bearing of these considerations lies in their application to the contingency of neither bidder accepting the offered contract. In that case it is said that there would be a reversion to the Triborough plan. The idea is enough almost to reconcile the judgment to worse contingencies that those considered above. It is forgotten so soon that nobody would take the Triborough when it was offered to anybody who would operate it. It seems to be forgotten already that it was planned so that there could be no through interborough riding, and no access to the west side. It is a later demonstration that Broadway is the one route which the city needs above all others. The Triborough is unthinkable, or ought to be. But Contract Number One has certain practical allurements despite its condemnation by those who build subways in their minds rather than with investors' money. Of course taxpayers' money can build anything, but that is not a conclusive reason why it should build anything which could not be built on ordinary financial considerations. In short the building of subways is a financial operation and ought to be subject to ordinary financial considerations, one of which is not simply response to popular demand.

MR. STEWART'S GOOD EXAMPLE.

Mr. LISPENARD STEWART has set an example which many men of larger wealth than his would do well to follow. The money he is giving now to various institutions is clearly all his own. His heirs-at-law have no possible claim upon it. The most cleverly contrived will may be broken. The rich man who keeps all his money for his own use, and bequeaths some of it to build hospitals or libraries after his death, does so at the risk of having his good intentions defeated through the interference of clever lawyers.

Moreover, he misses the pleasure of giving. The enjoyment he may derive from his knowledge of the provisions drawn up on a few sheets of legal cap reposing in a steel box is as nothing to this. Post-mortem benevolence, to be sure, has done much to lessen the sorrows of the world and increase its enlightenment, but to give while one possesses, and has the power to give, is a better way. Mr. STEWART is still in the prime of his life, and though he cannot hope to rival Mr. CARNEGIE as a dispenser of funds for the good of his fellow-men, he has bravely set a splendid example which, we trust, others will follow.

THIN ICE.

We wonder if Gov. WILSON of New Jersey has definite ideas behind the sounding phrases he used last evening to the Democratic clubs in Harrisburg. If he has, we should like to see them clearly stated; if he has not, we fear that he is encouraging some tendencies in the public mind that are distinctly risky. Here is one passage from the report of his speech:

> The plain fact is that the control of credit is dangerously concentrated in this country. The money resources of the country are not at the command of those who do not submit to the direction and domination of small groups of capitalists who wish to keep the economic development of the country under their own eye and guidance. The great monopoly in this country is the money monopoly. So long as that exists our old variety and freedom and individual energy of development are out of the question.

We should like much to know precisely what Gov. WILSON means by "the money monopoly." If he means a monopoly of the various forms of currency, where does it exist, how is it acquired, how is it exerted, and what are the evils attending it? The only serious trouble we have had with monopolizing or locking up of currency has been in times of panic, when every frightened man with a pocketbook or a safe deposit box has engaged in this most disturbing and senseless business. Our currency is in a bad condition. Of that there is no doubt, but it does not suffer from the facility of monopoly. It is often piled up in the centres when it ought not to be, and there is infinite bother in getting it where it is really most needed, but the big bankers of the centres do not like this any better than the rest of us. Apparently, however, Mr. WILSON has another notion of the money monopoly. He says:

> A great industrial nation is controlled by its system of credit. Our system of credit is concentrated. The growth of the Nation, therefore, and all our activities are in the hands of a few men who, even if their action be honest and intended for the public interest, are necessarily concentrated upon the great undertakings in which their own money is involved and who necessarily, by every reason of their own limitations, chill and check and destroy genuine economic freedom. This is the greatest question of all, and to this statesmen must address themselves with an earnest determination to serve the long future and the true liberties of men.

This is a very earnest but somewhat vague expression of a sentiment that prevails to a considerable extent in the country. One effect of this sentiment has been to make it extremely difficult to reform the currency and to organize a system of bank issues that would correspond to the real needs of commerce, because such a reform involves a certain form and degree of central organization, and the mere name of "concentration" scares those who do not know how proper concentration works. This sentiment underlay the popular movement toward greenbackism and free silver, which were so stubborn and so terribly, so pitifully costly. We do not wish to believe that Mr. WILSON is the victim of this sentiment in its cruder forms. But in the manner in which he expresses himself many unthinking people will imagine that he is, and will accept him as a leader in the dangerous politics this sentiment inspires. It would be a misfortune for the country if so able a man as he should give encouragement to a spirit that must breed infinite confusion, error, and suffering. And, frankly, it would be disastrous to him as well.

THE RECURRENCE OF CASTRO.

CIPRIANO CASTRO again has the world by the ears. Venezuela's enjoyment of its centennial celebration is to be marred, it seems, by the general fear that CASTRO is about to pounce upon the republic, and convert its finances once more to his own uses. CASTRO is on a ship called Consul Grostuck, and was recently heard of from Port de Paix. The State Department at Washington and France, Great Britain, Holland, and Germany are all determined that he shall not be permitted to return to Venezuela. But CASTRO, in the past, has found ways to outwit Governments.

As a matter of fact, however, CASTRO and CASTRO'S pretensions could be viewed humorously, if it were not for the persistent rumors that an expedition in his behalf had been fitted out, armed, and provisioned with American money. As long as American citizens are willing and able to defy neutrality laws for the sake of "concessions" in South and Central American countries, the relations of the United States with Latin America will remain in an unsettled condition. The story of the outfitting of an armed Castro party at New Orleans may not be true. But it is firmly believed by many persons in the Southern port who have been going about lately with open eyes and ears. Everybody remembers the Honduras expedition. The best way for our Government to suppress CASTRO, and all other disturbers of international peace, is to prohibit strictly the equipment of warlike expeditions against Latin-American Governments on our soil, and restrict the activity here of "soldiers of fortune." We have good reason to believe that the Administration is preparing to act forcibly in this matter.

THE RACING BILLS.

The restrictions against race-track gambling have incidentally spoiled the business of horse racing in this State. Horse racing must be supported by money, more money than supports other popular forms of sport like baseball. The charging of an admission fee as low as 50 cents would crowd the stands at a horse race, but it would not begin to support the expensive racing establishments. If an entrance fee of $3 were charged, the stands would not be crowded unless the bookmakers were there, and even then the race tracks would need the secret support of the poolrooms in order to be profitable. These considerations are uppermost in the minds of the supporters of the Gittins racing bills.

The bills would relieve the Directors of responsibility for organized gambling at the tracks and elsewhere. The bookmakers and representatives of the racing interests are at Albany, trying by every political device to force them through. They are bringing pressure to bear upon Senator WAGNER, who was elected to the Senate three years ago because his predecessor voted against the race-track reforms in violation of his pledge. If Senator WAGNER and his associates, ROOSEVELT of Dutchess, BAYNE of Richmond, and BURD of Erie, continue to stand out against the bills, the Democratic majority in the Senate will need the help of Republicans to pass them. If passed, they will be passed in defiance of public sentiment and contrary to the public interest. The public does not need a sport dependent upon poolrooms, which depend in turn upon their winnings from the poor.

Director HORNADAY will not stop to enjoy his latest triumph—the passage by the Legislature of his No-Sale-Of-Game bill. He is working hard to obtain the good offices of Congress in stopping the killing for a fifteen-year period of fur seals upon the Alaskan Islands.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Why Weather Forecasts Are Printed.

In a moment of irritation, due, possibly, to getting his new straw hat wet in one of the recent thunderstorms, a correspondent solemnly asks what justification the newspapers have for printing from day to day "the misleading prognostications of the Weather Bureau." The question could be dismissed as of such easy answering that to reply to it was unnecessary, but as a good many people share this inquirer's impatience with the fallibility of the official weather prophets, a little serious discussion of the subject seems to be in order.

The bureau's "indications" and "forecasts" are printed by this and other papers for many reasons, the two most important of them being, first, that it is of some value to everybody and of great value to many, to get any available information as to what the weather is likely to be, and, second, that not only is this information, as supplied by the Government through its scientifically trained observers, the very best there is, but it is practically all there is of any worth whatever. Nobody else has anything like the same facilities for finding out what the weather has been in all parts of the country, and that means that nobody else is as well qualified to express an opinion as to what the weather is going to be.

All the other prophets are either quacks or empirics, and whatever little reputation they may have with the benighted results from the fact that they confine themselves almost exclusively to long-distance prognostication. What they say is forgotten before the time for the vindication of their powers comes around. Therefore do they proclaim many a triumph that was really a failure, and the few that weren't were just blind luck. The bureau men, on the contrary, are put on trial to-day for what they said yesterday. Only too often their judges will not take the trouble to understand what an official forecast really means, will not keep in mind that always there goes with it the implication that "this is the best we can do, and you must take it for what it is worth," and will not make a fair balancing of hits and misses. As a rule the hits pass unnoticed, while every miss becomes a long-treasured grievance against the service.

Unfortunately, the thing that people most want the bureau to do—to forecast the weather exactly for very limited areas—is the thing it can do least well, and a good deal more than half of what are called its failures are, in fact, highly creditable successes.

Bad Spelling and the Child Mind.

Supt. MAXWELL'S speech at the annual dinner of the Simplified Spelling Board has been put in pamphlet form and sent all over the country—simplifiedly spelled, of course—and the board's members evidently think that it is going to advance their cause a lot. That's as may be, but the hopeful gentlemen should not get too excited over the gaining of another eminent ally, for from the beginning of their campaign they have had all the language experts on their side and yet have to win their first pitched battle with the opposing army.

Dr. MAXWELL began his address by saying that by training and temperament he was opposed to simplified spelling—that he disliked all the new forms and abominated some of them. This must have had a dismal sound for his hearers, but they had reason to brighten up when he proceeded to admit practically all they claimed as to the absurdity of our present spelling and cut down their assertions concerning its retarding effect on the education of children only from two years to one. He even went further than some of them do when he said:

> The loss of time, bad as it is, is not the only evil which results to our public schools on account of our unscientific spelling. The memoriter process renderd necessary in lerning to read and to spell produces disbelief in reasoning as a means of lerning and a lack of confidence in inference. The result of falling into ridiculous mistakes by depending upon reasoning or analogy in spelling, is to make the child timorous about reasoning in arithmetic, geografy, history, and grammar. The habit of depending upon memory exclusivly in spelling engenders the habit of depending on memory in every other study, and so retards progress in teaching children to think for themselvs.

Not all of that would be easy to prove. There is, indeed, more than excuse for gravely doubting whether any child ever questioned the rightness of any spelling or ever had his trust in reason, logic, or inference consciously weakened by our orthographic eccentricities. Children are not made that way and their minds do not work that way—or else the sad experience has left strangely few traces in the minds of some of us.

Secrecy Seems Obnoxious.

Nothing has yet appeared in the so-called "Day voucher puzzle" to indicate that the puzzle veils a real scandal—that anybody has stolen anything or used any money for improper purposes. Yet in many of its features the miserable little affair does more than hint at something, if not wrong, at least highly injudicious, in the methods of department bookkeeping and tends to increase the already general dislike for secrecy in the handling of public affairs and public funds.

Hardly anybody would go so far as to say that the Government, and especially the State Department, should never go about its work quietly, should never keep any details of its negotiations to itself, either for a while or permanently. It is generally admitted that to some officials it is well to intrust certain discretionary powers as to what and when they shall disclose concerning the steps by which announced results were reached. Nevertheless the tendency of the times is to make diplomacy, once as a matter of course wholly mysterious, more and more frank, and steadily to reduce the number of "state secrets."

We all want to hurry the change and every episode which shows it still incomplete troubles or irritates us. Above all things, bookkeeping, even though—particularly when—not open to general inspection, should be exact and veracious.

REV. DR. YOUNG EXPLAINS.

Misinterpretation of His Remarks About St. Paul and Games.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I find myself widely quoted as having said in my sermon last Sunday evening that St. Paul was a baseball fan or would have been had he been living to-day, or words to the effect. I have never made that statement or its equivalent. Such a statement would be absurd on the face of it and very improper from the lips of a Christian minister. I did say that St. Paul used illustrations from the ancient national games, and it was reasonable to infer that if he were living to-day he would use illustrations from the baseball games, and I implied that, if necessary, he might for preaching purposes attend a baseball game.

I distinctly avoided implying that he went to games for his own entertainment or that he would do so if here to-day. I took the position that inasmuch as he so often used the illustrations from the games without ever intimating any disapproval, we have some ground for believing that he did not in the main disapprove of them. I am not here undertaking to rehearse all I said in the sermon; but only the essence of what I said on the one subject of St. Paul's illustrations from athletics. The sermon itself was occupied almost entirely with the enforcement of the spiritual lessons suggested by St. Paul's sentence: "Every man that striveth for the mastery is temperate (Greek meaning 'governs himself') in all things."

Poisonous Sulphur Matches.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

My attention has been called to the letter of John B. Andrews in your issue of to-day relative to phosphorus poisoning, and especially as concerning the death of a child in Trenton. This is only one of many deaths which are occurring almost daily from similar causes.

Mr. Andrews is no doubt correct in his idea that legislation alone will compel the match manufacturers of this country to make non-poisonous matches, and thus provide for public safety. The Esch bill, to which he refers, is, I believe, opposed by all except one of the match manufacturers in the United States, and this is the only concern which has been pushing the sale of a safe non-poisonous match.

The Diamond Match Company has canceled its patent on sesqui-sulphide of phosphorus, which is known to be a safe substitute for white phosphorus, yet the match manufacturers are vigorously pushing the sale of poisonous matches. JOHN KIDD.

The Doctors' Charges.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

That old question about the difference of doctors' fees to rich and poor, on which you comment editorially to-day, is satisfactorily justified, by the doctor at least, by assuming not that he charges the rich more, but the poor less. He considers that he has a maximum fee, which some can pay, and from which he makes deduction according to the circumstances of the patient. W. C. DEMING.

VIEWS ON THE SUBWAY PLAN.

Excerpts from Editorial Opinions of the New York Newspapers.

Here are the comments of the New York newspapers on the McAneny-Willcox rapid transit report:

From The Sun, June 15.

An ideal transportation system for New York would be a monopoly, employing subway, surface, and elevated railroads. This is unattainable. The Board of Estimate and the Rapid Transit Commission have been obliged to take into account existing railways. * * *

The proposed lines offer excellent promise of developing the outlying boroughs for residential uses, and the possibilities of extending the routes, or serving them with feeders, are obvious. Manhattan below Central Park has been treated as the centre of the city to which all will wish to come, and this seems a reasonable and logical assumption.

The financial conditions proposed by the committee appear to be at least as rigorous and far-sighted as is necessary. The benison of a five-cent fare to Coney Island is provided.

From The World, June 15.

The abandonment of the Triborough route last Fall in the attempt to bargain with the transit companies will probably cost in all a year's delay. The people have the right to demand that this delay shall not be prolonged one unnecessary day.

The best way to prevent waste of time is for the Board of Estimate unanimously to back up its committee, as the Public Service Commission does, in the demand that the companies shall at once decide and state whether they will accept the terms offered.

It should be understood that the city will stand pat upon the McAneny ultimatum; if either company refuses the bargain offered, so much of the mileage assigned to it as convenient should be awarded to its rival. If both refuse, the city should at once begin the construction of the Triborough route. * * *

The crowning value of the Triborough is that it will be when completed a five-borough system. It traverses the whole city. It brings competition into every borough. If it were constructed and independently operated, both the present monopolies would be compelled to improve and extend their lines or drop behind. The city could do much worse even after this delay than resume the halted building of the Triborough.

From The Tribune, June 15.

The Interborough Rapid Transit Company and its Brooklyn rival have nothing to say for publication about the report of Mr. Willcox, Mr. McAneny, and their associates. This is a sign that they realize the seriousness of the situation. There is no longer any room for "bluffing." The future of both corporations depends upon their present decisions. * * *

The city will be in a strong position if it adopts the report. For the first time it will have a definite programme decided upon, and may no longer be trifled with, "bluffed," or fooled into making more favorable terms than need be.

From The Herald, June 14.

The report on subways submitted yesterday by the Conference Committee of the Board of Estimate and the Public Service Commission on the face of it pleases neither of the companies that have submitted bids for construction of the new routes. * * *

The committee, in brief, would reject the offers of both corporations and makes entirely new proposals which it wishes to be empowered to negotiate on behalf of the city. With the view of bringing pressure upon both corporations it is suggested that if either one declines the lines proposed for it these shall be offered to the other, and if neither accepts the city shall proceed at once with construction of the so-called Triborough route. This would be a regrettable alternative, for there are other things for which the city will need its available funds and credit.

From The American, June 14.

Without passing judgment on the complicated propositions of the subway report that came to light yesterday, The American speaks for a harassed and exasperated public in insisting that negotiations should be brought quickly to an end.

If the city's future subways are to be divided between two private operating companies, the most important provision in the contract will be that enabling the city to recapture one or both of the new subways at the end of ten years. That insures good behavior. It insures public control as well as public ownership.

From The Press, June 15.

Probably the best feature of the McAneny report on rapid transit, recommending a division of territory between the Interborough and the B. R. T., is the one which provides that if either of those corporations rejects the city's terms the other may have the routes laid out by the Public Service Commission and the Board of Estimate, and that if both should reject the routes offered them, then the city shall go ahead with the construction of the original Triborough subway. * * *

In all probability the two companies will try to reopen the negotiations, while the Interborough, in the hope of driving the B. R. T. out of the field or getting a "gentlemen's agreement" with it, probably will play for delay as long as the great patience of the Board of Estimate and the indifference of the Public Service Commission will grant. * * *

There is every indication that the building of the Triborough by the city, which ought to be under way now, is what all the talk will come to.

From The Evening Mail, June 14.

Best of all, the metropolis has asserted, and therefore has attained, its mastery over the public service corporations which would carry its people to and from their work. The report discloses it no longer standing hat in hand before monopoly, but dictating terms and possessed of such weapons that if its terms be rejected by either party, rejection will not matter overmuch. Let either Interborough or Brooklyn Rapid Transit sulk because it receives no more or its rival so much, and what has been conceded one will be added to the other's grant. Let both sulk and there is still power, and now apparently the purpose on the city's part, to build independently, confident it can attract a responsible operator.

From The Evening Post, June 14.

Through all their report one idea persists. It is that New York is mistress in her own house. In this subway report the city may truly be said to have found herself, in all this matter of rapid transit, as never before. That outstanding fact, witnessed to in so many ways to-day, is the chief ground for felicitation in connection with the publication of the report. * * *

The detailed plans for "leveling leases," so as to make separate franchises expire simultaneously and give the city the chance to "recapture" a given system, in whole or in part, are of the greatest significance. To show how thoroughly this matter has been worked out, we need only note that the report shows how six different lines could be, under the scheme proposed, taken separately by the city after ten years. And these are "strategic links" which would thus be under full municipal control. The leases could be extinguished or transferred from one operator to another. How highly important this would be everybody must see. And the report is equally farsighted and masterly in its dealing with the intricate questions of reckoning up profits on subway operation, and of fixing the sums which the companies can charge against the cost of construction or equipment.

From The Globe, June 14.

The McAneny Committee is to be congratulated on the largeness of the plan it has developed. It has put to good use the time that has elapsed since its appointment in January. The delay against which so many have complained has been profitable. The prospect now is not merely for rapid transit extensions, but for the settlement of the rapid transit problem for a generation. New York, if the scheme is carried through, will be on a level with Paris and London, and a reproach under which the city has suffered will be removed and intolerable inconvenience will cease.

ARBITRATION FAILS IN TEXAS LAND CASE

United States and Mexico Contest Ruling Over Ownership of Valuable Property in El Paso.

BOTH COUNTRIES CLAIM IT

Point Was if a Change of River Throwing the Lands on Our Side Was Sudden or Gradual.

EL PASO, Texas, June 15.—The International Arbitration Court, which has been sitting in the so-called Chamizal case in El Paso to decide the ownership of $7,000,000 worth of property in the southern part of El Paso, to-day rendered its decision, which is a compromise, giving Mexico part of the land in question and El Paso part. Both the United States and Mexico dissent.

The Chamizal case has been in contention between the two Governments for over a dozen years. It was really brought to the front when W. J. Warder of California filed suit in the Federal courts here to oust persons holding title to the land under the Texas laws, Warder alleging that he held title from Mexico, under the Chamizal grant.

He raised the point that the land had been diverted to the United States by a sudden change of the river, and that therefore it belonged to Mexico. The treaty of the United States and Mexico provides that where the river makes a sudden change the land thrown from one country to the other remains the property of the country to which it formerly belonged, but if the change is gradual by erosion, the territory belongs to the country into which it is thrown.

The United States has contended that the change in the river has been gradual, but Mexico points to numerous full-grown trees between the former river channel and the present river, on American soil, as proof that the change had not been gradual, else the trees would have been washed away.

The two Governments being unable to agree on the ownership of the land, a treaty was drawn and adopted providing for arbitration. Mexico chose Señor Beltrany Puga and the United States selected Brig. Gen. Anson Mills as arbitrators. Judge Eugene La Fleur of Montreal, Canada, was selected as the third Commissioner. The taking of testimony and hearing of arguments began in El Paso early in April.

Joaquin Casasus, former Mexican Ambassador to the United States, acted as chief counsel for Mexico, and A. W. Dennis, Assistant Solicitor General of the United States, was a counsel for the United States.

The tract is and always has been physically and geographically a part of the City of El Paso, Texas. About 6,000 of the 40,000 inhabitants of El Paso live upon it.

The opinion and the award of the commission are considered indecisive. The net result of the rulings of the three Commissioners, which agree only at certain points of contact, is an attempted division of the tract between the United States and Mexico, the suggested dividing line being the channel of the river as it ran in 1864, a line which the commission does not attempt to relocate, and which cannot be relocated.

The decision is the first attempt, so far as is known, in the history of jurisprudence, to divide accretion land upon the theory that slow erosion would change the boundary line and that rapid erosion would not.

A vigorous dissenting opinion was filed by the American Commissioner, who takes the ground that the commission exceeded its jurisdiction in attempting to divide the tract; that it failed to apply the rule of law prescribed by the treaty between the United States and Mexico in 1884, and finally, that the award is uncertain in its terms and impossible of application.

The Commissioner adds that the award "breathed the spirit of unconscious but nevertheless unauthorized compromise rather than of judicial determination."

The Mexican Commissioner also filed a vigorous dissenting opinion. The agent of the United States, upon his own motion and subject to the consideration and action of the United States Government, filed a suggestion of protest on the ground that the commission had departed from the terms of the submission; that the award was uncertain and impossible of application; that the presiding Commissioner on certain points had failed to state his reasons, as required by the convention submitting the case, and because of essential error of law and fact.

WASHINGTON, June 15.—As understood here, the decision in the Chamizal Zone case means a practical failure of the tribunal. In substance, the Commissioners found that up to a certain point the lands on the El Paso side of the river grew by accretion, but that at another period there was a sudden cut off by the river of a considerable portion of Mexican territory.

The lands gathered by accretion belong to America; the lands suddenly cut off from Mexico belong to the latter country. It is believed to be impossible to draw the line between the two and the whole case must be relegated to diplomatic adjustment.

A Neglected Column.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In front of the Equitable Building at 120 Broadway there stands, and has stood since the building was erected, an iron column, presumably originally intended to be ornamental and of some sort of use, but whatever may have been the builder's intention or the architect's idea in the construction of this object, neither has ever been realized, and the accumulated dust of many, many years has so coated the iron work and glass as to render the purpose for which it was intended now wholly problematical. AN URBAN WAIL.

He buttonholed me on the street,
"Excuse me if I'm indiscreet,"
He cried, "but list to me;
Should you give way to foolish ire
A gem of truth you'll miss."
He then produced a pocket lyre
And treated me to this:

"If you sing 'Home, Sweet Home'
Or a similar 'pome'
To palace, tent, bungalow, hole,
Cottage, hovel, or cave,
They will not misbehave,
But a flat hasn't got any soul!"

His lyre I seized. "Pray, answer give.
You live in one?" I said.
"I can't," he told me, "say I live
Nor yet that I am dead.
My smile I scarce can kindle more
(Just like the kitchen fire),
My life is one long janitor!
Ah, me!—please pass the lyre:

"'Home, Sweet Home' you may dub
The inside of a tub,
Lodgings down in a bin full of coal,
Standing room in a train,
Any castle in Spain—
But a flat hasn't got any soul!"

His mouth it foamed; his eye it gleamed;
To go away I tried.
"There's still another verse!" he screamed,
"Oh, very well," I sighed.
He tore his locks in fury dire,
He cast them round about,
Then once again he smote his lyre
And handed this one out:

"'Home, Sweet Home!'—warble that
Any day to your hat.
(It somehow will rise to the rôle.)
"'Home, Sweet Home,' fondly blurt
Any day to your shirt,
But a flat hasn't got any soul!"

IN ST. GEORGE'S CHURCH

Pink and Green Streamers Reach from Attendants' Hats to Handles of Their Parasols—The Guests.

The wedding of Henry Varnum Poor, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry W. Poor, and Miss Ruth Ashmore, only daughter of Mrs. Townsend Ashmore, was celebrated yesterday at noon in St. George's Church, Stuyvesant Square. The chancel of the church was decorated with greens, pink peonies, and ascension lilies.

While the guests were arriving Herman Kupfer, the organist, played several selections, including Rubinstein's Melody in F, Elsa's Bridal March by Wagner, Dubois's Cantilene Nuptials, and Handel's Largo.

The ushers who seated the guests were George J. Corbett, Duncan Harris, Guy Fairfax Cary, William Wickham Hoffman, Philip G. Birckhead, Grenville Clarke, and Henry T. Ashmore.

The gowns worn by the bridal attendants and also the flowers they carried embodied the colors of the rainbow. During the ceremony the bridesmaids formed a sort of rainbow in the chancel against a background of June flowers. It was the first "rainbow wedding" of the season and was very attractive.

The bride, who walked down the nave with her brother, Henry T. Ashmore, wore a gown of white satin with a court train, trimmed with point lace and clusters of orange blossoms. Her veil, which was also of point lace, was caught by a coronet of orange blossoms. She carried a shower bouquet of lilies of the valley and wore a diamond brooch, the gift of the bridegroom.

The Bridal Procession.

In the bridal procession the ushers preceded the bridesmaids, behind whom walked the maid of honor. Then came the bride and her brother. The bridesmaids were the Misses Elizabeth and Nina Delafield, Gladys Endicott, May Terry, Susan Ellis, Louise Jackson, and Pamela Poor, and their costumes were alike except in color.

Miss Ellis and Miss Poor, first in the group of bridesmaids, wore costumes of pink chiffon over satin, with leghorn hats, trimmed with pink taffeta and bunches of sweetpeas. Long pink taffeta streamers fell from their hats, the ends being fastened to the handle of the pink parasols which they carried, which were also topped with clusters of sweetpeas.

Miss Endicott and Miss Delafield were next in order, and their costumes were green. They also wore leghorn hats, trimmed with green taffeta and sweetpeas, the green streamers being attached to the parasols which matched their gowns.

Miss Terry and Miss Nina Delafield, the other two bridesmaids, were in costumes of purple, with streamers and parasols of the same color. Their leghorn hats and parasols were also topped with clusters of sweetpeas.

Miss Mildred Gibert Townsend, the brides' cousin, who acted as maid of honor, wore a gown of yellow embroidered chiffon over satin and a leghorn hat trimmed with yellow taffeta and sweetpeas. Instead of a parasol Miss Townsend carried a shower bouquet of sweetpeas, with streamers of green taffeta.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Hugh Birckhead, rector of St. George's, assisted by the Rev. George Norton. Mrs. Ashmore gave her daughter in marriage. Roger M. Poor waited upon his brother as best man.

The Wedding Breakfast.

After the church ceremony a small reception and wedding breakfast for relatives and intimate friends was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James B. Townsend, uncle and aunt of the bride, 357 Lexington Avenue. The house was decorated with palms, pink and white peonies, and roses.

Later the couple left on their bridal trip, after which they plan to spend the Summer at Andover, Me. They will come to New York to live at the beginning of next season.

Among those asked to the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. James Bliss Townsend, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Ashmore, Mr. and Mrs. Henry W. Poor, Miss Constance Poor, Miss Agnes Poor, Miss Lucy Poor, Miss Elizabeth Chandler, and Charles Lyon Chandler, the four latter from Brookline, Mass.; Mr. and Mrs. Reeve Merritt, Col. and Mrs. Edwin A. The bride wore a gown of white satin, trimmed with real lace and embroidered in roses and orchids, and a veil of tulle. She carried a bouquet of lilies of the valley and roses and wore a brooch of diamonds in the shape of a bird, the gift of the bridegroom.

Mrs. John Cornell Bogardus was matron of honor, Miss Pauline K. Heigham maid of honor, and the bridesmaids were the Misses Marie L. Hilbert and Ethel G. Weston. Henry R. Heigham acted as best man for his brother, and the ushers were John C. Bogardus, Charles R. Carrington, and William McDonough, Jr.

The twin brothers of the bride, Cornelis and William Cregin, gave her in marriage.

A wedding breakfast was given at the Holland House following the church ceremony, after which Mr. and Mrs. Heigham left for a trip through Canada.

SIMMONS—NICOLL.

The wedding of Mrs. Alice B. Nicoll and E. de Forest Simmons, which took place at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon in the chantry of the Church of Zion and St. Timothy's, in West Fifty-seventh Street, was a quiet one, owing to the recent death of the bride's father, Francis A. Bochmann.

The bride was unattended, and there was no reception. The Rev. Henry Lubeck, rector of the church, performed the ceremony.

The couple have gone to Canada on their bridal trip, and will live in New York upon their return.

Among those who witnessed the ceremony were Dr. and Mrs. Charles E. Simmons, the bridegroom's parents; Miss Ruby Gould Simmons, his sister; Mr. and Mrs. Charles R. Flint, Mrs. Frank M. Black, Mr. and Mrs. Henry T. Downing, and Mr. and Mrs. E. Carson Pennal.

Bird, Miss Bird, Miss Leonie Burrill, Mrs. George Whitney, Leaston Pyne, Frank Appleton, and R. W. Waterbury.

Miss Hollins is the youngest member of the Ladies Four-in-Hand Club and tooled the coach on the trip without a mishap. The start was made from the Hotel Astor at 5:15, where a good-sized crowd saw the coach off with the young woman at the reins. It rolled down Broadway and Fifth Avenue to Washington Arch, through the east side to the Williamsburg Bridge.

The coach attracted much attention through the narrow east side streets, and, although they were crowded, Miss Hollins handled the four-in-hand skillfully and brought it through. At 6:10 the coach pulled into the Union League stables, where a change of horses was made. The course led them through the Park Plaza, Prospect Park, Ocean Parkway, and King's Highway. Miss Hollins brought the coach to a stop at the Brighton Beach Casino at exactly schedule time, 7 o'clock.

$1,000,000 FIRE IN ST. LOUIS.

Special to The New York Times.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., June 15.—A fire which started in the shipping department of the Huttig Sash and Door Company to-night destroyed $1,000,000 worth of property in the heart of the manufacturing centre of the city. The fire lasted four hours.

The chief sufferer is the Huttig Company, whose loss will be $600,000 or more. The Fathman Miller Planing Mills Company, the Mound City Box Company, and the Missouri Stair Company were also wiped out. The Koken Iron Works suffered $25,000 damage. This is a subsidiary corporation of the American Bridge Company and has big contracts in Missouri and the Southwest. The machine shops of the Koken plant were saved.

While a large part of the loss is covered by insurance, the sufferers will be seriously embarrassed in filling orders. All will rebuild as soon as possible.

The blaze almost paralyzed railroad traffice and the mail service. A network of tracks runs through the fire zone and west-bound passenger and mail trains were at a standstill at the hours when this travel is heaviest.

The fire is thought to be due to a spark from a railroad engine, already lodged on a lumber pile. This tiny blaze was isolated until a breeze extended it to a huge pile of dressed pine. In a few moments whole acres of stored lumber were in flames.

William Maxwell Explains the Working of the Co-operative Alliance.

PLAN TO START ONE HERE

British Union Spends Little on Management and Members Get Full Benefit of Low Prices.

How one-fourth of the population of Great Britain has solved the problem of the high cost of living by a workingman's trust to reduce prices was told last night at Greenwich House, 26 Jones Street, in the heart of Greenwich Village, by William Maxwell, President of the International Co-operative Alliance.

Mr. Maxwell, who draws exactly $1,750 a year as head of an enterprise which sells annually more than $565,000,000 worth of goods to its members, spoke under the auspices of the Co-operative League of New York City, which is planning to launch a similar venture in the United States. He gave encouragement to the American scheme by telling how the great co-operative union of workers of which he is the head started on $26, to which many of the original members contributed only an English penny.

After tracing the growth of the British co-operative union through the stages during which its individual members demonstrated their loyalty by resisting the bargain appeals of great stores to spend all their money with their co-operative venture, Mr. Maxwell said that last year the alliance had divided profits of $11,000,000 among its membership, after distributing $286,778 in charity and a like amount on education. Last year the alliance had 82,194 employes, each of whom was rewarded with a bonus above his or her salary. Some 2,765 individual societies in various communities are members of the alliance, having an aggregate membership of 2,701,000 families.

Most of the Directors of this great alliance, which has a capital of $283,320,000, are unsalaried and work for a living at some trade. All they receive for their services to the organization and for their responsibility for the handling and auditing of expenditures of great sums of money is their third-class railroad fare to meetings, the factories, farms, and plantations of the company, and board at some modest inn. Dishonesty is unknown, Mr. Maxwell said, and the Directors serve for the honor of it. That great executive ability need not necessarily be highly paid, he said, was apparent when it was known that the co-operative alliance was run on a 2 per cent. basis, whereas most private enterprises require from 7 to 12 per cent. for management.

This great workingmen's trust, Mr. Maxwell said, has five flour mills in England, a fleet of ships on the seas, four large estates in Ceylon to raise teas, coffee plantations in Brazil, woolen mills, and cotton mills, several boot and shoe factories, groves in Greece, and wheat elevators at Montreal. It has its own jam and pickle plants and tailor shops.

Edinburgh, which is the Scotch headquarters of the alliance, numbers more than one-half of its inhabitants as members of the alliance. The English headquarters are in Manchester, with branches at London and Newcastle. The alliance maintains a purchasing headquarters for American goods in New York. Among the advantages of the plan is that the members get only pure and unadulterated products.

Besides being able to purchase goods at a lower cost than most large stores, and then sell them on a 2 per cent. margin, the alliance will give its members a dividend on the amount purchased. This dividend may be collected at the end of each year or may remain in a savings fund and accumulate interest. The alliance also acts as a building and loan association, and any member who has one-fifth of the cost of a proposed dwelling may get advances for the rest of the amount from the association. Several thousand members, Mr. Maxwell said, had paid for their homes out of their dividends from year to year, first allowing their dividends to accumulate till they had one-fifth of the amount needed to build a home and then allowing their dividends from year to year to pay for it.

"Thus," he said, "they literally ate and clothed themselves into a home, as many persons drink themselves out of one."

SUITS IN WHITE RATS' WAR.

Mountford Seeks $250,000 from Managers Who Sue Union for $300,000.

Vaudeville managers and vaudeville actors have to come to what may be a direct incentive to battle in the long threatened war between the Vaudeville Managers' Protective Association and the White Rats' Actors' Union. Both sides were served on Wednesday with summonses to appear in the Supreme Court of New York County to answer complaints of alleged libel.

Harry Mountford of the White Rats demands $250,000, individually and collectively, from the Vaudeville Managers' Protective Association and its members, because of an article printed and circulated by the Protective Association and bearing on Mr. Mountford's career. The other suit, brought by the United Booking Offices, is for $300,000, and is based on an article published in The Player, the official organ of the White Rats, in which the methods of the United Booking Offices were denounced. Both plaintiffs allege that the articles were false and libelous. The complaints are returnable in twenty days.

The disagreement between the White Rats and the Vaudeville Managers' Protective Association is of long standing. The White Rats, organized as a union, has been planning a strike against the Booking Offices for some time, and the Booking Offices, through the Vaudeville Managers' Protective Association, which was organized to meet this strike, has been preparing to fight the union. It is said that the Booking Offices has been planning to fill the vaudeville theatres with dramatic and musical attractions when the strike takes place, and to simply stop presenting vaudeville. No actor, they say, who goes on strike will ever be employed by them again.

The White Rats organization, and its affiliated society, the Associated Actresses of America, is said to have a membership of 16,000 and nearly $200,000 in the treasury. Its principal demand upon the Booking Offices and the vaudeville managers in general is that only union actors be employed in the vaudeville houses. A few weeks ago a report came from Chicago that July 1 had been set for the beginning of the strike, which at first would affect the vaudeville houses in the circuits West of the Mississippi.

CHOSE A CONCERTMEISTER.

Philharmonic Society Selects H. P. Schmitt to Succeed Theodore Spelring.

Henry P. Schmitt has been chosen for the post of concertmeister of the New York Philharmonic Society for the coming season, succeeding Theodore Spelring. Mr. Schmitt is a native of New York City. He began his musical career as a choir boy of the St. Augustine Chapel, of which church later he became organist. He studied the violin in the Leipsic Conservatory under Profs. Sitt and Hermann, and later became a member of the famous Gwendhaus Orchestra.

Upon his return to the United States he was engaged by Anton Seidl for the Metropolitan Opera House. In 1892 he was appointed assistant conductor, and in 1894 concertmeister, positions he held until Seidl's death in 1898. He appeared frequently as soloist of Seidl's concerts. Subsequently he served as concertmeister under Paur and other conductors. He has been a member of the Philharmonic Society for many years.

DIES TO SAVE HER HUSBAND.

Aged Woman Tarries to Awaken Him and Is Burned to Death.

ALBANY, June 15.—In trying to get out of her burning home early to-day after she had roused her husband, who is 78 years old, Mrs. Lucian Vrooman of Schoharie, aged 78, lost her way and was suffocated by smoke. Her body was found in a hallway on the second floor. Four boys saw the flames, and, getting a ladder, rescued Mr. Vrooman through the window of the blazing room.

ACTORS AT RIALTO BLAZE.

All Ready for Heroic Stunts, but Not a Press Agent Came to Record Them.

Next time there is a fire in upper Times Square, into which the Rialto has extended, never mind the fire box but turn in three alarms for the press agents! Last night there was a fire that cleaned out the showrooms of the Parisian Shop, run by Mrs. Therese Meyers, in Seventh Avenue, between Forty-sixth and Forty-seventh Streets, and they pungled it frightfully. Not the firemen, but a coterie of Thespians who fraternize during these dull days in that region of fancy gowners to the profession.

All the elements to make it a rare chance were there. The fire started about 8:30 o'clock when there were crowds in the square. It was a spectacular fire, and within a minute after the flames had burst through the big glass windows on the second floor the throng was so dense that Inspector McClusky and the reserves of the West Forty-seventh Street station had a hard time to keep the way clear for the firemen.

A rumor that any one of several theatres in the district was on fire quickly emptied the cafés and hotels and more spectators arrived in droves.

Here was a stage setting of roaring flames, howling fire sirens, smoke eaters scrambling up ladders, and "out in front" the surging crowds that would have filled ten theatres. Here were actors ready to scale ladders and bear out helpless victims by the score, actresses eager to do anything from ripping pieces from their petticoats with which to tie up the wounds of brave fire laddies to hanging a wreath about the neck of Acting Chief Kenlon as he stepped out of his machine after a run from Great Jones Street. Scores of chorus girls were aching to faint with excitement.

And not a solitary press agent to tell them how to do it! The fire burned out and slowly and sadly the actors wandered away.

Nor did any one take advantage of a flood scene, which surpassed anything ever attempted in the tank drama. When the firemen uncoupled their hose from the hydrant in front of the building it was found that they could not stop the flow of water. The increased pressure due to the late rains could not be held by a valve weakened by use in the fire. The water poured forth in a solid stream, and the firemen placed a barrel and several layers of sheet iron that had been ripped off the building over the hydrant to protect passersby.

The water was turned off shortly after midnight by a crew who came in one of the Water Department trucks. Meanwhile a citizen had called up THE TIMES protesting against the waste of water under present conditions. At midnight the sidewalk in front of the building was covered with débris near the gutter. Employes had taken from the pile all the dresses that had been thrown out of the building. The showroom on the second floor was completely burned out.

PARKER TO NEW LAWYERS.

Tells Graduates of Law School Money Shouldn't Be Their Standard.

Alton B. Parker gave advice last night to the 136 graduating pupils of the New York Law School, which held its commencement exercises at Carnegie Hall. He was the only speaker of the evening.

"You have had greater advantages," said he, "in this famous law school than the great leaders of the law of former days, but that doesn't mean that you will attain their position.

"You will have no difficulty in starting out on the right road, but will you stick to it? Will you keep straight on and hold to your ideals? If you will I have no hesitation in saying that you will achieve that reasonable amount of success which ought to satisfy any right-minded man. But it depends, of course, on your ideals. If your only standard is money then your ideal is not mine, and you had better choose an occupation in which commercialism is the whole idea.

"You will find the Judges on the bench are all kind to young men in the profession. I have never forgotten Judge Church's kindness to me in my first case, and since then when I have sat upon the bench I have repaid that debt with interest."

Carnegie Hall was crowded with friends of the young graduates, who sat in the front rows of the orchestra. The Faculty sat upon the stage.

FOUR LINES RAISE WAGES OF SEAMEN

QUICK END OF STRIKE LIKELY

LONDON, June 15.—The important development in the general shipping strike to-day was the concession of an advance of $2.50 a month in wages to all employes involved by the White Star and Canadian Pacific lines, an example which was followed later by the Holt and another line at Liverpool.

The present outlook is that the strike will come to a speedy end owing to the men's lack of organization or their indifference, in addition to the plentiful supply of foreigners who are ready to take their places.

At several of the large ports no inconvenience because of the strike has yet been caused, and nowhere has there been any real accession to the strike movement. On the contrary, there were several instances to-day of crews signing without protest.

It is believed that the Cunard Company will next week concede a similar advance to that given by the White Star and Canadian Pacific Lines, and that this course is likely to be generally followed by ship owners.

It is stated that the concession made will enable the Teutonic, the Baltic, and the Empress of Ireland to sail on time. The $2.50 increase per month is half the amount that the men demanded.

QUEENSTOWN, June 15.—The White Star Line steamer Olympic, which left Southampton on her maiden voyage yesterday, notwithstanding the efforts of strike leaders to delay her departure, continued on her voyage to New York to-day. During the run from Southampton to Queenstown the vessel's mammoth engines worked most satisfactorily.

SOUTHAMPTON, June 15.—The coal porters' strike while it lasted so interfered with the sailing schedules of the ships of the International Mercantile Marine Company that a rearrangement of dates has been made necessary.

The New York, due to sail on Saturday, and the White Star liner Majestic, scheduled to sail on June 21, have been withdrawn. The St. Paul will take the place of the Majestic, sailing on the 21st.

ANTWERP, June 15.—The Atlantic Transport steamer Marquette sailed for Boston to-day with an ample crew.

The Red Star Line officials say they are assured of enough firemen and trimmers to permit the sailing of the Finland for New York on Saturday.

One hour before the Marquette sailed the firemen walked off the vessel in a body. Their places, however, were immediately taken by new men.

HAMBURG, June 15.—The seamen's organization here has notified the strikers at Antwerp that the Germans will not participate in an international strike, because their demands have been satisfied. The German organization, however, will prevent the engagement of German sailors for British, Belgian, or Dutch vessels.

Matthew Tearle, Secretary of the American branch of the Sailors' and Firemen's Union, said yesterday that he had received dispatches from the International Executive Committee of the union in London containing the order for the international strike.

Secretary Tearle repeated his statement of Wednesday that the men receiving the strike order in ports outside of Great Britain would complete their round trips and strike only when they reached their home ports.

Representatives of the coastwise steamship companies talked yesterday as if they did not take the threat of a general strike of the coastwise seamen seriously. At the offices of the Old Dominion, Morgan, and other lines it was said that nothing in the nature of demands had been made. Committees of the men had called and made a number of requests. The main request was that the companies apply to the unions when they wanted men instead of to the boarding masters, as the keepers of the sailors' boarding houses are called. In other words, this was a request for the closed shop.

CLEVELAND FUND COMPLETE.

More Than $100,000 Subscribed for the Memorial Tower.

With the money in hand, plans and specifications prepared and contract soon to be awarded, the work of actual construction upon the Memorial Tower to commemorate the life and deeds of Grover Cleveland, to be erected at Princeton, N. J., within a very few weeks, will be actually under way. There was a meeting of the Executive Committee of the Board of Trustees of the Cleveland Monument Association yesterday, at which Senator Dryden presented a statement giving the result of the canvass conducted by him as Chairman of the association for raising the fund for this purpose.

The members of the Executive Committee empowered to act for the trustees consists of Mr. Dryden, ex-Senator James Smith, Jr., Richard V. Lindabury, and Haley Fiske, a vacancy existing caused by the death of Paul Morton. By invitation Moses Taylor Pyne and Dean Andrew F. West, representing Princeton University, who are also trustees of the Monument Association, were present and reported progress upon the Graduate Building, to which the Cleveland Memorial is to be attached. George W. Rouzer, who has represented Mr. Dryden in the work of raising the fund for the tower, was elected Secretary to the Executive Committee.

The committee clothed Mr. Dryden with authority to obtain bids for the construction of the tower, and the motion was adopted to recommend to the trustees the appointment of a permanent committee of three members of the Executive Committee, with executive power, to have charge of all details connected with the construction of the tower. They will act in co-operation with the committee of three representing Princeton University in the construction of the Graduate Building. It was also decided to call a meeting of the trustees for next Wednesday at 3 P. M., for action upon the recommendations of the Executive Committee.

Mr. Dryden, announcing the completion of the movement headed by him for funds with which to construct the tower, said to those attending the meeting:

"It affords me much gratification to be able to announce the completion of the work connected with the canvass of funds for the erection at Princeton of the Nation's Memorial Tower in perpetuation of the memory of Grover Cleveland. This association at the time it was organized in March, 1909, resolved to raise a fund of approximately $100,000. We have been more than successful. The amount actually subscribed and now on deposit to the credit of the association is $106,915."

JIM SMITH FLOORS HARRIS TEN TIMES

Referee Haley Stops Fight in Seventh Round at National Sporting Club.

The gameness of Morris Harris and his ability to absorb all kinds of punishment without taking a trip to slumberland were the main features of last night's bout at the National Sporting Club between the Boston negro and Jim Smith, the Westchester heavyweight. The contest did not go the full route, being stopped in the seventh round by Referee Patsy Haley while Harris was dangling helplessly on the ropes with Smith standing over him, raining terrific right and left hand smashes to Harris's head as fast and as hard as he could work his two arms. The crowd was in an uproar at the time, most of them calling to the referee to stop it, and all expected to see Harris sink to the floor as soon as he became disentangled from the ropes. Instead of falling Harris walked to his corner, a slight wabbling at the knees being the only evidence that he showed of the punishment.

As soon as order was restored the defeated negro motioned to the crowd that he had something to say, and he announced that he had not been knocked out and was willing to continue or to fight Smith at any time or at any place. He further stated that he had received short notice to get ready for the bout, and this was responsible for his condition.

Harris was a loser all the way, but his gameness and stamina forced the battle to the seventh round. He put up one of the poorest battles he has yet showed in New York and Smith's inability to take advantage of golden opportunities also helped to prolong the battle. Harris, too, showed poor generalship for a fighter of such experience. He was floored twice in the first round and in the second round he went to the canvas six times. The ropes saved him from going down oftener, as he spent about all the time in this round against the ropes when he was not on the floor. He failed to land one hard punch on Smith during the three minutes, doing nothing but take punishment, and was a complete picture of helplessness from start to finish. Yet Smith could not put him away. Harris, in his endeavor to show his real gameness, refused repeatedly to take the count after being floored, and not once did he stay down until Referee Haley counted nine. On each of his ten trips to the canvas he was up just as quickly as he could gather himself together, in the early rounds, when he was floored so often, Harris showed no desire to clinch unnecessarily, and practically all the fighting in the two rounds was open.

Harris appeared clumsy as soon as the pair got together. Early in the first round he threw himself off his balance with a wide swing at his opponent and went down on one knee. Soon after he was floored for a short count and gathered himself together only to go down again. There was plenty of action throughout the round, but the honors were all in Smith's favor.

In the second round Harris was floored as soon as the bell rang, and the blow was hard enough to keep him down until six had been counted. His chances of lasting throughout the round looked like a 100 to 1 shot until the bell sounded. Harris did nothing but bound against the floor and against the ropes during the round, and had to take a little elbowing and wrestling from Smith as well.

From this stage until the bout ended there was never a time when Harris appeared to have any chance of winning, but he rallied so well after the second round that Smith was unable to do much damage until the seventh. Smith succeeded in flooring Harris in the fifth round, but the negro was up in an instant. He was staggered several other times with hard punches in the four rounds, but managed to hold his feet.

Early in the seventh round Smith floored Harris for the tenth time, and when the negro got up he staggered around the ring, bounding against the ropes. He was in a neutral corner helpless and hanging over the ropes when the bout was stopped.

Haley took a long chance in allowing the bout to go after Smith had clearly shown his superiority, and it was demonstrated beyond a shadow of doubt that Harris couldn't win. Time and again the negro reeled around the ring helpless, and if by any chance he had received a hard blow in a vital spot there might have been a disastrous result.

The games of the Columbus Athletic League, composed of districts No. 1 and 9, Manhattan, after being postponed from last week, were finally decided yesterday at Curtis Field, Staten Island. Rain started just before the games were called, and the pupils of two schools which were on their way stopped at the ferry house and did not get any further, as their principals decided not to venture out in the rain. Seven schools were on the grounds before the storm broke, and when it passed the majority were in favor of contesting the games.

MISS SEARS'S TENNIS WINS.

Boston Girl Will Play Florence Sutton for National Title To-day.

PHILADELPHIA, June 15.—It will be East against West in the final round of singles to-morrow in the women's National championship lawn tennis tournament as a result of to-day's play at the Philadelphia Cricket Club. The representatives of the rival sections will be Miss Eleanora Sears of Boston and Miss Florence Sutton of Los Angeles. Miss Sears defeated in the semi-final round Mrs. G. Warren of Boston.

Miss Sutton's opponent was Miss Adelaide Browning of New York, and while the California girl won in straight sets her victory was harder earned than the score would indicate.

No matches in the women's doubles were played, as this event had already reached the semi-final round. The mixed doubles, however, witnessed some excellent tennis. Miss Hazel Hotchkiss, the National champion, and Wallace F. Johnson won by default in the second round from Miss Cassel and H. R. Von Wieder, but in the third round had a great fight with Miss Sutton and Alexander D. Thayer. The scores:

Championship Singles.—Semi-final Round—Miss Eleanora Sears, Boston, defeated Mrs. G. Warren, Boston, 6—1, 6—3; Miss Florence Sutton, Los Angeles, defeated Miss Adelaide Browning, New York, 6—3, 6—2.

Championship Mixed Doubles.—Second Round—Miss Hazel Hotchkiss and Wallace F. Johnson defeated Miss Claire Cassel and H. R. Von Wieder by default; Miss Edna Wildey and H. M. Tilden defeated Miss Browning and C. B. Jennings, 6—3, 6—4.

Third Round—Miss Hotchkiss and W. F. Johnson defeated Miss Sutton and A. D. Thayer, 6—4, 3—6, 8—6; Miss Sears and W. J. Clothier defeated Miss A. Hutchinson and F. E. Dixon, 6—2, 6—2.

West Side Tennis Tourney.

Most of the star tennis players of the East will get into action to-morrow, when the annual tournament of the West Side Tennis Club begins on the club's courts at 238th Street and Review Place. This tournament, which has been growing larger each year, will enable many of the metropolitan and National champions to get in competitive practice for Newport and other fixture events to be decided within the next few weeks. Play in the tournament will continue all next week. The singles will be contested every day, while play in the doubles begins about next Wednesday. The list of entries includes practically every title holder.

ON LOCAL TENNIS COURTS.

Reuben A. Holden, Jr., the Yale champion, won his way into the final round of the Ardsley Cup singles yesterday by defeating Karl H. Behr, the internationalist, 7—5, 6—1, on the turf courts of the Ardsley Club, Ardsley-on-Hudson. The young Yale player thereby bracketed with Frederick C. Inman, the New York State champion, for the trophy. Inman in his semi-final defeated Artemus Holmes, 2—6, 6—1, 6—4. The summary:

Ardsley Cup Singles, (Semi-Final Round.)—F. C. Inman defeated Artemus Holmes, 2—6, 6—1, 6—4; R. A. Holden, Jr., defeated K. H. Behr, 7—5, 6—1.

Mrs. Frederick Schmitz gained the final round of the women's singles in the Amakassin tournament yesterday. She occupies the position in the lower section of the draw, but as the top section is yet backward the exchampion may have a good rest and plenty of time to devote to the doubles. In her match in the semi-final Mrs. Schmitz played Mrs. Albert Humphries, and, though the latter was expected to put up a stiff battle against the English women, Mrs. Schmitz made the tussle rather one sided, and she secured the match with the score of 6—2, 6—1. In the men's singles F. C. Baggs reached the final round by the defeat of the Rev. Edgar A. Lowther in the semi-final. The summary:

DEFENDAM ATHLETIC GAMES.

Twenty-second Regiment Holds Its Annual Sports at Peekskill.

Special to The New York Times.

PEEKSKILL, June 15.—There was a fine attendance of Twenty-second Regiment veterans here to-day at the annual games of the members of Defendam. More than 2,000 witnessed the sports participated in by the youngsters of the regiment, which were held on a grass track laid out by the engineers. Although heavy, because of the recent rains, the performances on the whole were extremely keen and showed that the handicapper, Herman Obertubbesing, had a good line on the various competitors.

The Hospital Corps had an opportunity to show its training when Jim McEntee sprained his ankle in the final of the 100-yard dash, in which he was second. McEntee stepped into a hole after he had passed the finish line and will probably be out of the game for a month or more as the result of his injury.

Company F won the point trophy with a total of 20 points. Company E was second with 8, and I and L tied with 5. Company F also won the novice point trophy with a total of 13, as well as the relay prize. The prizes were very evenly distributed between the handicap and scratch men.

Storm Prevents Harvard Time Row.

RED TOP, Conn., June 15.—A severe electrical storm accompanied by a high wind prevented a contemplated time row over the four-mile course by the Harvard 'Varsity eight to-night. Instead of that row the two eights paddled down to the three-mile mark in rough water, and returned to the float. The three fours found comparatively smooth water under the west bank for two miles, and the 'Varsity fours had an impromptu brush, the first crew winning by a length and a half. The freshman four started at the end of a mile, and at the finish was two and a half lengths behind the second 'Varsity. If conditions favor, the time row will probably be held to-morrow afternoon.

Sailor Burke vs. Jim Maher.

One of the best boxing programmes arranged for any New York club in several months is the card which will be put on at the Twentieth Century Athletic Club to-night. There will be two ten-round bouts, and two bouts of six rounds each, all between boxers of ability. The headliner will be the ten-round session between Sailor Burke of Brooklyn and Jim Maher, the middleweight champion of Ireland, who recently arrived here.

Yale Crews Retarded by Weather.

GALES FERRY, Conn., June 15.—Weather conditions were such that the river was rough to-night when the Yale crews went out, and only paddling was attempted. The three fours went downstream to the navy yard and return, followed by the two eights, accompanied by Coach Kennedy. These two crews went down to the navy yard at a stroke that was not raised over twenty-three. On the return a strong wind sprang up, and the eights sprinted for the float.

SYRACUSE JOINS HUDSON FLEET

All Crews at Poughkeepsie Now That Will Row In Intercollegiate Regatta.

Special to The New York Times.

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., June 15.—The five colleges that are to be represented in the regatta the end of this month are now all in their quarters on the Hudson here, and this evening crews from all five colleges were seen on the river. Syracuse, the last to arrive, came in this afternoon in time to get out the shells at about the same time the other coaches sent out their crews. Jim Ten Eyck took the Syracuse crews upstream for an easy paddle, after which they went up to their new quarters at Highland. This is the first year the Syracuse oarsmen have been on the west side of the river, and they expressed their pleasure at the new location. The boathouse from which they are rowing is situated just below the railroad bridge.

The Cornell squad put in a busy day. In the morning Coach Courtney took the several crews upstream, and in the afternoon sent them over the course. To-night's row was at a much higher clip than that of yesterday.

The Cornell 'Varsity had a hard time disposing of the freshman eight when the spurt before the finish came. Courtney is making experiments with his freshman eight, and he said to-day that he would not decide on the seating of this crew until next week. In this morning's rowing the freshman eight boated in the following order: Clark, bow; Nulson, No. 2; Benson, 3; Hyland, 4; Ott, 5; Spransy, 6; MacLachlan, 7; Howe, stroke, and Thorpe, coxswain. This afternoon Murfey went back to No. 2 and Keyes to No. 3, Nulson and Benson going to the freshman fours.

Coach Rice of the Columbia crews seems to have studiously avoided anything like a row over the course in the last few days, but though he has not come down stream at all he has nevertheless been keeping his crews in plenty of work rowing up the river for long rows and spurts on the upper course above Krum Elbow. The three boats are rowing in fine form, and there has been no change for several days in the boating of any of them.

A driving time trial was held by the Wisconsin crews this evening, their two crews coming down over the course in front of Courtney's crews. The freshmen started off with a lead of about two lengths, and they practically were able to hold this for the rest of the distance. They stopped rowing at the end of the course, with the 'Varsity about a length and a half behind. Samp is still out of the 'Varsity at No. 5 on account of the slight blood poisoning in his hand, but he is expected to get back in his seat sometime to-morrow.

Ellis Ward has not yet taken the Pennsylvania crews over the full course, even at a slow paddle, but has devoted most of his time to letting the eight get well accustomed to Hoagland's stroke. The eight is still improving in form, and Ward is becoming more and more encouraged as the training is progressing.

It is expected that he will send his eight over the course in the morning row.

LATEST CUSTOMS RULINGS.

Free Entry Granted for Creosote Oil —"Scout Cards" Not "Gaming Cards."

It was made plain by a decision of the Board of United States General Appraisers rendered yesterday that the Treasury Department intends to stick to its position that creosote oil is free of duty under the tariff provision for "dead or creosote oil." Recently, Franklin F. Mac Veagh, Secretary of the Treasury, and his assistant, James F. Curtis, in charge of the Customs Division was summoned before a committee of Congress to explain why Mr. Curtis last Fall reversed the action of Customs officials in exacting a duty of 20 per cent. on the oil.

In the case decided by the board yesterday it appears from the opinion written by Judge Chamberlain that the Government failed to submit any testimony in support of the Collector's assessment of 20 per cent. duty on the merchandise in controversy. Ordinarily, the Government, acting through the Department of Justice, never fails to be represented before the board and submit evidence. This time, however, the importers alone called witnesses and submitted evidence. As the board can only decide tariff issues on the evidence as submitted a decision favorable to the importers is reached by the tribunal.

The merchandise, which was imported by Hawley & Letzerich of Galveston, was assessed for duty at 20 per cent. under paragraph 15 of the Aldrich-Payne tariff, which provides for "coal tar preparations, not a color or a dye, and not medicinal." Under the circumstances, the Collector's decision is reversed by the board. The decision is coincided in by Judges Sharretts and McClelland.

The board decided that a game known as "Boy Scouts" is not a gaming card set, and, therefore, not dutiable as "playing cards," at the rate of 10 cents per pack plus 20 per cent. ad valorem, as assessed by the Collector. Davies, Turney & Co., the importers, alleged that the cards are dutiable property, either as "toys" at 35 per cent., or as "manufactures of paper" at the same rate. General Appraiser Fischer, in holding that the goods are not playing cards, says that the use of the cards in question is otherwise than as gaming cards. They are not toys under the importers' alternate claim. The conclusion is reached that the Collector erred in his classification. The Collector is ordered to make a re-liquidation of the entries on the basis of a 35 per cent. duty as "manufactures of paper."

The board overruled a claim filed by the Altoona Zinc Works and others regarding the rate to apply on lead and zinc contents of ores. It is held that where ore, as imported contains both lead and zinc, the zinc appearing in a quantity exceeding 10 per cent., the metal content of both is dutiable, the lead under paragraph 181, and the zinc under paragraph 193.

In denying a contention raised by the Emery, Bird, Thayer Dry Goods Company of Kansas City, the board holds that self-heating alcohol smoothing irons are dutiable properly, at the rate of 45 per cent. as manufactures of metal, and not at 8-10 of 1 cent a pound, as "cast iron sadirons," as claimed by the importers.

Stock Increase to Improve Road.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, June 15.—Stockholders of the Cleveland & Pittsburg Railroad held a special meeting here today and voted an increase in the capital stock from $22,000,000 to $40,000,000. The increase, it was announced, is to take care of improvements.

NEW PANAMA BONDS LIKELY TO BE 102 1-2

QUOTED ON CURB AT 103⅛

Sale of Them Will Be a Test of Investment Demand, as They Are Not Good to Secure Bank Circulation.

Bankers are awaiting the opening of bids for the $50,000,000 of new Panama 3s to-morrow with an unusual degree of interest. Owing to the absence of the customary circulation privilege, this offering is expected to prove a real test of the investment demand.

There is a wide difference of opinion in Wall Street as to the average price which will be received. The heads of several banks and trust companies expressed the opinion that the private investment demand will bring the price up to 102½ or even better, while most bond men are inclined to think that an offer of 101½ will prove high enough to get a share of the offering.

The Secretary of the Treasury has the right to sell $290,000,000 of these bonds, of which the $50,000,000 advertised this week is the first offering. Previous Government issues have appealed to National banks, which were allowed to deposit the bonds as a basis for issuing National banknotes. Moreover, it has been the custom of the Treasury Department to leave on deposit with the banks a large part of the money required to take up the bonds allotted to them. These features greatly enhanced the value of the bonds for National banks.

It has been learned from the Treasury Department that receipts from to-morrow's offering will be called for and used to strengthen the working balance in Washington, although some of the prospective bidders are hoping that 50 per cent. of the payment will be left with them. This and the fact that the Panama 3s cannot be used for circulation have made it difficult to estimate the price which it will be necessary to offer for the issue, and will undoubtedly result in keeping down the number of banking bids.

So far as could be learned yesterday there will be no syndicates formed to bid for all or part of the $50,000,000.

One report yesterday was that Eugene Meyer & Co. were forming a syndicate, in which a bank was associated, to put in a large bid. It is understood that J. P. Morgan & Co. will not participate in any syndicate, nor submit a bid on their own account. The National City Bank will bid for a large amount, and perhaps all of the issue, but not on the basis established on the curb, where the new bonds have been quoted at 103⅛. The National City Bank bid will be made up in Washington after a conference of the bankers here to-morrow morning. Eugene Meyer & Co. are expected to bid for a considerable part of the offering, but Fisk & Robinson, who got nearly all of the $30,000,000 offered in 1904, will probably make no attempt to get any large share of to-morrow's award.

A banker who has been conspicuously successful in bidding for other Government issues said yesterday that in his opinion the $50,000,000 would be heavily oversubscribed at an average price of perhaps 101¼. He did not believe that more than $10,000,000 would be obtained by banks, and of these $3,500,000 is already been sold in anticipation. He believes that the Government's effort to test the investment buying will be rewarded by upward of 2,000 bids from individuals, but that few of these will be above 101. The average buyer is not willing to pay much of a premium over par, even for a Government bond. At the curb price the yield is brought down to about 2.85 per cent.

In some previous offerings the Treasury Department has stood back of the bankers in return for assurance of a successful sale of the entire issue. In this instance the offering is made a popular one. It is understood in some quarters that the Secretary is prepared to sell additional bonds "over the counter" at a price based on the average received for the $50,000,000, and this fact, while not generally credited, has also militated against a larger banking demand for the issue.

NOTES OF THE BOXERS.

Frank Adamus, the former lightweight boxing star, has decided to join the professional ranks, and he will make his debut to-morrow night in a ten-round bout with Jack Curley at the Fairmont A. C. Adamus recently returned from Chicago, where he spent the past year. In the semi-final bout Barry Hill, who made such a strong showing against Young Reilly last week, will oppose Artie Edwards. One other ten-round bout and two contests of six rounds will also be staged.

Jewey Smith, the English heavyweight pugilist, who has fought Tommy Burns, Sam McVey, Ian Hague, and practically all the noted heavyweights in Paris and London, has arrived in this country and is anxious to take on some of the American heavyweights. He has fought Jim Maher twice and each has won a battle, so it is likely that Maher will be his first opponent here.

The Twentieth Century A. C. is angling for a match between Porky Flynn, the Boston heavyweight, who was to have fought Joe Jeanette to-night, and Andy Morris of Nova Scotia, who recently knocked out Jim Savage of New Jersey in two rounds.

COMMODITY MARKETS.

WHEAT.—The market, after a day of irregularity, closed at a moderate net decline. News was conflicting, and price changes were quick, the market developing no decided tendency. Steadiness of cables had some influence on prices, but there was no particular interest developed from this, although there was some foreign buying of futures reported. The persistent steadiness of European markets, in face of the American decline since last week, shows an underlying condition there which may become a material factor in the market. Crop accounts from Hungary have been unsatisfactory of late, and the Hungarian market has been strong. The Government reports on European crops states that there is a notable lack of optimism over the probable yield of the Winter cereals in Europe, and they will probably fall considerably short of the production of the past two years. Weather conditions in Winter wheat States were very favorable for harvesting. There are some complaints of premature ripening and of shrunken berries, but these are not general. The Price Current states that the crop promise has improved for Winter wheat since June 1, and that the conditions for Spring wheat have been excellent. The private reports from the Northwest reiterated advices of damage in some portions of South Dakota, while the Iowa State report claims serious need of rain in that State, and unfavorable conditions for small grain. Generally the Spring wheat advices continue favorable. There was a little more export interest, and shippers reported five loads of Manitoba wheat at New York and six loads at outports. No. 2 red was quoted 95¼c. free on board; No. 1 Northern, $1.03, and No. 1 Manitoba, $1.04⅛.

CORN was moderately active, with prices advancing during the morning, reacting in the afternoon. There was some selling, on the predictions of showers, and also the reports of actual rainfall at scattered points. The cash situation seems to be largely a sympathetic one. Very little actual damage is reported, although there is a great deal of apprehension. Timely rains would still keep the crop in a position promising a record yield. Cash corn is firm, and export inquiry is close to the market. Export sales were reported at 60,000 bushels. No. 2 was quoted at 60¾c, free on board.

OATS.—Trading was active, with new high levels reached, although not held. The rains reported West were not general enough to have much effect, and the predictions of showers seem to cause only temporary selling early. Later, when early buyers tried to sell, the advance was lost. The crop situation is a serious one, and unless very shortly relieved, pronounced damage is believed likely to occur. Spot oats were steady, with standards 44c; No. 2 white, 44½c; No. 3 white, 43½c.

PROVISIONS.—Trade in hog products was very quiet again, but with prices steady. Live hog receipts West were smaller, but live hog prices were generally 5 to 10 cents lower, and this offset the lighter movement.

COTTONSEED OIL.

A marked change in the undertone of the market was witnessed during yesterday's session. While further switching by July longs and covering by shorts was in evidence, heavy liquidation was discerned. Undoubtedly, however, this selling was being anticipated by shorts, as the offerings were fairly well absorbed. Probabilities of liberal tenders during the early part of July and a belief that no important support will be forthcoming until speculative holdings have been disposed of were factors. The decline in lard values and rains in parts of the Western cotton belt were also influences not lost sight of. Consuming inquiry is not in encouraging volume. Future quotations follow:

COTTON.

Irrespective of benefits which the cotton crop will derive from the rains reported in Texas, and notwithstanding the difference of opinion as to the extent of this moisture, there was very heavy liquidation in the market during yesterday's session. Selling started abroad, and continued persistently until declines of over ¼ cent per pound had been registered in the old-crop months, and a dollar a bale had been deducted from the value of new-crop options. There was some support from the principal bull clique, but this proved entirely insufficient to stem the decline, although doubtless it restricted further outside pressure, and beam hammering. Wall Street and the South were conspicuous sellers during the day.

Liverpool was below expectations at the start, with the reports of American selling there, and while the official weather map failed to disclose any precipitation in Texas, long before our opening, there were private reports of moisture at many points. Under the influence of such advices losses of 3 to 10 points were established, and the rallies thereafter were feeble, until in the late trading, when a somewhat better tone was in evidence due to short covering, and private predictions of clearing conditions. It was argued that while parts of Texas and Oklahoma may have been relieved, there are still many sections in need of moisture, and it will take something more than light rains to benefit the soil where moisture has been insufficient for many months.

The detailed weather reports showed no moisture in any section worth mentioning excepting in the Houston district, where precipitation ranged from .02 to .70 of an inch at seven points. Temperatures were reported at over 100 in many sections. Private advices, however, were more bearish, and it was gleaned from these that rains were more or less general in the Dallas, Fort Worth, Waxahatchie, Sherman and Denton districts, and further intimated that the rains extended into Oklahoma. The official forecast was for unsettled conditions over night, in the Western belt, and generally fair in the Eastern sections. Advices to The New Orleans Times-Democrat from Fort Worth stated that there were general rains, Wednesday night and Thursday morning over a radius of 300 miles in every direction.

Although some authorities claim that there was evidence of good buying in the old-crop positions on a scale down, it could not be denied, but that offerings were free during the entire session. Tired holders were liquidating, discouraged at the good response made to bear news. When the drought reports were in full swing, July and August lagged, and although the statistical position has not weakened, these options are substantially below their high records.

Southern spot markets were unchanged to ⅛c lower, New York spot cotton quiet, 15 points decline; middlings, 15.65c. Future prices follow.

Saving and Investing

The habit of saving is the first step towards investment. After a savings fund has been accumulated it should not, however, be invested until knowledge has been gained of the principles underlying conservative investment.

It is our function as investment bankers to aid investors in selecting investments that would seem to be best adapted to their requirements, and we are always ready to extend the facilities of our organization to any one seriously interested in this subject.

In these days, it is not a difficult matter to obtain investment bonds yielding approximately 5 per cent., and which, in our judgment, combine:

1. Safety as to principal.
2. Convertibility into cash.
3. Opportunity for profit.

Stocks Sell Off After Firmness in Early Trading—Interest in Bond Offerings.

COMMODITY PRICES REACT

Money Market Effects of Panama Bond Issue and Corporation Tax Payments.

A further forward movement which carried United States Steel to 80 and Union Pacific to above 187 with fractional advances in a number of other stocks was followed yesterday by a general selling movement, in the course of which prices practically throughout the list suffered losses from small fractions to above 1 point. In a few instances specific explanations appeared for the recession, but more generally speaking the decline appeared to have its origin in selling induced by no more specific cause than the advances which lately had been made in a number of issues. As a matter of fact the movement of prices was not very closely related to current developments, for these included a sharp decline in the cotton market and a reaction in grain prices, both of which should normally have stimulated the stock market. The downward movement in the commodities market was helped, if it was not brought about, by reports of rain during the day in the Southwest, particularly in Texas, which for some time past has been in need of moisture. It has been recognized that the cotton crop in particular needed rain after a prolonged dry period, and an ample rainfall would undoubtedly be a most favorable development. The Winter wheat crop has also been needing rain, but much of that crop is already so close to harvest if it has not actually been harvested that the time is fast going by at which the yield of the cereal can be much increased by rainfall.

Great interest was taken in the Chinese bond offering, and the inquiries which came to hand yesterday fully bore out the previous day's indication of a heavy oversubscription. Another bond transaction of even greater immediate interest is the $50,000,000 offering for which our own Government will receive bids to-morrow. The success of this issue is amply assured, though bankers will not be surprised if the great bulk of the bids submitted to the Government will be well below the prices lately quoted for the issue in the advance trading on the Curb Should any such premium be realized as that suggested by the current quotations of 103 and over, it will probably show that the interest which individual investors, as distinguished from financial institutions, are taking in this issue is even greater than is generally believed. From a money market point of view considerable interest attaches to the definite statement contained in Washington dispatches that no part of the proceeds of this $50,000,000 issue will be left on deposit with the banks. If this programme is followed out it means, of course, that this full sum will be drawn from the bank reserve of the country. The bulk of the corporation tax, estimated for this year at close to $30,000,000, remains to be collected during the closing days of this month, while payments on the Panama bond issue will have to be made during the first two weeks of July. These two operations will, therefore, withdraw a very considerable amount of cash, a large part of which must in the ordinary course of events be supplied by the banks of this city. An offsetting influence is the fact that July is a month of heavy Government disbursements. Despite these heavy prospective cash withdrawals bankers are not anticipating any substantial increase in interest rates, for the reason among others that any upward tendency in money rates here would almost to a certainty start the gold inflow which would already have begun had it not been for the artificial barrier put in its way by the refusal of the Bank of France to release gold for export. Somewhat firmer interest rates, however, toward the close of this month may well take place inasmuch as these special demands upon the money market will fall coincidentally with the preparations for the July 1 disbursements.

Inquiries made yesterday for sixty locomotives by the Erie Railroad suggest a condition upon which many are counting for a very considerable increase in steel trade activity durng the next few months. In the absence of any serious impairment of the excellent crop outlook many railroads, it is believed, will feel the necessity of adding to their equipment and of increasing their maintenance outlays in anticipation of the Fall crop and other traffic movements with resultant increase in the business which steel manufacturers are deriving from the railroads. The latter have placed orders only sparingly for a considerable time past, and for the most part this withholding of orders merely means a postponement of purchases which in the long run will have to be made in order to maintain railroad standards. This is one of the strong elements in the present steel-trade position and one which in part accounts for the feeling of confidence which has been growing up in the steel trade since the events which led to the recent price revision.

THE EUROPEAN MARKETS.

Happenings of a Day in London, Paris, and Berlin.

LONDON, June 15.—Money was abundant to-day, but discount rates hardened.

The markets on the Stock Exchange were mostly quiet but firm. Consols and gilt-edged securities opened better, but failed to maintain the improvement. Home rails were higher on more reassuring news regarding the shipping strike and better traffic returns. Foreign securities closed firm.

American securities opened steady and about unchanged. Light buying advanced prices in the forenoon, and they continued to harden until the New York opening came in. Then values sagged a fraction and the market closed easy.

Money, 1¼@1½ per cent.; rate of discount in the open market for short bills, 2 5-16 per cent.; for three months' bills, 2 5-16@2⅜ per cent.

Bullion amounting to £298,000 was taken into the Bank of England on balance to-day.

Gold premium at Madrid, 8.15; at Lisbon, 9.

PARIS, June 15.—Prices were firm on the Bourse to-day.

Exchange on London, 25f 30c for checks.

BERLIN, June 15.—Prices were firm on the Boerse to-day.

Money, 3¼ per cent.

Tin Drops $160 Per Ton.

LONDON, June 15.—Tin dropped to-day and closed at £197 per ton, £32 below yesterday's closing price. The decline was due to the syndicate selling the cash metal and buying forward deliveries. The market opened excited, but the closing was flat.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

Lending Western Money Here.

Within the last ten days, despite the disposition on the part of Eastern institutions to charge a somewhat higher rate on commercial paper, merchants in this section of the country have been able to place their paper at practically the same rates as have long prevailed, namely, at 3½ per cent. for six months' maturities. This has been due to the fact that Western institutions, notably Chicago banks, have been accepting this rate on high-grade commercial paper. Normally, the Eastern markets are the ones which quote the lowest discount rates, but the strong position of the interior banks at this time is leading some of them to invest funds in commercial paper at as low, or even a little lower, rate than is being accepted by the Eastern banks themselves.

Clearing House Collection Rule.

A rule has been made by the Clearing House Committee of the New York Clearing House Association which puts a permanent barrier in the way of indirect evasion of the Clearing House rules regarding collections on out-of-town items. Acting on the inquiry of one of the New York City banks, the committee has ruled that in purchasing a note payable at a point out of town, on which a collection charge is levied on checks collected by New York banks, a bank here must include the usual collection charge. In other words, this charge must be collected on an item which a bank purchases for its own account, as well as on items accepted for collection. The committee explains that it has made this rule for the reason that any exception from the collection rule might open the way to innumerable forms of evasion of that rule.

Clearing House Reserves.

By another rule of the Clearing House Committee, all members of the Clearing House, in making up their statements of deposits for the purpose of figuring out their reserve, must do so on the basis of the regulation prevailing when the constitution of the Clearing House was changed on May 9, when the reserve requirements regarding the trust companies were modified. This means that no institution in the Clearing House, whether a trust company or a State bank, can profit by the recent law which permits State institutions to deduct from their deposits in figuring reserve an amount equal to their holdings of city bonds.

First National Stock Sells High.

A sale of stock of the First National Bank on the Exchange yesterday showed a rise of 80 points since the last sale, which took place in April. The price then was 910; yesterday's was 990. Wide price changes are not uncommon in inactive stocks, but this was sufficiently marked to attract a good deal of attention. It was considered the most interesting development in connection with the shares of any of the large financial institutions of the city since the unusual activity that took place some time ago in connection with the Bank of Commerce transaction, when large blocks of its stock were sold by the Mutual and Equitable Insurance Companies in carrying out the Armstrong law, which provides that they shall divest themselves of their stock holdings and certain kinds of bonds. When these sales were made the purchasers were interests identified with the First National and National City Banks.

International Exchange Situation.

Through importations from France, as well as purchases in the market, the Bank of England has increased its coin and bullion to £39,486,200, or nearly $200,000,000, as shown by the weekly statement issued yesterday. The increase for the week was about $3,400,000. This reflects, in part, the strong position of England in comparison with France in international exchange operations, exemplified by the present high rate of English exchange in Paris, where it is quoted at 25.30¾. The other side of this showing is also apparent in the statement of the Bank of France, issued yesterday, which shows a decrease of gold on hand of about $720,000, and of silver on hand of about $651,000. The loss of silver is almost as important as that of gold, as the bank's option to pay in silver is the principal means to which it resorts to prevent withdrawals of gold for shipment either to this country, which also has a large balance against France, or to England, to which it has been unable to prevent shipments entirely.

FIDELITY TRUST QUALIFIES.

Makes Capital $1,000,000 Preparatory to Entering Clearing House.

The Fidelity Trust Company completed yesterday the payment of its increased capital and surplus, making each $1,000,000. This step was preliminary to its admission to the Clearing House Association.

When the first batch of the fifteen trust companies which have become members of the association in the last two or three weeks were admitted the application of the Fidelity was passed on favorably, but with the proviso that the capital stock should be increased from $750,000 to $1,000,000, in accordance with a rule of the association.

The other trust companies began clearing through the institution on Monday, and it is expected that the Fidelity will do so within a few days, now that the increase has been effected.

STOCKS OUT OF TOWN

Price Movements Narrow and the Trading Featureless in Other Cities.

CHICAGO ELEVATED MERGER

Estimated That Nearly Half the Shares Bid For by the Blair Syndicate Have Been Deposited.

Price movements in other cities yesterday were generally measured in fractions, and the trading was almost featureless.

In Baltimore prices fluctuated within narrow limits, but were firm, with an upward tendency. The market was without special features.

In Boston the undertone was somewhat weaker, and under the lead of North Butte and Amalgamated some fractional declines were recorded in the active list. North Butte sold down to 33¾, Amalgamated to 69¾, and Utah Consolidated broke to 19. The close was steady at the decline.

In Chicago the market was a two-sided affair, with trading rather limited and the tendency of prices irregular, though none of the issues displayed a marked change. There were fractional advances in Sears-Roebuck common, People's Gas and McCrum-Howell shares, while in Illinois Brick, Pneumatic Tool, Can common, and some others there were shadings of fractions. Can preferred sold unchanged, considering the dividend of 1¼ per cent., and Diamond Match also was unaltered. Deposits of stocks of the local elevated railroad companies up to the close of business Wednesday, in response to the Henry A. Blair merger syndicate's purchase offer, were around 16,000 shares. This includes all of the stock that has been deposited with the Illinois Trust and Savings Bank depository up to that time, but does not include such stock as has been deposited with the National City Bank of New York since last Friday. It is estimated that about 175,000 shares have been deposited to date, which is nearly one-half of the total for which the syndicate made its bids.

In Philadelphia activity in United States Steel, which was bid up to 80, was a feature of the first hour's dealings. Later, however, it reacted with the rest of the list. The Philadelphia list, as a whole, was quiet and a trifle irregular. Tonopah Belmont was quoted ex-dividend. Lake Superior improved a fraction. The tractions fluctuated narrowly, despite the fact that the Rapid Transit Company is said to be showing receipts averaging $61,000 per day. Philadelphia Company was also inert. It is understood that the failure to declare the extra 1 per cent. dividend was for the purpose of expending this sum, which is equivalent to approximately $387,000, on betterment for the Pittsburg Railways system.

Yesterday's transactions on the various out-of-town Exchanges, as reported to THE NEW YORK TIMES, were as follows:

BALE OF 1911 COTTON SOLD.

First of Season, but No Sentimental Value Was Attached to It Here.

The first bale of 1911 cotton arrived here by express yesterday morning and was at once taken to the Cotton Exchange, where it was sold at auction at noon. The bidding made it quite evident that the sentimental interest manifested over the first of this year's crop in Texas, where it was raised, did not extend to New York. This bale brought $1,015 when it was put up at Houston, but it was knocked down yesterday at 15 cents a pound, which is actually below the prevailing price for spot cotton. The ordinary bale is 500 pounds, which would make the price $75, but this bale is said to be below that weight. At any rate the New Yorkers took no chances, and bid on it by the pound.

The cotton was raised at San Benito, Tex., in the Brownsville district, which is far to the South. It was hurried to Houston by automobile and train, and after its sale there was shipped by express to St. Louis, and from there here. It reached the market a week or more earlier than the first bale in any preceding year. Last year the first bale reached New York on June 27, in 1909 on July 1, in 1908 on June 24, and in 1907 on June 25.

Post & Flagg of 37 Wall Street offered the bale for sale here in behalf of A. G. Edwards & Co. of New York and St. Louis, who acted as agents for J. H. Jones, Vice-president of the Union National Bank of Houston, who was its first purchaser. It was Post & Flagg also who bid it in yesterday, buying it for G. L. Watkins.

The money paid for it in New York, as well as Mr. Jones's $1,015, will go to charity. The bale may be sold again in Liverpool, after which it will go to Manchester. The Commercial Club of San Benito has announced its intention to trace it into the woven cloth, some of which it will obtain and have made up into suits for President Taft, King George, and the Governor-General of Canada.

THE INHERITANCE TAX REPEAL

Safe Deposit Association Members Asked to Support the Pending Bill.

J. Lynch Pendergast, Secretary and Treasurer of the New York Safe Deposit Association, and other members of the Executive Committee sent letters yesterday to practically all the safe deposit companies in the city urging them to support the repeal of the progressive inheritance tax law passed at the extraordinary session of the Legislature last year. Its repeal has been recommended by Gov. Dix, and a bill to attain this object is now pending. In his letter Mr. Pendergast said:

> The inheritance tax measure passed last year was apparently intended to relieve the impending shortage resulting from extravagant appropriations. It amended the law relative to taxable transfers by an act destructive of the exemption which had until then shielded all estates under $10,000 from this tax, and it adopted a progressive tax wholly new in the financial policy of this State and confiscatory in some of its phases.
> It is not known that the operation of the new law will result in any material ultimate gain in revenue, but it is known beyond a doubt that the change has caused removal of capital from the State in an alarming amount. In a recent conference of financial officers in New York City especially familiar with the situation it was stated that to the knowledge of those present the funds thus removed already exceed $400,000,000, and that the number of citizens which the State has already lost in consequence is very large.

Safe deposit men say their business has suffered badly through the transfer of securities to New Jersey, hundreds of boxes having been given up in some of the institutions.

Erie Buying 60 New Engines.

In line with a recent announcement by President F. D. Underwood of the Erie to the effect that his company was committed to a policy of returning all surplus earnings to the property to bring it up to the standard of other trunk lines, it was learned yesterday that the Directors have approved an order for sixty new locomotives. Inquiries have been sent out for 35 Mikado type freight, 5 Pacific type passenger, and 20 switching engines. This is the largest single equipment order recently offered the manufacturers.

THE REAL ESTATE FIELD

Portion of Famous Alexander Hamilton Estate Sold for a Convent—$100,000 Deal on Madison Avenue—An Active Bronx and Suburban Market.

The sale of a plot on the old Alexander Hamilton estate on Washington Heights and the rumored deal for the Hoag property on East Forty-third Street, just beyond Fifth Avenue, were the chief features of interest in a tolerably quiet market yesterday.

The Forty-third Street deal, for which negotiations are said to be well advanced, involves the two old five-story dwellings at 6 and 8 East Forty-third Street, adjoining the vacant plot on the southeast corner of Fifth Avenue, owned by the Richard T. Wilson estate.

The property, which has a frontage of 41 feet by 100.5 deep, is owned by Lena K. Hoag and others, and has lately been involved in foreclosure proceedings brought by the New York Life Insurance Company to foreclose a first mortgage with interest, aggregating about $200,000. It has just been advertised for sale a auction on July 6, but a new mortgage, it is said, is about to be obtained from Mrs. Russell Sage, and when this is made, contracts for the transfer of the property at private sale are likely to be signed.

The Washington Heights deal includes a plot 45 by 99.11 on the north side of 142d Street, 125 feet west of Convent Avenue, adjoining the Church of Our Lady of Lourdes. It has been bought by the Sisters of St. Ursula of the Blessed Virgin, and will be improved with a building to be used as a convent.

The sale was made by John R. and Oscar L. Foley for the Holland Holding Company, Hudson S. Todd, President, which acquired the entire Convent Avenue block front a few months ago from David C. Leech. Near the middle of the block the old thirteen trees which tradition says Alexander Hamilton planted, stood until a few years ago.

READ THIS:

Fronting 450 feet on the beautiful Shore Road at Grand View, only 100 feet from the Hudson and commanding a superb view of the Tappan Zee Bay, is a parcel of nearly 4 acres. In the centre, with a fall of some 30 feet, is a wonderful spring, which cascades over picturesque red sandstone rocks with an unvarying and neverfailing flow. There are many great shade trees, a natural trout pool and glorious scenery. The surroundings are high-class residential—no railroad tracks nor commercial features. Gas, electric light, telephone; few minutes' walk from station and yacht club. Hour from terminal building. The cheapest, most unique building site on the Driveway. Fountains, pools, and other water effects can be had and dry weather does not affect the flow. Write me about it.

LEGAL NOTICES.
STANDARD CORDAGE COMPANY.
Sale in Foreclosure of First Mortgage.
Commonwealth of Massachusetts.—Supreme Judicial Court.—Suffolk County.—In Equity.—No. 15870.
The Equitable Trust Company of New York, as Trustee, Plaintiff, v. Standard Cordage Company; Clarence H. Kelsey as Receiver of Standard Cordage Company; The Trust Company of America, as Trustee; and John Connor and Patrick L. Connor, Co-Partners doing business under the firm name of P. L. Connor & Company, Defendants.
In the above-entitled cause the plaintiff has been adjudged entitled to a present foreclosure of a first mortgage dated April 1, 1906, executed and delivered to it by Standard Cordage Company to secure an issue of first mortgage bonds amounting in the aggregate to $2,805,373.10.
By the authority, and pursuant to the terms, of a decree entered in said cause on the 6th day of June, 1911, the undersigned, appointed Special Master therein, will sell at public auction to the highest bidder as an entirety all the properties covered by said mortgage of whatever nature or description, lying or being within the Commonwealth of Massachusetts. (Such sale will not include the properties covered by said mortgage and lying or being in the State of New York or the State of New Jersey).
Such sale will be made at the office of the Sewall & Day Mill, so called, 358 Western Avenue, in the City of Boston (Brighton District), in said Commonwealth, on
The properties to be sold include:
1.—A parcel of land together with the buildings, equipment and machinery thereon (with the exception noted below) situate in the Brighton District of said Boston and bounded in part by Western Avenue, Everett Street and Lincoln Street. This parcel is frequently known as the Sewall & Day Mill and has been estimated to contain 761,655 square feet of land.
2.—A vacant parcel of land, opposite the parcel above mentioned, extending from Western Avenue toward the Charles River. This parcel has been estimated to contain 59,599 square feet of land.
3.—A parcel of land together with the buildings, equipment and machinery thereon (with the exception noted below) situate in the Roxbury District of said Boston and bounded in part by Norfolk Avenue, Gerard Street and Kemble Street. This parcel is frequently known as the Pearson Mill and has been estimated to contain 114,919 square feet of land.
No equipment or machinery on any of said parcels will be included in the sale which, according to the terms of the first report of the Special Master herein filed June 5, 1911, is the property of the Cannabis Manufacturing Company or the property of the defendant Kelsey, as Receiver.
The real estate taxes in 1910 upon the properties to be sold were based upon an assessment which was in excess of four hundred and fifty thousand dollars ($450,000).
The above description of the properties to be sold is in general terms and is explanatory only. For a full description of the properties covered by said mortgage reference is hereby made to the said mortgage as recorded in the Registry of Deeds for Suffolk County, Book 3139, page 449.
Said decree, entered June 6, 1911, includes the following provisions:
"15.—That no bid shall be received from any person who shall not, prior to the opening of the sale, have deposited with the Special Master the sum of $5,000 in cash or by certified check upon some bank or trust company approved by the Special Master. The deposits of the unsuccessful bidders shall be returned to them at the conclusion of the sale. The deposit of the purchaser shall be applied to the payment of the purchase price if the sale is confirmed; otherwise it shall be returned to him. If the sale is confirmed and the purchaser fails to complete the payment of the purchase price, or to do any other act required to be done under the terms of this decree, or any further decree of this Court, the said deposit of $5,000 shall be forfeited by the purchaser and such sum shall be disposed of as this Court may direct.
"16.—That no bid for such properties hereby directed to be sold of less than one hundred and fifty thousand dollars ($150,000) shall be received.
"20.—That the Special Master shall, in the name of the plaintiff, pay out of the proceeds of the sale the real estate taxes for 1910 upon the properties hereby directed to be sold, amounting to $7,420.80 with interest and charges, and the plaintiff shall thereupon hold all its rights, if any, to secure the repayment of such sum from the defendant Kelsey, as Receiver (by subrogation to the rights of the taxing power or otherwise) for the benefit of the purchaser, and the purchaser shall be entitled to enforce such rights in the name of the plaintiff (holding the plaintiff harmless from all costs and liabilities).
"The said properties shall be sold subject to the lien of all other taxes or assessments, assessed or to be assessed.
"The purchaser shall be bound to pay all taxes on the said properties, (whether such taxes are assessed as taxes on real estate or as taxes on personal property), for the year 1911, and also all assessments which are a lien upon said properties at the delivery of the deed or deeds thereof, and the purchaser shall, at or before the delivery of said deed or deeds, deliver to the plaintiff a bond, with sureties, conditioned to save the plaintiff harmless from all liability for the payment of any such taxes or assessments. The terms and the sureties shall be subject to the approval of the Special Master, if the purchaser and the plaintiff cannot agree thereupon.
"22.—That within twenty-one days after such sale is confirmed the purchaser shall pay the balance of the purchase price in cash to the Special Master or shall deposit with such person as the Court shall designate at least 75 per cent. of the outstanding bonds and coupons. The purchaser shall forthwith be let into and shall take possession of the properties hereby directed to be sold. . . ."

HOLD BARBER AS SLAYER.

Witness Says Odesky's Wife Accused Him of Killing 5-Year-Old Child.

Prosecutor Wilbur Mott directed yesterday that a charge of murder be made against Zelig Odesky, a barber, of 29 Jones Street, Newark, who was arrested on Monday in connection with the killing of five-year-old Sadie Tishkowitz of 27 Jones Street. The child was found strangled to death in a barn in the rear of her home.

Odesky will be arraigned this morning before Judge Herr in the Fourth Precinct Court. Harry Tishkowitz, the father of the child, told the Newark police that when he entered Odesky's shop before the crime was discovered Odesky became pale and nervous and trembled so the razor dropped from his hand when the father mentioned his missing daughter. Another man who was sent to the shop by the detectives said that at the mention of the girl's name the barber became so agitated he dropped the clippers with which he was cutting the witness's hair.

It was on information obtained from Mrs. Smuleb Hammer and a daughter, who live in the same house with Odesky, that he was accused of the crime. Mrs. Hammer said that Odesky spent the afternoon of June 4 away from home, and when he returned Mrs. Odesky met him on the stoop and denounced him "as the murderer of little Sadie," and slapped his face, saying:

"Come in here, you loafer, you murderer; I saved you once when I got up at 3 o'clock in the morning to wash your blood-stained clothes, and I lied to save you when you murdered little Sadie, and this is the thanks I get."

Mrs. Odesky, who was also arrested, denied the story told by Mrs. Hammer, and then was released.

Former Carnegie Trust President Limps Into Court and Appears Confident.

ATTACK BEGINS ON ROBIN

Counsel for the Defense Refers to Him in Examining Talesmen—Ivins to Aid Whitman.

The jury to try Joseph B. Reichmann, a former President of the Carnegie Trust Company, on the charge of having made false statements to the State Banking Department was impaneled yesterday. To accomplish this Justice Davis sat in the Criminal Part of the Supreme Court from 2 o'clock to 7 without an intermission. At the opening of court this morning Assistant District Attorney Clark will open the case for the people, but District Attorney Whitman will examine the witnesses.

Mr. Reichmann arrived at the Criminal Court Building in his automobile and appeared to be confident of acquittal.

In spite of his recent stroke of paralysis, he was able to move about easily with the aid of a walking stick.

Mr. Reichmann is indicted under Section 665 of the penal law. It is alleged that on Sept. 8 he, as President of the Carnegie Trust Company, with Robert B. Moorehead, its Secretary, certified a report of the institution to the State Banking Department as showing its correct financial condition on Aug. 31, 1910. This report declared that the trust company had no outstanding liabilities of borrowed money and was not subject to any contingent liabilities; that bankers and banks other than reserve depositories owed the company $813,127, and that the obligations due on accounts of bills purchased was $3,198,179.

The indictment charges that this statement was untrue in that the company owed to the Northern Bank $130,000 and that there was a contingent liability in that the company was under obligation to sell and deliver on Nov. 23, 1910, on demand, 130 New York City 4¼ per cent. bonds at $1,002.50 and accrued interest. It is also charged that the bank had liabilities for notes, which it had indorsed, including one of John Cudahy for $49,500, Charles W. Chapmen, $2,066, and S. Ludlow, syndicate manager, for $47,000. There were also, the indictment alleges, other contingent liabilities not mentioned in the report, and the amount due on bills purchased was not, it is charged, $3,198,179, but less than $3,128,230. The offense of making a false statement to the Banking Department is a misdemeanor.

When Mr. Reichmann was called to the bar, Mr. Baldwin, his attorney of record, made a formal objection to the impaneling of a jury on the ground that his client's constitutional rights had been violated by his testimony before the Grand Jury. Justice Davis had already passed on the question, and it was brought up now, explained counsel, merely to show that Mr. Reichmann in no way waived his constitutional rights. The court overruled the objection and the examination of talesmen began.

District Attorney Whitman, with whom were Assistant District Attorney Clark and Special District Attorney William M. Ivins, made sure that none of the jurors accepted had any dealings with the Carnegie Trust Company, the Northern Bank, and the Washington Savings Bank, and, occasionally he added the Van Norden Trust Company and the Twelfth Ward Bank to his list. He also required assurance that the talesmen were not connected with the Standard Oil Company, the Corn Products Company, or a number of men who had formed syndicates in connection with the Carnegie Trust Company.

Mr. Baldwin, in examining for the defense, asked with a certain emphasis if each talesman knew anything of one "Robin or Robinovitch." He seemed about to argue the case with one candidate for the jury box, but was stopped by the court on Mr. Whitman's objection.

"As a matter of fact," said Mr. Baldwin, "Mr. Riechmann was not President of the Carnegie Trust Company at the time of the alleged crime. His place had been taken by a professional banker and—"

Then the court stopped him. The jury as impanelled is:

1. J. EVANS KEVENEY, fruit dealer, of 238 East Eightieth Street.
2. NATHAN LEMBEIN, real estate, 123 East Eighty-fourth Street.
3. WILLIAM H. G. VAN DUSER, clerk, 708 Cauldwell Avenue, the Bronx.
4. MURRAY PHILLIPS, clothier, 562 West 109th Street.
5. EDWARD HAGAMAN HALL, Secretary American Scenic and Historic Preservation Society, 60 Manhattan Avenue.
6. WILLIAM C. HARRISON, agent, 641 West 104th Street.
7. A. COMPTON MILLER, manager, 622 West 113th Street.
8. GEORGE H. BUDLONG, architect, 117 Wadsworth Avenue.
9. HARRIS I. HARLOW, salesman, 561 West 179th Street.
10. FRANCIS T. McKENNA, manager, 619 West 143d Street.
11. ALBERT S. GOTTLIEB, architect, 149 East Thirty-fourth Street.
12. THADDEUS S. BARLOW, Assistant Superintendent Consolidated Gas Company's Works, 501 West 171st Street.

GANG ROBS HOTEL CLERK.

But Leaders Run Into the Arms of the Police and Are Captured After a Fight.

Patrolmen Stevens and Connell, hearing a revolver fusillade in West Thirty-fifth Street early yesterday morning, ran around the corner of Seventh Avenue just in time to run into two fleeing men. A short but fierce fight ensued, and by the time the two policemen had their men subdued they were joined by two excited persons, who said the men, with six others, had held them up at the point of a pistol in the Hotel Roy, between Broadway and Seventh Avenue, in Thirty-fifth Street, and after beating them had robbed the hotel cash drawer of $163. The other six escaped eastward to Broadway. In the Jefferson Market Court the two were held by Magistrate Butts on a charge of robbery. Inspector Russell said that both had criminal records.

Charles Simons, the night clerk, at about 2:30 was behind his desk, which is screened with a high wirework partition, when two men entered and approached the desk. Thinking they wanted to register, Simons pushed the book toward them. As he looked up from his work he found himself gazing down the barrel of a revolver.

The men motioned him to come out and he did so. Then one of them backed him up against the wall, holding the revolver at his head, and the other went behind the partition, where Simon had left the cash drawer open with his bunch of keys in the lock. As they did so, six other men entered. Two stayed at the door, two went back to the elevator and two went to the rear to prevent any one coming in from the kitchen. While the robber was going through the cash drawer Albert H. Wagner, a bellboy, descended in the elevator. As he reached the main floor the two men pounced on him. Wagner was too much surprised to struggle, and his captors dragged him out and lined him up with Simons.

While the man was searching the cash drawer Simon kept his eyes on a shallow drawer immediately underneath, which contained a loaded revolver and a heavy club. The robber evidently did not notice the drawer, for he rushed out of the enclosure, stuffing the money into his pocket. The gang looked at the safe containing property of patrons, but it was locked and they did not tamper with it.

To make their way to escape clear the robbers knocked down and beat the two hotel employes. They ran out of the front door, the two who had taken the most active part heading toward Seventh Avenue and the lookouts toward Broadway. Simons rushed for the drawer containing his revolver. As he and Wagner got to the street their assailants had a hundred yards start. The clerk fired his revolver twice to attract attention, and then emptied the remaining chambers in the direction of the six fleeing toward Broadway. None of the shots is believed to have taken effect.

The two ringleaders appeared to be making good their escape when they collided with the policemen. They fought desperately, but the policemen brought them to reason with their night sticks.

When taken back to the hotel Simons and Wagner identified them as the men who had robbed the drawer and kept guard over them with a revolver. The police recovered $113 in searching the man pointed out to them by Simon, but the hotel men said there was a $50 bill still missing. A Canadian $1 bill Simon identified as having been in the cash drawer more than a week. No revolver was found on either. The man whom Simons said had robbed the drawer said he was Joseph Ross, a liquor dealer of 317 East Eighteenth Street, and the other was Louis Baumann, a clerk, of 645 Sixth Avenue.

Simons told the police he believed the first idea of the robbers was to "do him up." He said that about two weeks ago he had caused a woman to be ejected from the hotel because she seemed drunken or drugged, and that she had vowed to bring back a friend to "get even" with him. He said that several days later she had come back at an early morning hour with two men who had gone away when they saw people about the place, after assuring him that it was all right and they didn't care anything about the woman. He said he believed a "strong arm" gang was organized to beat him, but that when the men saw the open cash drawer they decided to make it a robbery. He said he recognized one of the prisoners as one of the men the woman had taken there.

Simons appeared against the two men yesterday morning, and on his testimony Magistrate Butts held them in $5,000 bail.

ROCKEFELLER SAYS GOOD-BYE

Crowd at Tarrytown Station to See Him Off for Cleveland.

Special to The New York Times.

TARRYTOWN, N. Y., June 15.—"Good-bye all, a pleasant Summer to you," were the last words from John D. Rockefeller as he stood on the step of the Lake Shore Limited to-night, waving his hand to his son and daughter-in-law and the large crowd at the station. He was starting for his Cleveland home.

The Rockefeller party came down from Pocantico Hills in two carriages. Preceding them came the big delivery wagon which brought thirty-five trunks. Mr. and Mrs. John D. Rockefeller, Jr., were on hand, having come out from New York a few minutes before.

Mr. Rockefeller looked well. He was dressed in a gray striped suit, wore a straw hat, and carried a cane. He declined to discuss public questions, but consented to pose for a picture, and the photographers made several snapshots.

Escape from Burning Steamer.

The Washburn-Crosby Company's famous Gold Medal Flour has all the bread, biscuit, cake, and pastry-making qualities of the finest wheat concentrated in it. It bakes more to the pound than other flour, saves money as well as the extra work and worry occasioned by the use of flour of less uniform quality. That is why knowing housewives always demand it.
